Index to Record and Guide Vol. LXXI.

For New York Auction Sales, Conveyances, Leases, Mortgages, Projected Buildings and Advertisers.

NOS. 1816 TO 1841. JANUARY—JUNE, INCLUSIVE. 1903.

PREFACE.

The following is the semi-annual Index of Volume LXXI. of The Record and Guide, containing complete lists of the Auction Sales, Conveyances, Leases, Mortgages and Buildings Projected in New York City during the first six months of 1903. Those wishing to keep a file for permanent reference should see that all the numbers are complete and have them bound. Cost of binding $2.00 per volume. A suitable temporary binder, holding one volume, can be obtained at the office, 14 and 16 Vesey street; price, one dollar.

THE KEY.

* Before any page No. indicates an Auction Sale.

† Before any page No. indicates a New Building Projected.

Figures in parenthesis are leases.

Figures preceded by capital letter are mortgages, said capital letter indicating the first letter of the name of the mortgagor.

Figures without any signs whatsoever are Conveyances.

EXAMPLE.

Madison st, from Jefferson st to Clinton st ..*15, †71, 209, C 215, L 216, S 217, 256, L 266, 352, C 359, 608, 660, †675, (879), (1092), 1130.

On page *15 Auction Sale will be found.

On page †71 and 675 will be found plans filed for new buildings.

On pages 209, 256, 352, 608, 660 and 1130 Conveyances will be found.

On pages C 215, L 216, S 217, L 266 and C 359 Mortgages will be found.

On pages (879) and (1092) Leases will be found.

AUCTION SALES.

The * appearing before any number indicates the page on which to find an Auction Sale.

CONVEYANCES

are distinguished by numbers without having signs attached thereto. In many instances there will be found streets, etc., indexed under pages which, on being examined, show at once that they are not in their proper order according to our customary alphabetical and numerical arrangement. A further examination will disclose the fact that while the properties appear more prominently under the other street descriptions, they nevertheless extend to the streets, etc., indicated by the Index, and having a frontage on same have been included in the paging, and it will necessitate a somewhat more thorough search than usual to locate it. The Leases, Mortgages, Auction Sales and Projected Buildings are indexed in a similar manner to the plan followed with the Conveyances.

LEASES.

The figures in parenthesis denote that the transaction on the page given is Leasehold, an assignment of lease or a lease running for a short or long term of years. This explanation is made so that subscribers searching for transfers in fee can at once distinguish between the former and the latter without referring to the pages mentioned.

MORTGAGES.

All the mortgages are indexed against the street or avenue in which the property is located, and memoranda added to enable searchers to find the particulars in "The Record and Guide." See "Example." The streets and avenues are so subdivided that very few references are necessary. All readers of "The Record and Guide" are aware that the mortgages appear weekly in alphabetical order, so that they have, so to speak, a weekly index of mortgagors. This publication of an index against property completes the information which those interested may require.

PROJECTED BUILDINGS

are included under the same general heading, and are distinguished by the † which precedes the numbering.

Auction Sales, Conveyances, Leases, Mortgages and Projected Buildings.

STREETS.

NOTE.—Longitudinal streets, roads and places, such as the Bowery, Boulevard, Broadway, etc., which run parallel with the various avenues, will be found in alphabetical order amongst the avenues.

Vol. LXXI. JANUARY 3, 1903. No. 1816.

IT was with a feeling of relief and satisfaction that Wall street watched the expiring of the old year. Money remained dear until the last moment; but, although the preceding three months had witnessed a good deal of liquidation which had not been unaccompanied by anxieties for the general situation, no really serious consequences developed, a spirit of recovery had already developed itself and the main features of the situation were encouraging. There is no likelihood of money becoming cheap at once; on the contrary, the extended commercial demand and the reluctance the West and South display to returning the funds they have drawn so freely from this centre make that impossible. A five to six per cent. time rate is, therefore, likely to be kept up for a good while yet. Yet there are indications that the return movement has begun or is about to begin, the exchange rates between the various other cities and New York promise this, and as the movement takes shape and develops itself money will work easier and be more obtainable. At the close this week large amounts were offered on time at from five to five and a half per cent., though some large loaners said they could place all they had for six months at six per cent. Presumably they availed themselves of the opportunity, though reports of considerable sums placed, either on time or call at the extreme rates for either were not received with absolute confidence. Call money should become considerably cheaper, as the unemployed balances at the banks will grow as funds return from commercial use, and the first of the year disbursements work themselves into Wall street again. As to business generally, from all sides the most gratifying accounts are received. Those of the railroad authorities who have expressed themselves upon the subject, and who, taken together represent a very extensive territory, are unanimous in predicting another year of good business, and their judgment may be accepted as based upon a larger view of the conditions that make up a good or bad position, than probably that of any other set of business men. All these things make for higher prices upon the stock market. Buying there is much more speculative than investment at present, as is indicated by the favor with which low-priced issues are treated. This is natural under the circumstances. Gilt-edged securities are not favored because the difference between their return and the carrying charges is still on the wrong side and, except in the few instances where development promises an advance in quotations more than sufficient to offset that, they are neglected. Still looking at the situation as a whole the opinion must be that as a general thing prices will advance further. Room professionalism is inclined to work for lower prices, but seems to be met by an opposing force from outside stronger than itself.

NOT a little amusing nor uninstructive of the change that is coming over British and Continental business, is the moderated view now taken of the competition of the United States. As the outlook improves fear of this country is growing less and some that used to refer with awe to the American "terror," now flippantly speak of the American "bogey." The London "Times," in discussing the claim that American railroad management is superior to British, says: "We may perhaps hear less of this wonderful superiority during the next year or two, for things are expected to happen which will reduce admiration for American business methods within reasonable limits." The "Times" evidently considers the admiration hitherto expressed for our methods unreasonable, and bases its opinion upon an expectation of trouble if not disaster soon to come upon us by reason of these methods. The "Times" and others who are now belittling what they once feared or admired, have still something to learn of the causes at the root of our wonderful success. These they will appreciate better when our home demands slacken and our highly mobilized and organized labor and capital turns its attention to foreign markets to work off their surplus products. They will then understand the value of the work of organization that has been done here in the past ten years. However, the less flattering view of ourselves and our methods is agreeable and acceptable to us when taken simply as an indication of improved confidence in foreign business circles, because, as we have said before, it is much more profitable to compete in a market where prices are upheld by domestic demands than in one where both foreign and domestic producers are cutting each other's throats. European security markets are hesitating at the movement because of the possibilities of political complications involved in the Morocco incident, but there is as little likelihood of anything serious evolving from that than there was in the Venezuelan matter. The tendency is too much to dispose of all such questions diplomatically to permit them to be seriously disturbing factors or to allow them to become matters for real anxiety. As with us, that the monetary requirements of the year in Europe were met without revealing weakness in the financial situation is a source of gratification and of confidence in the outlook for the future. Prices generally were firm on the Exchange, and it is permissible to expect an enlargement of the buying from this on. Consols are freely recommended for purchase, on the ground that they have for some time been accumulated for a rise, which will be assisted by the promised reduction of the income tax. This tax is now locally estimated as equivalent to about six per cent. of the return of the security and as the Chancellor of the Exchequer recently said, that in any consideration of relief in the matter of taxation, the burdens upon income were entitled to first attention, it is presumed that a substantial reduction of the income tax will be made and that this will materially aid the bull movement in consols. Owing to their exemption from the tax and the vastly improved crop and financial prospects of the dependencies British Colonial loans have had the preference of the European investor over the typical investment security.

IN spite of the confident statements of the chairman of the State Railroad Commission, there should be small expectation that the interference of that body will issue in any effective amelioration of the existing transit evils. At best it can result in only a few makeshifts, which will carry the railroads over the present agitation, but which will leave the roots of the trouble untouched. Two propositions can be laid down in the matter as fundamental: (1) that the railroad companies will always crowd their cars as full as public opinion and official supervision will permit; (2) that the city is confronted, not only by a temporary crisis, but a permanent evil, which none but the most radical measures will cure. The first step that should be taken is a study of the question in all its aspects by a competent local commission, with a view both to providing regular supervision, and to initiating the measures that look towards a permanent cure. In the meantime there can be no doubt that the elevated roads could be made much more serviceable by means of a few comparatively unimportant changes; and it is only fair to the management of that company that, so far as necessary, it should be legally authorized to make these changes. Anything the company needs in the way of third-track privileges and connections between the different branches of its system, should be granted on condition that it makes sufficient and adequate improvements in its car service, and enlarges its stations at certain congested points. The details of such an arrangement can only be determined after a full investigation; but it is obvious that the elevated roads can be made indefinitely more serviceable than they now are, and that, since they will remain in any event an integral part of the transit system of the metropolis, they should be developed to their highest capacity. The former management of the Manhattan Company always refused to meet the city half-way in planning these desirable connections; but, perhaps, the new management will prove to be more amenable to public opinion and more desirous of securing the good-will of its patrons.

THOUGH the Board of Estimate have accepted some of the most important of the property owners' amendments to the New York Central's plan for the Park avenue improvement, the owners themselves are not wholly satisfied that all that can be done is done. The adoption of the extension of the avenue from Forty-ninth street to Forty-fifth street is a very gratifying concession, as is also that relating to the location of the proposed power plants, which, if not on the East River are not to be more than two blocks east of it. Something has been gained, too, in the conditions that are to accompany a franchise, particularly that relating to the incidence of the cost of the improvement and that obliging the railroad company to substitute electricity for steam as a motive power. But there is still dissatisfaction with the plan as a whole and particularly with the grade of the bridges which it is proposed to build to serve as communications for traffic across the avenue. This grade of four per cent. would not, it is claimed, be considered serious if it was for a short distance only, but as it will be necessary to carry the approaches to the bridges back a considerable distance on either side, there are grave objections to it. To heavy traffic it will be a serious obstacle, especialy in the winter season. There are spots in the city's roadways where the grade is as much and others where it is more, and if any one wants to know what their effect is, they have only to visit them to find how carefully they are avoided by traffic. It is hardly necessary to point out that the scene of the improvement under discussion, especially at the southerly end, will be one of great activity in the coming years, and it is, therefore, necessary to look ahead and as far as possible make the facilities of movement as accessible and as easy as the whole circumstances of the case will allow.

Real Estate Situation.

The Last Week of 1902.

The last week of 1902 made a worthy ending to the year. There have been over sixty transactions reported, which, for a week broken by a holiday and hampered by a more than usual holiday feeling, is an unusual record. Most of the smaller items are concerned with property that is situated south of 59th street, and a very large part of them with properties south of 14th street. The Harlem and Washington Heights sections have been almost entirely neglected, which may be partly due to the almost intolerable over-crowding that still continues upon the surface and elevated roads. The most important siugle piece of news is the statement that arraugements have practically been completed for the absorption of the Thompson-Starret Co. by the United States Realty Co. This absorption was foreshadowed when the merger was originally made. It removes from the path of the United Company its most formidable competitor in the construction business, and largely increases the plant and facilities of that corporation. Large as those facilities are, it is apparent that the construction business, now being offered all over the country, will strain them, and that an enlargement of the New York equipment will also enable the company to take care of its out-of-town business to better advantage. The position of the independent builders should, however, rather be improved by the consolidation than injured, for it may be doubted whether the United Company will hereafter obtain as large a proportion of the business as the two separate construction companies did before the merger. There have also been two important sales during the week, although in neither case has any inkling as yet been given of the ultimate purchaser or the price. In the case of the Hotel Langham, however, it is apparent that, whoever will take the property over eventually, any improvement except a handsome residence is out of the question. The Vanderbilts would not have gone to the trouble and expense of preventing the erection of a huge hotel on one corner only to have the way open for a similarly objectionable building on the other side of the street. In the case, however, of the other important sale, that of the Hotel Virginia, the kind of improvement, if any, is more doubtful. The triangle in question contains less than 5,000 square feet, and is consequently too small to be advantageously used for a theatre or hotel. Further down-town similar triangles have been uniformly improved by office buildings; but an office building is not a possibility at present. The fact is that the Grand Circle is still an undeveloped region, which is obviously destined for important business, but which is not as yet in a position to live up to its prospects.The property thereabouts is, however, strongly held, and doubtless in the end some concerted attempt will be made at improvement.

The Old Year and the New.

The year that has just closed has been one of the most remarkable years in the history of New York real estate. We postpone a detailed account of its salient characteristics until next week, so that the necessary figures can be more fully and more carefully prepared, but in the meantime, a few introductory words as to some of the most general aspects of the present situation may prove useful. There can be no doubt that the great majority of property-owners and builders are looking forward to a most prosperous year, and that there is every reason to believe that their anticipations will be fulfilled. Operations in the real estate and building market have obtained a momentum which just at present is not to be denied. It was to be supposed that a combination of three such obstacles as high-priced building sites, high-priced building materials, and high-priced money would have put a practical quietus upon a business which requires such shrewd and close calculations, as do the real estate and building operations of the present time, and if such has not the result, it has been because the market presents opportunities that are even greater than the obstacles. Moreover there are no indications that its present conditions are not healthy. Prices have in some instances been pushed up to a point that are not justified by any possible income which the property can produce just now; but these cases are not numerous, and where they have occurred, they have been apparently justified by the prospects of the neighborhood in which the property is situated. But the great fact is that income returns have for the most part kept pace with prices. Business buildings in all parts of the city are rented almost as soon as completed; flats and tenements have throughout the whole city probably a smaller proportion of vacancies than at any time for years. There are no indications at present of over-building in any one department of the business, except, perhaps, that of expensive residences. On the contrary, in certain lines there is every indication that the demand is running ahead of the supply. The coming year, consequently, should be as active as the two preceding years, if not more so. The investment position of real estate is better than it has been for years, both because of increased rentals and prospective decreased taxes. The effect of the new transit improvements will begin to be felt in 1903. The market is kept well in hand by the shrewd speculative interests that dominate it. There is every prospect consequently of a continued healthy expansion.

Skyscrapers in 1902.

THE present extraordinary traffic with which all the transit routes in Manhattan are choked has called renewed attention to the causes which bring about this congestion. In the main, of course, the great cause is the enormous and increasing concentration of dwelling and business accommodations along the line of the central ridge of the island—that is, along the line of Broadway and 5th avenue. The amount of this concentration in any one year can be measured by the number of tall buildings erected, and the influence of these tall buildings lends peculiar interest to the rate at which these "skyscrapers" are now being built.

There is a very general impression abroad that the construction of skyscrapers in Manhattan is at the present time on the wane. This impression has been created by the fact that the owners of very tall buildings have found it advisable in a large number of cases to protect their light and air by the purchase of immediately adjoining property, which has been used subsequently in a number of cases as the sites of new business buildings of very moderate height. It must be distinctly understood however, that these cases, so far from proving that the construction of skyscrapers is on the wane, only indicate that the demand for sites for new buildings of this kind is greater than ever before, and consequently extraordinary measures must be taken to protect existing properties. Twenty story buildings, in spite of the increased cost of land and building materials, have never before been such good business propositions as they are at present. Moreover, there is a much livelier movement than ever before in the direction enlarging the area within which such buildings are erected. They are gradually but steadily spreading up along the whole middle division of Manhattan. Office buildings are now erected, not only on and near lower Broadway, but they have become commercially profitable along upper Broadway, in the vicinity of Madison Square, on 34th street, and on 42d street. The lofts that are now built, on the average, both cover a larger area, and reach a greater height than ever before. The newer buildings of this character that are situated along the Broadway or 5th avenue line rarely contain less than ten or eleven stories. As to the hotels or apartment-houses any one with eyes can see how many tall buildings of this character are being erected in the Greeley and Longacre Square sections, on 5th avenue north of 42d street, and in the vicinity of 72d street and Broadway.

The extent of this movement will be shown by the number of plans for "skyscrapers" filed during 1902. In all there were some 93 of these buildiugs projected to be erected at an estimated cost of $37,778,000, the average for each building being $406,000. Consideriug that there have been plans filed for an aggregate of 811 buildings to be erected in Manhattan at an estimated cost of $80,446,925, it will be seen that about 11 per cent. of the total number of buildings accounts for 47 per cent. of the aggregate cost. In the total given above all buildings as much as nine stories and over have been included in the estimate. It is true that a nine-story building is not very much of a skyscraper; but it is enough of one to be included in the present list.

Of the 93 buildings mentioned above 18 were office buildings to be erected at a cost of $9,607,000, 29 were loft buildings or warehouses to be erected at a cost of $8,805,000, 39 were hotels or apartment hotels to be erected at an estimated cost of $17,171,000, and 7 were apartment houses to be erected at an estimated cost of $2,195,000. Or to classify them from another point of view 11 out of the 93 buildings were fifteen stories or more high, 30 were either 12 or 13 stories high, and 52 were 9 or 10 or 11 stories high. The 11 buildings over 15 stories were estimated to cost $11,900,000; the 30 buildings either 12 or 13 stories high were estimated to cost $14,300,000, while 52 9, 10 or 11-story buildings were estimated to cost $11,578 000.

More important, however, than the height of these buildings is their distributions. Of the 11 buildings fifteen or more stories in height eight were office buildings situated down-town—all except two right in the financial district. Of the remaining three one is to be located on Broadway in the dry-goods district, and the other two on 5th avenue between 55th and 60th streets. Of the 30 twelve-story buildings, seven were office buildings, all but three of which are situated down-town. The other three are located between 23d and 34th streets. Twenty-one of the twelve-story buildings were apartment hotels or houses situated in the middle districts of the city. The nine, ten and eleven-story buildings were also all but sixteen of them situated north of 14th street. Or to sum up the way in which these buildings are distributed in the most general way, only thirty out of 93 buildings nine stories or over in height were situated south of 14th street, the other 63 being located north of 14th street; but it should be added that it is the tallest buildings which are most likely to be located down-town.

Without a single exception, however, every one of these more than usually high buildings will be erected either on Broadway or 5th avenue or within a few hundred yards distant therefrom. These buildings provide residence and business accommodations for thousands of people, who in their ordinary movements, must necessarily travel along one or two lines. It is facts of this kind which explain the existing congestion, as well as suggest the only way in which it can be remedied. Either new streets will have to be built, which spread this pressure over a larger space or else the avenues along this line of concentration will have to be practically duplicated. This dilemma should he hammered into people's heads until they appreciate that it can neither be mitigated nor avoided.

Tenement House Building in 1902.

The Record and Guide recently received the letter printed herewith, making inquiry as to the existing rate of tenement house buildings in New York:

To the Editor of THE RECORD AND GUIDE:

Of late the "Times" has articles about the new tenement house law, in which it maintains that the new law does not restrict building in any way. In the "Times" of Nov. 20 is the report of Mr. R. Fulton Cutting, in which he reports the same.

Would you be kind enough to let me have the statistics corroborating these facts. I am inclined to think that the comparisons between this year and last will show a large falling off of all building operations for dwelling purposes. And, particularly so in tenement houses, renting above $30.

With best thanks for the favor of your reply, I remain,

Very truly yours,

MILTON E. OPPENHEIMER.

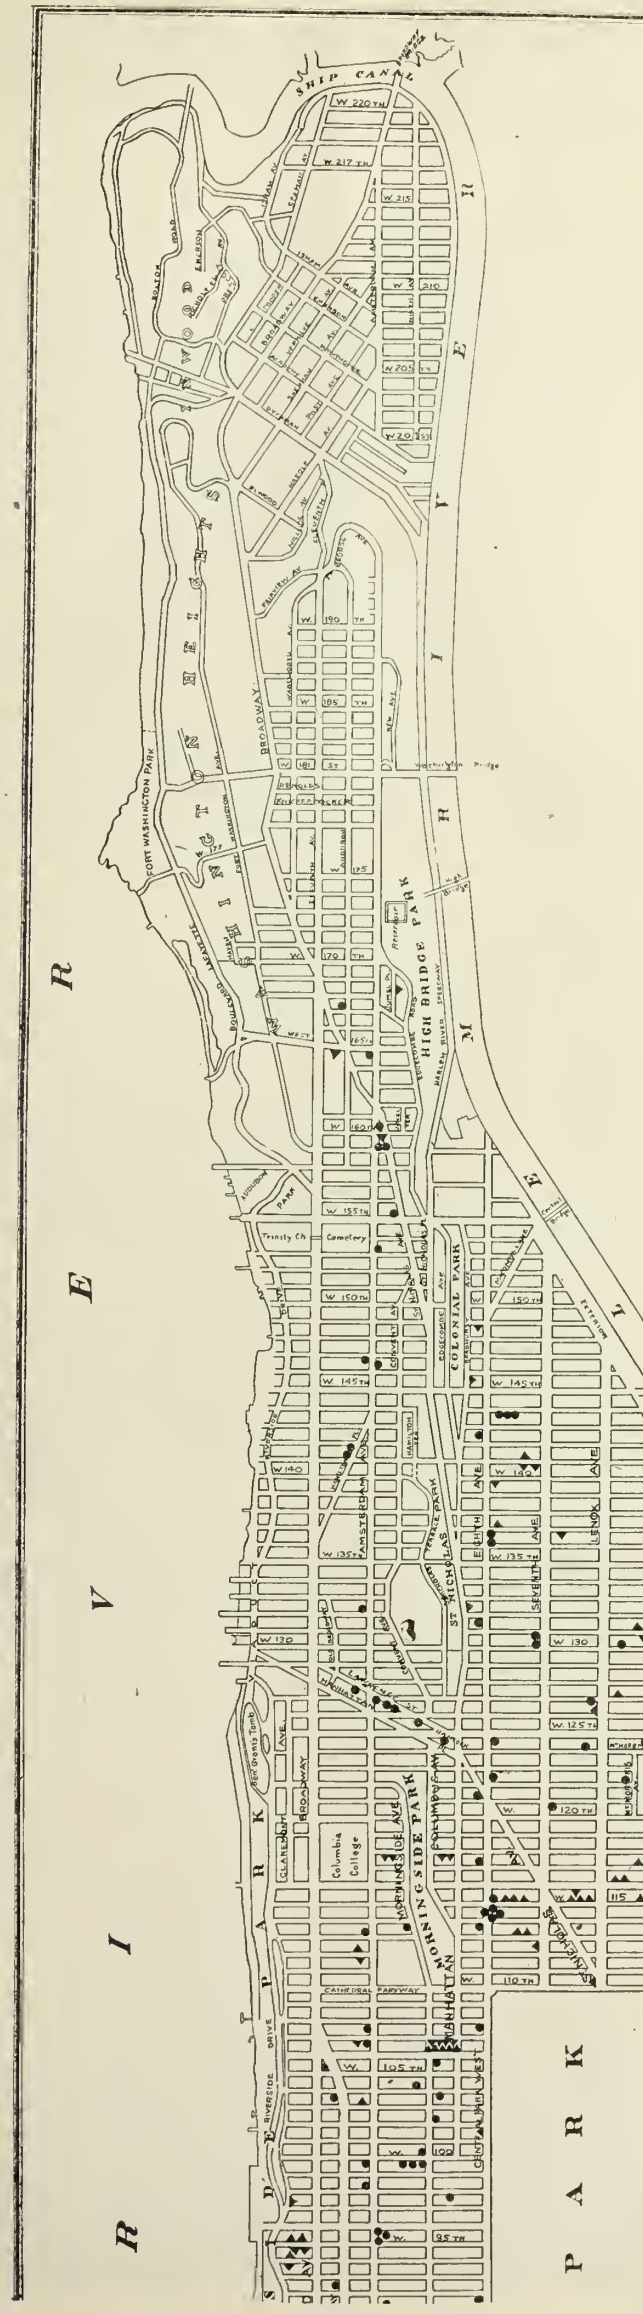
Our correspondent is in some measure justified in doubting the accuracy of the assertions quoted above. The figures indicate that during the past year the building of tenement houses has been proceeding at a somewhat slower rate than it has during any previous year since 1895; but it should be added that the falling-off is by no means considerable, and that in all probability the new law will have no such effect during the year of 1903. We give below a table, which shows in some detail the amount of tenement house building which has taken place during every year since and including 1895. The figures for 1902 are the official figures of the Tenement House Department for the first eleven months of the year; and since the plans for new buildings are filed with that department some days or weeks before they are filed with the Building Department, they may be taken to represent with sufficient accuracy the tenement house construction of the year, as shown by the figures of the Building Department. As a matter of fact they almost precisely coincide with the figures of the Building Department for the whole twelve months.

The figures include only the buildings which are actually being erected, and consequently differ from the figures published in the past by the Record and Guide, which, on the assumption that about the same proportion of plans would be abandoned every year, included all plans filed. Through the courtesy of the Tenement House and Building Departments, we are in a position, however, to subtract from the total filings the number of abandoned plans; and the comparison, consequently, is made upon the same basis for each year. The following table is the most complete and accurate ever published:

TENEMENT HOUSE OPERATIONS.

| | No. of tenements. | Estimated cost. | Average. |
|---|---|---|---|
| 1902 | 233 | $15,561,000 | $66,700 |
| 1901 | 649 | 30,820,000 | 47,400 |
| 1900 | 456 | 22,831,000 | 50,600 |
| 1899 | 1,378 | 52,305,000 | 37,900 |
| 1898 | 978 | 31,449,000 | 32,100 |
| 1897 | 908 | 26,595,000 | 29,200 |
| 1896 | 608 | 16,711,000 | 27,400 |
| 1895 | 1,046 | 25,877,000 | 24,700 |

In drawing inferences from the foregoing table, we will take for comparison rather the estimated cost of the tenements than the number, because under the new law the plot upon which the average tenement is built, and consequently its cost, has been increased by over one-third. The same number of tenements under the new law would accommodate a much larger number of people. Such a basis of comparison makes no allowance for the varying cost of building materials; but since these materials are unusually high at present, this source of variation will be particularly favorable to the figures for 1902.



It will be seen that according to the table less money was spent on tenement houses in Manhattan during the past year than during any year that is included. The high-water mark was reached in 1899, with 1,378 tenements, to cost $52,305,000. The years 1896 and 1902 share the distinction of being at or near the low water mark, and there is little difference between them so far as the amount of money spent in concerned. The years 1895, 1897, 1898, 1900 and 1901 are the medium years, varying between the expenditure of about $22,000,000, and that of about $30,000,000. Throughout the whole period it may be noticed that there was an almost uninterrupted increase in the average cost of a tenement house, an average which began at $24,700 and ended at $66,700.

The question as to the significance of these figures is, however, a very complicated one, because of the many different causes which have stimulated or retarded the erection of tenement houses. On the whole, however, it may be stated that the influence of restrictive laws, which had been or were about to be passed, was the most important influence of all. In three of the years included in the table restrictive laws went into force, viz., 1895, 1899 and 1901. During each of these years the number of tenement houses erected were very considerable, because builders made strenuous efforts to anticipate the severer restrictions which were promised; and each of these years was naturally followed by a year in which somewhat fewer tenements were built. Thus, the $25,877,000 spent in 1895, partly in anticipation of the so-called "Gilder" law was succeeded by a $16,711,000 year in 1896. The $52,305,000 year of 1899, which was exceptionally large, because the new Building Code went into effect in the December of 1899, was succeeded by a $22,831,000 year in 1900. Finally, the cost of the tenements erected in 1902 was only half of the $30,820,000 which they cost in 1901. In each of these instances, however, it is an open question how much of the diminution in new building during the second year was produced by the over-building of the first year, and how much by the severer restrictions of the new law. So far as 1902 is concerned, it looks as if the major part of the diminution was brought about by the provisions of the new Tenement House Law. For it can hardly be said that taking the year as a whole, there was any actual over-building in 1901. The cost of the tenement houses erected in that year is not much greater than those erected in 1897, and is actually smaller than those erected in 1898. It is to be classed rather as a normal year than as an excessive one like 1899, and it should be noticed that excessive as were the number erected in 1899, still the cost of those erected in 1900, the year following, is some $7,000,000 greater than those erected in 1902. It is true that the price of building materials, while increasing the totals for 1902, may also have discouraged building to some extent; but we do not believe that this was an important retarding cause, for, as we showed recently, the increased cost of building materials was felt much more in frame or fireproof buildings than in non-fireproof tenements.

The reason that the new Tenement House Law has for the time being restricted somewhat the building of tenements is that two types of building which were very popular under the old law are discouraged or prevented by the new. These two types were the six or seven-story tenement erected on a single lot, and the seven-story semi-fireproof apartment houses. Under the new law it pays so much better to erect tenements on a plot of not less than 37 feet frontage that builders always try to secure that much space on the street. In some cases this cannot be done, but whereas in 1901 and the years before a very large proportion of the tenements were built not more than 25 feet wide, during 1902 only 15 out of 233 buildings measured 25 feet or less on the street. It was undoubtedly an excellent thing hygienically to discourage the 25-foot lot, but the discouragement hampers building operations, because it is sometimes very difficult, particularly on the lower East Side, to buy two adjoining lots.

As to the extinction of the seven-story, semi-fireproof, elevator apartment houses, that is one of the most obvious and least desirable effects of the new law. The gradual increase in the average cost of each tenement previous to the passage of the new law was due to the suddenly increased popularity of these seven-story apartment houses, erected generally on three or four lots, containing electric elevators supplied with power from the street, and representing an investment sometimes of several hundred thousand dollars. What this popularity amounted to may be judged from the following figures: In 1897 plans were filed for eight seven-story flats to be erected above 59th st; in 1898 thirty-four were projected at an estimated cost of $4,465,000. The following year showed a still further increase, in that plans were filed for 100 of this type of building, calling for an expenditure of $12,674,000; while in the seventeen months, from January 1, 1900, to June 1, 1901, 216 such buildings were projected at an estimated cost of more than $30,000,000.

Under the new law, however, a builder has been obliged to take his choice between a six-story apartment house or one which was built fireproof. The consequence has been a considerable diminution of apartment as distinguished from tenement house building. The distinction is sometimes difficult to make; but it is safe to say that a tenement house that costs as much as or more than $50,000 for a 50-foot frontage comes pretty near to being a flat, and on the basis of this distinction, there have been in 1902 only 43 six-story flats to cost $3,710,000, to which should be added 7 fireproof flats to cost $2,195,000. This is a great falling-off from the number erected previous to April 15, 1901, particularly when it is remembered that very few cheap private dwellings are now being built on the West Side or in Harlem. The trouble is, of course, that the six-story flats do not pay as well as the seven-story flats, on medium-priced property, and they do not pay at all on expensive property. The old seven-story apartment houses were erected in large numbers on upper Broadway, West End av and Central Park West, but under the new law a builder cannot well erect anything but fireproof buildings on this class of property. The six-story flats are erected only on the cheaper streets and avenues of the West Side.

We take it, consequently, that the figures published above very completely demonstrate the statement that the severer restrictions of the new law have throughout the whole of the past year somewhat impeded the erection of tenements. But the facts by no means justify the inference that the building of new tenements will not slowly readjust itself to the conditions of the new law. On the contrary, it may be expected that during the coming year a considerable increase will be recorded in the planning of all classes of tenement houses. During the past eighteen months the demand for accommodation in both flats and tenements has been more than overtaking the supply, and under such circumstances builders will have every inducement to erect more of these buildings, being encouraged thereto, also, by the prospect that trains will be running in the Subway before the end of 1903. There are, indeed, good reasons for expecting that if business continues good and it is not too difficult to borrow money, that 1903 will be one of the most active years in the construction of all kinds of tenements that the city has ever witnessed.

Bankruptcy.

A decision has just been handed down by the United States Circuit Court of Appeals in the Second Circuit that the title of a trustee in bankruptcy is not subject to mechanics' liens filed after the filing of a petition in bankruptcy; that is to say, the money owing to a bankrupt contractor by the owner will be distributed rateably amongst his creditors, and lienors who file their liens after the filing of the petition in bankruptcy will not be preferred. The opinion appears in the "New York Law Journal" of December 19. (In the Matter of Herman Roeber, bankrupt.)

The January Number of the Architectural Record

In the January number of the "Architectural Record" there are illustrations and descriptions of some of the newest and most interesting buildings erected both in New York and Paris. It contains, for instance, the most complete set of pictures yet published, showing the exterior of the new Carnegie residence, on 5th av, between 90th and 91st sts. Both the exterior and interior of the new building of the New York Chamber of Commerce are also fully illustrated. An article of peculiar interest is that by M. Charles Fromentin, director of the Galliéra Museum, in Paris, upon the institution of which he is the head, and which is the most modern and the most carefully finished of all the Paris museums. The series of papers on contemporary French sculptors is continued, and some reproductions given of the works of M. Pierre Roche, who seems to find Loie Fuller a peculiarly fascinating subject. An article of a very different kind is that by Mr. Charles de Kay, describing the pleasant life and characteristic houses of a colony of New York artists and others, situated at Easthampton, L. I. M. Jean Schopfer, on the other hand, describes the furniture of the Paris streets, a matter of particular importance, considering the unfurnished condition of the New York streets. Altogether it is a number of exceptional contemporary interest. Copies may be had on all the stands of the Manhattan News Company and at the office of publication, Nos. 14 and 16 Vesey st, New York City. Price, 25 cents.

Pay in Advance?

EXPRESSIONS OF OPINION UPON ONE OF COMPTROLLER GROUT'S NEW TAX MEASURES.

Comptroller Grout has thought of several excellent ways of improving the municipal financial system, and, as our readers know, he has prepared for introduction at the earliest day of the Legislature four bills that, when enacted into law, will "revolutionize" the system. One provides for a change in the Sinking Fund, by which $8,500,000 of revenues of the Sinking Fund will be turned into the General Fund and cut down by so much the tax budget. A second makes new regulations for the paying of taxes, whereby this shall begin with January 1st, with a rebate of 3 per cent. up to December 1st, thus giving the city ready cash with which to pay its bills between January 1st and October 1st. The third measure is one providing for the payment of improvement assessments in five annual instalments, instead of in one sum, as at present. The fourth and last gives the Finance Department power to issue bonds for permanent improvements, instead of raising money by budget appropriations.

All are designed with the praiseworthy object of saving the city money, and of giving it more funds to do with. Real estate men are now particularly interested in the measure providing for paying assessments in instalments, and some opinions that have reached this office are here given, with the desire of shedding light and not of criticising. Mr. Grout explains his intentions thus:

PAYABLE IN INSTALMENTS.

"The bill provides that such assessments be laid before the improvement is made, and be payable in five annual instalments, the work not to be contracted for or executed until two-fifths of the cost has been paid in. This will substantially relieve both the property-owners and the city, for it will make payment for the one easier and reduce the expenditure or loan of credit of the other."

In other words, the proposal is to pay partly in advance for the grading and paving of streets, the laying of sewers, and such like betterments. To this feature opposition has developed, though the good intentions of the Comptroller are esteemed. Property-owners in the Bronx and Washington Heights, while not opposed to paying in instalments, have reasons why they prefer not to pay in advance, however advantageous this might be for the City Treasury.

WOULD HINDER SPECULATION.

Mr. Levy, of B. S. Levy & Co., No. 203 Broadway, says: "You may put me on record as being opposed to the passage of such a bill. I cannot see in what way it could be of advantage to any one. It would be a great detriment to real estate speculation, and nine-tenths of real estate dealing in New York City is done by speculators. No man is willing to pay for what he cannot receive, and the payment in advance of assessments would inflate the price of property too much beyond the apparent value."

Chas. A. Berrian, No. 141 Broadway, said: "The bill does not meet with my approval. I fail to see the benefit to the property-owner. The payment of assessments in instalments is, of course, an easement of payment to the taxpayer, but the method can be employed after the improvement is completed as well as before, as the bill stipulates."

Mr. Berrian fears that unlimited law suits would result from the signing of contracts for improvements several years before actual work would begin, as prices of material and labor fluctuate. "No contractor is willing to complete a job at a loss, and no taxpayer is willing to forego an improvement for which he has paid two-fifths of the cost," he continued. "Every purchaser by searching the title can learn of all assessments levied against the property he intends to buy. If he neglects this, he is, of course, surprised with bills for improvement he thought already paid for. Would his surprise be any the less if the bills were for unpaid instalments of contemplated improvements?"

A large holder of Washington Heights realty remarked:

REFORMS SUGGESTED.

"I think our whole system of assessing is immature. Instead of assessors periodically appointed without due consideration of their abilities, there should be a board of commissioners, fewer in number, but of expert knowledge, to continue in office permanently. The salaries should be sufficient to attract the highest ability. At the hands of such men property-owners might expect justice.

"Another reform should be in connection with condemnation proceedings. The interval between the time when the property is taken and when payment is tendered runs into a number of years. In the case of the Colonial Park it was five years. In the meantime the former owner must hire and pay for counsel to protect his rights, and lose all income from the property besides.

"How any one can tell two years in advance what an improvement will cost I cannot understand. Spreading the cost over a number of payments is well enough, but the idea of paying several years in advance will scarcely find favor among property-owners."

Thomas L. Walker, head of the firm of Hall J. How & Co., No. 171 Broadway, said: "The present system of assessing property-owners is all right. They know for what they are paying and when they must pay. I find that on Manhattan Island taxpayers welcome every improvement, and are willing to meet the expense. True, in the Bronx, improvements may sometimes be premature, and thus fall heavily on the property-owners, the locality not being sufficiently built up. I fail to see how advance assessments could remedy this, however. This matter of assessment is not the terror many people believe it to be, and I am opposed to any change."

Mr. Simons, of the firm of L. J. Phillips, No. 158 Broadway, believes that the method of assessing property-owners for improvements in annual instalments during the actual progress of the work would be a good thing; the assessment days to be definitely stipulated. This would ease the payment of those who did not wish to pay in bulk, and at the same time any purchaser of property under improvement could readily ascertain in what condition the matter stood. The idea of obtaining bids from contractors for work to be done at some indefinite future time, he believes to be impracticable, and the plan of obtaining two-fifths the assessment from taxpayers before beginning work, and the remainder after completion, he thinks is no improvement on the present method. He fails to see how any change could both benefit the taxpayer and the city. The easiest way to obtain money is in bulk, and the city already does that or charges heavy interest for non-payment. Then, too, if the city borrows at 3½% and loans at 6 and 7%, how can it be a loser?"

Status of the Tunnel Plans.

Now that the legal obstructions have been removed from the path of the Pennsylvania tunnels and subway, the first work of the builders will be to equip the Atlantic av division of the Long Island Railroad for operation by electric power. Inasmuch as but one year and a-half is the allowance of time for doing this part, it must needs be, and will be, proceeded with energetically. Then, next to be taken up will be the boring of the East River tunnel.

Something concerning the exact status of the plans can now be communicated publicly; and it may be said, first, that the plans that have been submitted in general outline by Chief Engineer Charles M. Jacobs, of the Pennsylvania Railroad, will be carried out. Important details, particularly in connection with the subaqueous tubes, and the Manhattan Island subway, yet await definite determination, where time is not so pressing. George Gibbs, who was recently made a vice-president and director of Westinghouse, Church, Kerr & Co., is the mechanical expert of the engineering commission supervising the plans, and he will have immediate charge of the devising and installing of the electrical equipment, including the erecting and furnishing of the power stations.

The other members of this commission are Colonel C. W. Raymond, U. S. A., chief engineer in charge of New York harbor improvements; Alfred Noble, the engineer in immediate charge of the East River tunnel; and Bridge Commissioner Lindenthal, of New York, who is also one of the Pennsylvania's consulting engineers, together with the railroad company's chief engineer, Charles M. Jacobs, who also, acting with his private firm, made the original plans for the Hudson River tunnel of the New York & New Jersey Railroad Company.

The architectural plans for the terminal and intermediate station buildings will come from the office of McKim, Mead & White. Hitherto nothing could be learned as to the proposed capacity of the power stations, but the Record and Guide has ascertained that the one at Long Island City will be furnished with Westinghouse turbines of 5,500 kilowatts each, the number of turbines not yet decided, but to be at first equal to the requirements of the Atlantic av division, and to be increased as other sections of the general scheme are completed and brought into use, the total necessary power and capacity to be developed by experience. Other than the turbines, this powerhouse will contain no elements of particular novelty, but will be like some other power stations so far as the limitations of the site will allow. The general layout of the New York Edison Company's "Waterside" station is being followed, except that, as indicated above, Westinghouse turbines will be employed in connection with Westinghouse generators, instead of Westinghouse engines, as in the case of the Waterside equipment.

A second powerhouse will be on the Jersey shore, and should a third be found necessary, a site is already available on Manhattan Island. The construction of the power stations and terminal buildings will be the subject of separate contracts. For the tunneling there will be three main parts; namely, the East River, Manhattan Island and the North River divisions.

While it is now definitely settled that the under-water tunnels will be in the form of tubes, with an outer casing of iron and an inner lining of concrete, it has not yet been determined how the tubes shall be supported underneath, whether by piers, piles, the Sooysmith freezing device, or in some other way. The plans of Engineer Jacobs are being formulated in detail by Westinghouse, Church, Kerr & Co., and the finished parts are being sent to the engineering department of the Pennsylvania Railroad piecemeal for approval. The specifications will be in shape for bidders for the first part of the work within a fortnight.

The precise method of tunneling will be left to the contractors. The plans will be broad enough to allow of some choice and ingenuity in this respect, but the method that is now being followed in the Hudson River trolley tunnel may be taken as an approximate example, though the elaborate foundation system that will be necessary for the Pennsylvania tunnel is not here present. The work is being carried on by the shield method. The shield forms a solid iron bulkhead across the head of the opening, and the soil is excavated in front of this and brought into the tunnel through doors left in the diaphragm. From time to time the shield is pushed forward, by hydraulic jacks, and the work is carried on under the protection of air pressure.

In the Courts.

Contract; Illegality of Object.—A real estate broker who offers to sell without written authority from the owner (L. 1901, chap. 128), cannot recover of him commissions. A real estate broker of a city of the first or second class who offers for sale real property without written authority from the owner, etc., is guilty of a misdemeanor under L. 1901, chap. 128, and therefore the broker can recover no commissions of the owner on a sale made, as the transaction is made illegal by the statute. (Whiteley v. Terry, 39 Misc., 93.)

A Receiver Appointed.

The Acme Brick Company, of Stony Point, has gone into the hands of a receiver in consequence of an execution having been issued in favor of Henry I. Steitler, of Clarkstown, Rockland County, who was a member of the company and is also engaged in the warehouse business in New York. The other members were C. Willis Nickerson and Mrs. Ella Nickerson, and the company operated a yard on the Tomkins property. Last spring, when they began business, they spent a large sum in improvements. The assets consist in part of brick in the shed and one barge.

The Register's Temporary Office.

On Monday the 28th ulto. the new offices of the Register were opened for business at Nos. 114 and 116 Nassau st, and will there continue until the new Hall of Records is completed, which it is calculated will be in the early part of the year 1905. While the removal from the old office to the new has taken the greater part of the month of December, the public has been put to but very litle inconvenience thereby, and for this great credit is due to Register Ronner and his able deputy, Ferdinand Bohmer, Jr., who personally attended to this arduous task, Mr. Bohmer superintending the removal and Register Ronner the arrival of the thousands of libers at the new rooms

Trouble at the City Hall.

The status of mechanical affairs at the City Hall has not been satisfactory for several weeks, owing at first to disagreements between the contractors and their men, and latterly to dissatisfaction on the part of the municipal authorities with the quality of the workmanship. Since Tuesday all work has been suspended on the interior improvements, pending an investigation by President Cantor, upon whose order work was stopped.

Consulting Architect Aiken had complained that both the specifications and his orders were being disregarded; within forty-five days he had remonstrated many times against particular violations of the specifications, with little or no attention being paid to his orders.

Yesterday the borough president was holding conferences with Architect Aiken. Mr. Walker, the Superintendent of the building, and Contractor Matthew Ryan, with some probability of a resumption of operations upon proper assurances from the present contractors. If not, there will be proceedings in court on Monday, and an abrogation of the contract.

This is the legal aspect of the case, but it is surmised that the alleged faulty character of the work is owing to the fact that many non-union workmen were employed on the job, and because the work has not proceeded upon union principles. Some weeks ago the union plasterers went on strike for cause, and there has been a general disregard of the proprieties as understood by union men. Now, as the central body of the building trades has made representations to the borough president that have evidently been listened to, sufficient grounds have been found for the abrogation of the contract if such action shall be found necessary. President Cantor thus yields to the demands of organized labor, and through him the latter brings the contractors to terms. Yesterday the corridors were thronged by idle mechanics awaiting the result of the conferences going on in President Cantor's room

A Fine Residence

NOW BEING COMPLETED BY CHAS. BRENDON & CO., ARCHITECTS AND BUILDERS.

We illustrate herewith an excellent example of the newer type of fine house now being erected in this city. The old style, three and four-story, high-stoop dwelling is now fast becoming a back number, its place being taken by apartments on the one hand, and on the other by five, six and even seven-story dwelling houses, which are remarkable for their size and completeness.

The house at No 39 E. 77th st, built by Chas. Brendon & Co., is in many respects similar to the one recently completed by the same firm at No. 32 E. 51st st, which was sold to Mr. H. Durant Cheever. The location is in one of the best residential sections of the city. The lot has a frontage of 21 feet 6 inches and is 102 feet deep. The house is 66 feet deep with extension and large yard in the rear. All materials and workmanship are of the best, the house during construction having been under the personal supervision of the architects.

The front is of granite, Indiana limestone, handsomely carved, and a light shade of red brick. There are elegant wrought-iron entrance doors and railings. The interior is most carefully planned, convenience being the first consideration. Every bit of space is utilized, and the rooms are large, well-lighted and most attractive. The trim is hardwood and ivory enamel with imbered ceilings, high wainscoting, etc., all of the finest cabinet finish. There are hardwood floors in the Reception Hall of the ground floor, throughout the first floor, and in the Library.

The plumbing is of the very best character and has been thoroughly tested; the fixtures in the kitchen, laundry, butlers' pantry and second story bath room are solid porcelain. The servants' entrance, stairway, hall and sleeping quarters are admirably arranged with reference to the privacy of the family and its guests. The flues are amply large for wood or coal fires, and each fireplace has been provided with outlet for gas log. Conduits for electric lighting have been provided throughout. In the cellar is a large laundry fitted with an improved clothes-dryer. In short, the building is complete and elegant in every detail.

The house is offered for sale, is open each day for inspection and can be seen without permit. For further particulars apply to Chas. Brendon & Co., architects and builders, 109 W. 42d st, City.

Among other buildings planned and now under construction by this firm, may be mentioned the following:

No. 38 E. 51st st, six-story American basement dwelling, being built for Dr. John L. Adams.

27th st and Madison av, Hotel Brayton, eleven-story fireproof hotel, for Mr. Charles Buek.

53d st, near Madison av, two 40-foot fireproof American basement dwellings, for Mr. Charles Buek.

1ST AV.—Schmeidler & Bachrach have bought from McCullough Brothers the southeast corner of 1st av and 14th st, a 5-sty tenement, on plot 53x66.

14TH ST.—P. Kohl has sold to Schmeidler & Bachrach No. 432 East 14th st, 4-sty front and rear tenements, on lot 25x100. It sold in 1898 for $16,250.

17TH ST.—Schmeidler & Bachrach have bought from a Mr. Eagan No. 413 East 17th st, a 5-sty tenement, on lot 25x92.

WEST ST.—Herman Le Roy Edgar, executor, has sold through Nichols & Lummis and E. A. Cruikshank & Co., Nos. 74 and 75 West st, southeast corner of Carlisle st. The plot fronts 58 feet on West st, 92 feet 6 inches on Carlisle st, and is covered with old buildings. It has been held in the family of the seller since 1801.

17TH ST.—George W. Bell has sold No. 7 East 17th st, running through to No. 10 East 18th st, an 8-sty loft building, fronting 37.6 feet on 17th st and 24.6 on 18th st, the other dimensions being irregular; John H. Berry was the broker.

CHURCH ST.—M. L. & C. Ernst have bought No. 314 Church st, a 5-sty building, 25.1x50.4. Frederick D. Fricki is the seller; he gives this property in part payment for the old House of Lords, at the southwest corner of Houston and Crosby sts, reported sold last week. Although an executor's deed shows that the Houston st property cost the sellers $62,500 in January last, it figures in this trade at $49,500, as against $15,000 for Church st.

AVENUE D.—Wachsman & Frankel have purchased from Frank Hillman and Dora Golding No. 40 Av D, northeast corner of 4th st, a 6-sty tenement with stores, on lot 24x99.11.

9TH ST.—A. M. Mundt has sold to M. Besunder and I. Skurnik No. 635 East 9th st, a 6-sty tenement.

2D ST.—Joseph L. Buttenweiser has sold to Samuel Makrausky No. 128 2d st, a lot 25x122. The buyer will erect a 6-sty tenement.

13TH ST.—Arthur McMade and the Carter estate have sold to Klein & Roth Nos. 313 and 315 East 13th st, two 4-sty buildings, on plot 46x103.3.

31ST ST.—The estate of Bernard Smyth has sold No. 25 East 31st st, a 4-sty dwelling, on lot 15x98.9.

CEDAR ST.—The Equitable Life Assurance Society is reported to have sold No. 58 Cedar st, a 5-sty building, on lot 20x75. It is opposite the building of the Mutual Life Insurance Co.

39TH ST.—The estate of Courtlandt D. Moss has sold No. 124 East 39th st, a 4-sty and basement dwelling, on lot 19.10x98.9.

52D ST.—Charles Thorley has purchased from Charles Mott a plot, 60x100.5, on the north side of 52d st, 245 feet east of 9th av.

Monroe st, No. 59. See 100th st, No. 59 East.

MADISON ST.—Edward J. Hogan has sold to Adelstein & Avrutine No. 308 Madison st, a 2-sty dwelling, on lot 19.6x108.4, for $16,000.

5TH AV.—John N. Golding has sold the Langham Hotel, at the northeast corner of 5th av. and 52d st, to the United States Realty and Construction Company. The property has been on the market for some time at $1,500,000, but the actual selling price is understood to have been $1,250,000. The sellers are Charles R. Purdy, William Purdy Shannon, William P. Shannon, and Pendleton Shannon. The new owners will get possession of the property on May 1 next. The site includes the plot fronting 115 feet on 5th av and 100 feet on 52d st, together with an adjoining lot, 30 by 100, on the north side of 52d st. As to the future of the property the interested parties refuse to make any statement, but it has been intimated that it was bought in the interest of the Vanderbilt family, whose mansions occupy the block front on the west side of the avenue between 51st and 52d sts as well as the northwest corner of 52d st; George W. Vanderbilt is building two houses on the east side, 50 feet south of 52d st, part of a plot purchased by him last year for $1,000,000. This at the time was considered more than the property was worth, and undoubtedly $1,250,000 is more than the actual value of the site just sold but for protective purposes it might not be considered high. Comparing the square foot price it will be seen that the corner sold last year fetched $79.74 per square foot and the one just sold $89.28.

The parcel is 75.11x75.3x40.8x97.1, and comprises about 4,700 square feet. It was bought in 1885 by Senator Eugene F. O'Connor, and the 6-sty building was then known as the Grand View Hotel. Its name has often been changed, and it was never very successful. Mr. O'Connor sold it in the fall of 1900 to the Central Realty Bond and Trust Company for $240,000; it was resold in March, 1901, to Mrs. Fitzgerald for $275,000 free and clear. The block to the south of the Virginia block is owned by the United States Realty and Construction Company, the block to the east by George Ehret, and the block to the west by Albert Flake.

Real Estate Notes.

Charles Thorley is the buyer of Nos. 32½ and 36 West 44th st, recently reported sold.

E. V. Pescia & Co., of 302 Broadway, negotiated the leases on Elizabeth, Hancock, 48th and 59th sts, noted on page 970 of our last issue.

Some recent sales of 3d av property suggest the thought that after a long period of dullness, property on that prominent and central thoroughfare is about to be actively dealt in and will materially increase in value. The history of real estate shows that values on the leading avenues continue to advance, and where there has been a lull and decline in such property on account of local causes, it only requires times and betterments to bring about a change again and a consequent rise in prices. Time has entered in the matter and the change of motive power on the 3d av "L" road from steam to electricity is one of the betterments. Parcels on 3d av at the intersection of leading cross streets like 57th and 72d, are very likely propositions, and investments of this character are sure to pay big in the end, especially if the present structures pay a fair return on the cost, besides there is no good reason why a medium priced up-to-date hotel, erected on 3d av, say at such a leading street as 72d, would not pay handsomely.

Charles W. Mix, Charles G. Baldwin and Graham K. Betts of Syracuse are the buyers of the Iowa apartment house at Nos. 133 and 135 West 104th st, sold two weeks ago. They give in part payment property on Long Island and at Syracuse, N. Y.

The Colonial Bank is the buyer of the Marshall O. Roberts estate plot at the northeast corner of Columbus av and 81st st, 100x102.2. The bank will resell to a builder, with a reservation that the ground floor and basement of the building to be erected be designed to accommodate the bank.

Protection for Tenement House Plumbing.

Mr. George W. Weeks, trustee of the estate of Jacob Weeks, No. 283 Elizabeth st, has submitted to the Tenement House Department a plan for protecting the plumbing pipes and traps under sinks in the halls of tenement houses from the depredation of thieves and disorderly persons, who in some sections of the city cut out and destroy such pipes. The device, which is illustrated in the accompanying diagram, consists of a wire screen or cage built around the pipes and fastened with a proper padlock. This method of protection is fully approved by the Tenement Touse Department, for it does not interfere with the object of the requirement in the law, that the woodwork under the sinks should be removed. That provision was inserted so that the space underneath the sink might be kept fresh and clean, and so that the plumbing might be readily inspected by official inspectors. Both these ends are secured by the device, the use of which is recommended to the owners of tenement houses.

The World of Building

Material Market.

Lower temperatures and holiday demands united to accelerate retail trade in many branches during the week, but wholesalers having already provided for this, are mostly taking a season of comparative rest and quietude, except that the annual inventory is a pressing matter, and plans for the future require attention. Only a few changes in quotations are to be noted, and it is even difficult to judge of the tone of the market.

CEMENT.

Transactions under this head are proceeding upon winter conditions, the demand depending not a little on the state of the weather. Prices are naturally easier than were ruling a month ago. Dealers and consumers are arranging for next spring's supply, and the mills are keeping up a fast pace in anticipation of a requirement next year far greater than this year's need. Owing to construction delays earlier in the season, much work remains undone that should have been completed before the onset of cold temperatures, and every opportunity for advancing work is being used.

Shares in cement companies are considered good investments under present circumstances. The tunnel and subway work hereabouts for the next few years ensures a large business, when taken with the ordinary demand. The inventor Edison has noticed an opportunity and is carrying on some experiments with a view to improve radically the process of manufacturing.

GERMAN TRUST A FAILURE.

It is important to know that the efforts of the German cement syndicate to control the production and to regulate the prices of the article have failed, and the syndicate has been dissolved. In the last two or three years so many new factories have sprung up that it was impossible for the syndicate to bring them all under one management, and the competition which has ensued has been disastrous to the trust. In 1898 the dividends of the leading factories varied between 8 and 33 per cent. Many now return nothing on the capital invested in them; others are issuing preferred stock to create new working capital; a number have stopped work, and one has gone into bankruptcy. The struggle, which has lasted since September, 1900, has culminated in a conflict of extermination between the large factories and the smaller. Prices of cement have fallen so that they are now at least 20 per cent. below the cost of production of the most capably managed works.

The domestic consumption and export in Germany amount to about 14,000,000 barrels, and the productive capacity of the factories is 30,000,000 barrels, or more than twice as much; consequently, the factories can work only at half their capacity, and the supply of cement on hand is so great that it has to be stored.

BRICK.

For a season so unfavorable brick bears up well, but business is necessarily falling off, and prices for certain grades are easier for the consumer, though the quotations for the best Hudson rivers need no changes. With only about thirty boats in the market, and no receipts from above Haverstraw Bay, a firmness of tone not to be detected in current transactions would seem to be warranted; and the weakness can only be attributed to the possession of unusually large winter stocks by city dealers, who, apparently, have lost some of the confidence they had in a great revival of business early next spring. With the unauspicious weather to reckon with, the daily arrivals have been quite equal to the current requirement for a fortnight.

TUNNEL AND SUBWAY CONSTRUCTION.

Up the river there is a jubilation in the brick-making communities over the granting of the franchises for the Pennsylvania and the so-called Erie tunnels, in anticipation that millions of bricks will be used in constructing these works. While the qualities of brick may commend it in the minds of many experts unbiased and unconcerned as the best material for the greater constituent part of the subaqueous tubes, yet, having no powerful influences to champion its rights, there is no thought among the leading dealers that brick will receive from the engineers who will write the specifications for these works any better consideration than has usually been accorded it in recent years. Inquiry at the office of the chief engineer has elicited only noncommittal replies. Some brick will be specified as a matter of course, but the proportion will be small in tunnel and subway, though the stations may require considerable quantities.

AN AMERICAN BRICKLAYER ABROAD.

From the accounts that have come over about his doings, Mr. James C. Stewart, the American brick builder who went to England to erect the Westinghouse Works at Manchester, has taught our cousins something about laying brick. These works were calculated to take five years to build, but they were finished in less than half the time. When Mr. Stewart took over the works only 236 men were on, but within a week there were 2,600, and at times as many as 3,758; and never more than ten Americans, who were the pacemakers. The average speed at which bricks are laid in England is at the rate of between five and six hundred a day of nine hours. Stewart put into operation a few of the incentives known to hustling American contractors, such as extra wages for extra effort, presents, wagers, and personal friendship to those who worked well, with the result that in the end the daily rate of bricklaying per man was 2,500 on plain work, and 1,800 on other kinds. The consequence to Stewart himself was that offers of commissions to supervise public work came to him from every hand.

STONE.

The various branches of stonework, following the discouragements of the summer and spring, have since been satisfactory. In granite, and marble as well, work is brisk, both in the monumental and architectural sections of the business. A large number of workmen have arrived here this fall and winter from the British Isles, where work is slack. News from the centres of the granite cutting industry report labor as scarce, notwithstanding the immigration. The fact appears to be that architects, not only in this district, but throughout the United States, are using the harder stones and granite to an extent that only twenty years ago would have seemed impossible.

This has been a fairly good year for slate, though New York itself is not a large consumer. Here, however, is the market and distributing point for a large section of the country, as well as a point of export. Exports, however, have not been equal to the record of last year.

LIME.

A prominent lime company, the Rockland-Rockport, complain of unfair treatment at the hands of some competitors, asserting that "many local lime manufacturers buy our second-hand barrels and refill them. In some cases they erase our brands and trademarks," the company's officers add, "and in other cases they do not." The laws of this State are explicit in regard to the infringement of brands and copyrights, and such a traffic as is here complained of ought not to run a very long course. The wrong falls not alone upon the manufacturer whose brands are misused, but also upon the consumer, who, not receiving what he calls for, is defrauded.

IRON AND STEEL.

The departments under this head in which builders are interested are seasonably quiescent, and more favorably disposed for the consumer. The continued pressure of foreign material, raw and manufactured, holds prices in check, but the business generally is on a solid basis. Structural material is a shade lower officially, and much easier to be procured. Hardware has been taking on a more moderate tone for several weeks; and Sheets have receded noticeably for a longer period. Cast-iron pipe, however, is in exceptional demand, even for January. Manufacturers sell small lots at the following prices: 4-inch, $36.50 to $37; 6-inch, $35.50 to $36; 8-inch and upward, $34.50 to $35; gas pipe, $1 per ton higher; f. o. b. New York.

Foreign material, especially foreign pig iron, has performed an important office in this country during the past six months, and is likely to continue to for a period that no one cares to estimate. Inquiries show that our manufacturers have been using it in a larger proportion than was supposed. The J. L. Mott Iron Works have used foreign pic iron in the proportion to their total consumption of about 25 per cent.; J. B. & J. M. Cornell, 20 per cent.; E. W. Bliss & Co., Brooklyn, 50 per cent.; Gould & Eberhardt, Newark, 30 per cent. These report satisfactory results, especially from the German irons. Some firms find a larger shrinkage from the foreign iron, others note no difference in this respect.

COAL.

Anthracite is one of the hard perplexities of the present winter. It is the single necessary which a householder pays for grudgingly and under remonstrance, and from the cost of which he has no escape or appeal. But the cost is not the most vexatious matter now; the difficulty of getting any coal at all has become a real cause of fear. The bituminous sort is being used for business purposes wherever possible, and several departments of the city government are burning it to some extent in combination with anthracite.

It was thought that when inland navigation closed coal would be more plentiful here. The shipments eastwardly are indeed far heavier, but the freezing temperature has greatly increased the demand, and New York must divide with other railroad and coast points.

For anthracite in small lots $11 a ton has been demanded and paid this week. Certainly the experiences of this year should move the U. S. Congress to enact measures that will guard the public from a repetition of them. If the mining and transportation of coal were carried on naturally, without artificial restrictions, there would be coal in plenty, for an honest price, at all times. Water, air, flour and fuel should not be within the power of any unholy combination to withhold.

From present indications there will be next to a famine of anthracite all winter, although every effort is being made by mine operators to relieve the situation. Production is at the rate of 5,000,000 tons a month, but this is insufficient, and the transportation problem is another factor. The car supply being inadequate, movement from the mines is curtailed; and in this harbor the difficulties of ferriage have contributed a measure of hindrance.

In some European countries the coal problem is measurably solved by using "briquettes," a composition of coal waste and lignite. Machinery for making them is to be found in the highest perfection in Germany, where a syndicate has just been formed for promoting the export of this machinery to the United States, and an engineer has been ocmmissioned to come here and make estimates of the cost of plants and describe the processes of manufacture. Coming with such good intentions, he should be welcomed.

LUMBER.

Lumber has been nearly stationary for about a month, and some big lumbermen agree that it is likely to continue so all winter, with the exception of a few items in the higher grades. This is almost equivalent to saying that they well make no attempt to raise the bar.

During the past year lumber reached the highest point in the history of the trade as regards price and difficulty of securing stock. The white pine mills were driven to their utmost capacity, and yellow pine manufacturers had to contend with similar conditions. What will be the situation another year? is the question that some readers may be perplexed to answer. Undoubtedly, for the general good, there ought to be a retreat; there ought to be a lessened demand resulting from the continued high values; but what may be actually expected, and to what extent should the retail dealer stock up during the winter in anticipation of next spring's business?

It is conceivable that a fairly prophetic answer might be of value. It may be said that during the past few years the white pine producers have sold more lumber than they have made, with the result that there is little if any stock on their hands; and, as white pine is practically all air-dried, it is necessary to saw stock well in advance of the demand. Hence, it would take a season of poor trade to put the manufacturers in a position where they should have to force business. Yellow pine will accumulate during the winter, but inasmuch as the railroads and other large concerns that required so much of this material in 1902 will be in the market again in 1903, no variance in conditions is to be expected. There will probably be a considerable output of hemlock lumber for next year, but dry stock is hard to get now, and new lumber will not be ready until the season is well advanced.

"Even with a considerable falling-off in the consuming demand during the coming year, it will yet be a difficult matter for the entire retail trade to get supplies sufficient to take care of business," said a well-known authority. "The scant stocks and the even balance between productive and consuming capacity, even with a material reduction in the demand, preclude the idea of any decided falling-off in prices during the next six months. The dealer who places his orders now and at present prices takes less chance than the one who delays until he actually needs the lumber."

Of Interest to the Building Trades.

The American Mexican Lumber Company, of New York, has been incorporated under the laws of Delaware with a capital of $5,000,000.

C. E. Kennedy, manager of the New York office of Shepherd, Morse & Co., lumber merchants, 18 Broadway, is spending the holidays at his old home, at Burlington, Vt.

Frank H. Boyle & Lawton, workers in ornamental iron, bronze and brass work for building have removed their plant from Nos. 418 and 420 West 27th st, to more commodious quarters at Nos. 518 and 520 West 22d st.

McBride & Co., manufacturers of parquet floors and wood carpets, have removed their office and showrooms from No. 449 West 125th st to No. 50 West 125th st, where they have on exhibition samples and the latest designs in their line.

M. Levenson, dealer in second-hand building materials, with office at No. 331 East 14th st, has the contract to demolish the St. Nicholas Hotel property at the southeast corner of Washington pl and Mercer st. On the site will be erected a 11-sty office building by the new owners, Sonn Bros.

The Thompson-Starrett Co. has been absorbed by the United States Realty and Construction Co.; negotiations have been conducted for several weeks, and while no contracts have been signed it is said that arrangements for closing the deal have been virtually completed.

Plowden Stevens has filed a petition in bankruptcy, with liabilities of $21,496, and no assets. The debts were contracted prior to July 21, 1888, when he made an assignment at 48th st and North River, he being then in the planing-mill business. He is now in the employ of the E. H. Ogden Lumber Company, 47th st and North River.

John Coombs, contractor of deep excavations for foundations, of No. 253 West 126th st, enjoys a reputation for prompt and careful work. His present contracts include the removing of rock for the new automobile building, southwest corner of Broadway and 50th st, for John Laimbeer, Jr, and has recently completed the excavations of 17 lots on 107th st for the Ivy Courts Realty Co. Mr. Coombs makes a specialty of putting in rock sewers for the better class of plumbers.

Last Saturday, when C. F. Bond, the builder, with offices at 136 Liberty st, went to his cash drawer for money with which to pay off his men, he found it empty, though on the afternoon before he had left $1,000 there in an envelope, having just drawn it from his bank in Brooklyn. His cashier, Charles Furst, 23 years old, was also missing. Mr. Bond is building two residences for G. L. and W. W. McAlpin, the tobacco manufacturers, and was subjected to much embarrasment because of temporary inability to pay his men in full. The cashier is still a fugitive.

It is current gossip that the firm of Fredenberg & Lounsbury, who are recognized as one of the largest distributors of high-grade front brick, will also handle in Greater New York and vicinity the cement made by the Alpha Portland Cement Company, one of the two largest mills in the country manufacturing this material. This cement has been on the market for many years, and bears an excellent reputation. It has been used very extensively in various representtive forms of construction, and will make a strong appeal to those interested in Portland cement, particularly in view of the well-developed selling organization resources of the distributing firm.

Mr. John C. Baird, of Boston, the head and master spirit of the well-known firm of Redding-Baird & Co., in whose studios have been designed so many beautiful stained glass windows, has also distinguished himself by providing a most practical and valuable safeguard to the traveling public in the development of the Nels signal glass. This signal is warranted to show a safe night signal for the distance of one-half a mile even under serious fog conditions, and for this reason has been adopted for signal purposes by prominent railways of the world. The success of Mr. Baird in attaining that for which eminent colorists have been striving for many years has given his name a special prominence among railroad men at home and abroad. One of the latest of Mr. Baird's achievements is the introduction of hand-made silver glass for the diffusion of light, the value of which has been recognized by the highest scientific authority.

For More Beautiful Churches.

Can better art in church building and decoration be obtained for the expenditure to which the public is accustomed? Doubtless it may be for a more generous appropriation, were there stronger appreciation among ecclesiastical boards of the claims of art. At a meeting of the Episcopal Church Club on Tuesday evening, Mr. C. C. Haight laid it down as a fundamental principle, from which there was no dissent, that ecclesiastical architecture is bad. The President of the Architectural League had no difficulty in fixing the responsibility upon obstinate rectors, vestrymen and laity, and so by inference excused his profession from blame or failure to set forth the best available forms. A committee was appointed to confer with similar church societies in regard to improving ecclesiastical art in New York.

The possibility of vitalizing the idea into action, into more noble and beautiful sanctuaries, cannot be remote; for in this great metropolis of the western continent to think is to do, to wish for is to obtain; and especially so at this period when a great transformation is being wrought in material forms, in which the claims of Beauty are recognized even by the unsentimental commercial instinct. God can be praised by rearing a beautiful edifice in His name, as well as by praising Him in song and prayer. A church truly beautiful is a continual doxology to the Almighty.

The Contractor's Proteetive Association Dinner.

The Contractors' Protective Association announces its third annual dinner, which will be given on Saturday evening, January 10, 7.30 P. M., at Shanley's, 1476 Broadway. On previous occasions the dinners of this Association have been among the most successful of the many annual entertainments now given by the numerous organizations among the building trades in this city, and the arrangements made for next Saturday promise an enjoyable festivity.

Masters and Men.

PAINTERS.

All negotiations between the Amalgamated and the Brotherhood of Painters and Decorators were broken off this week, owing to the failure of the Brotherhood to fulfil the condition upon which they were to be admitted to fellowship with the Amalgamated in this city, and the game of see-saw has been resumed. It would require a master of all the arts and sciences to epitomize the complex relations between the two painters' unions and the divisions in the unions. One of the most prominent men in the trade, a member of the inner councils of the Master House Painters' and Decorators' Association, confessed this week to being utterly unable to comprehend the situation.

The Amalgamated accuse the Brotherhood of acting with duplicity in agreeing to demand on the first of January the same rate of wages that the Amalgamated scale requires, and at the same time signing with the Master House Painters' and Decorators' Association, or a part thereof, to accept a scale fifty cents less for decorators and painters, and twenty-five cents less for varnishers, with a Saturday half holiday, if paid for. If the Brotherhood had kept faith with the Amalgamated they would have gone on strike to-day, but they are working as usual.

PLUMBERS AND STEAMFITTERS.

The interests of two trades sometimes overlap, and often it is difficult to find the line of division. Both plumbers and steamfitters are at present claiming the right to erect the standpipes used in heating buildings, and because the Thompson-Starrett Co. have decided to give this work to the steamfitters their plumbers are on strike. Thus far the strike has caused but little inconveniencle, and there is expectation of a speedy settlement.

CONVEYANCES.

Whenever the letters Q. C., C. a. G. and B. & S. occur, preceded by the name of the grantee, they mean as follows:

1st.—Q. C. is an abbreviation for Quit Claim deed, i. e., a deed wherein all the right, title and interest of the grantor is conveyed, omitting all covenants or warranty.

2d.—C. a. G. means a deed containing a Covenant against Grantor only, in which he covenants that he hath not done any act whereby the estate conveyed can be impeached, charged or encumbered.

3d.—B. & S. is an abbreviation for Bargain and Sale deed, wherein although the seller makes no expressed covenants, he really grants or conveys the property for a valuable consideration, and thus impliedly claims to be the owner of it. The street and avenue numbers given in these lists are, in all cases, taken from the Insurance maps when they are not mentioned in the deeds. The numbers, it will occasionally be found, do not correspond with the existing ones, owing to there having been no official designation made of them by the Department of Public Works.

4th.—The first date is the date the deed was drawn. The second date is the date of filing same. When both dates are the same, only one is given.

5th.—The figures in each conveyance, thus, 2:482, denote that the property is in section 2 block 482.

6th.—It should also be noted in section and block numbers, the instrument as filed is strictly followed.

December 26, 27, 29, 30 and 31.

MORTGAGES.

NOTE.—The arrangement of this list is as follows: The first name is that of the mortgagor, the next that of the mortgagee. The description of the property then follows, then the date of the mortgage, the time for which it was given, and the amount. The general dates used as head lines are the dates when the mortgage was handed into the Register's office to be recorded.

Whenever the letters "P. M." occur, preceded by the name of a street, in these lists of mortgages, they mean that it is a Purchase Money Mortgage, and for fuller particulars see the list of transfers under the corresponding date.

The first date is the date the mortgage is drawn, the second the date of filing; when both dates are the same, only one is given.

Subscribers will find mortgages in this list with the wrong block number attached. The block number we give is taken from the instrument as filed.

Mortgages against Bronx property will be found altogether at the foot of this list.

December 26, 27, 29, 30 and 31.

MORTGAGES.

NOTE.—The arrangement of this list is as follows: The first name is that of the mortgagor, the next that of the mortgagee. The description of the property then follows, then the date of the mortgage, the time for which it was given, and the amount. The general date used as head lines are the dates when the mortgage was handed into the Register's office to be recorded.

Whenever the letters "P. M." occur, preceded by the name of a street, in these lists of mortgages, they mean that it is a Purchase Money Mortgage, and for fuller particulars see the list of transfers under the corresponding date.

Real Estate and Building in 1902.

AN EXPLANATION OF THE PECULIAR CONDITIONS WHICH HAVE PREVAILED IN THE REAL ESTATE AND BUILDING TRADES DURING THE PAST YEAR.

The two salient facts about the course of real estate transactions in 1902 are (1) that it has been the most active year in the history of the market, and (2) that this activity has been more than ever controlled by expert professional methods and knowledge. The unprecedented activity is a fact which is easily established. The accompanying table shows the number of conveyances recorded in the Register's office during every year from 1890 to and including 1902, the total amount involved by these transfers, the number which carried only nominal considerations, and the average value involved by each transfer.

An Extraordinary Year in Real Estate.

| Year. | No. of conveyances. | Amount involved. | No. nominal. | Average. |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| 1902..... | 17,265 | $137,512,422 | 11,614 | $24,309 |
| 1901..... | 15,919 | 156,413,052 | 8,788 | 21,969 |
| 1900..... | 14,587 | 114,243,112 | 8,073 | 17,809 |
| 1899..... | 15,623 | 130,317,427 | 8,046 | 14,240 |
| 1898..... | 14,697 | 104,010,581 | 7,556 | 15,969 |
| 1897..... | 14,988 | 111,232,874 | 8,072 | 16,083 |
| 1896..... | 14,072 | 132,522,492 | 7,434 | 19,940 |
| 1895..... | 14,040 | 151,968,784 | 6,872 | 20,938 |
| 1894..... | 13,436 | 149,614,843 | 5,705 | 19,352 |
| 1893..... | 13,244 | 216,825,732 | 4,963 | 22,783 |
| 1892..... | 13,944 | 228,608,599 | 4,458 | 24,690 |
| 1891..... | 14,013 | 231,908,649 | 4,058 | 23,295 |

It will be seen that during 1902, 17,265 conveyances were recorded, which is at least 1,300 more than have been recorded in any previous year. The year which most easily approaches the total of 1902 is 1901 with 15,919, but in order to obtain the third year in the list, we have to go back to 1890, which follows hard upon 1901 with 15,857. The year next in order is 1899, which is only a few hundred behind 1890. The extraordinary fact about the large increase of the present year, which amounts to 8 per cent. over the year previous, is that many causes, which ordinarily provoke real estate transactions have been less than usually operative during the past year. The number of individual tenements, apartment-houses and residences erected during 1902 was, lumping them all together, probably only about a third of the average of the past ten years, the consequence being that the number of parcels sold before and after improvement with these classes of houses was much less than usual. On the other hand there were equally unusual conditions which helped to increase the number of conveyances in certain districts of the city. The Pennsylvania and New York Central tunnels were probably responsible directly and indirectly for fully one-half of the increased number of transfers recorded in 1902 over 1901. Moreover, the liveliest kind of speculation has been taking place in property situated in the central part of the city, and to the east of Central Park. Finally business property all over the city has been exceptionally active. These various sources of increase, taken together with a fair demand for old residences and tenements, have more than counterbalanced the sources of decrease mentioned above.

While the number of transactions recorded during 1902 is unprecedented, the same remark cannot be made of their character. The year of 1902 has for the most part been a continuation of the year previous. The areas of activity have been for the most part the same, as have been the nature of the operations. These operations have been in large measure, as we have already remarked, speculative in method and purpose. They have looked toward the transformation of the middle and lower parts of Manhattan, and have been based upon an expectation, which has so far been steadily realized, of an increase in prices due to the increased demand for space in those districts. The areas embraced by this speculation are too familiar to need very considerable description. They include the whole of the financial district, the upper end of the wholesale district, extending as far north as 23d street, the whole length of Broadway, from 14th street to 80th st, including the side streets in the neighborhood of Greeley and Long Acre squares, the whole length of 5th avenue, as far north as 96th street, and all the side streets north of 34th street, between 5th and Lexington avenues. In every one of these localities prices have been advancing steadily throughout the year. In many cases they have more than doubled since 1899; and they are still on the rise. It cannot be said, however, that as yet there has been any very manifest inflation. Except in a few instances, the speculative demand is sustained and encouraged by the prices which people who want to use the property will pay. In the financial district, for instance, the realty corporations could not have bid prices up to their present level, had not large corporations like the Mutual Life, or banking houses like Speyer & Co., Kean, Van Cortlandt & Co., Blair & Co., and others, been willing to pay prices equally as large, if not larger. The speculators and speculative corporations have been so far riding easily upon the wave of business prosperity.

But although the demand for use has been excellent, the same thing cannot be said of the demand for investment. During the fall of 1902 residential property in Manhattan undoubtedly has offered more tempting opportunities for investors than at any time since the increase of taxes resulting from consolidation, the reasons being both that the tax burden was about to be in some measure lightened, and that from one cause or another the supply of residential accommodation has fallen behind the demand. The improved income returns have stimulated a certain small amount of investment buying; but the increase has not been considerable. Real estate has undoubtedly fallen into dispute with the general investor, who only occasionally appears in the market as a buyer. The great mass of the transactions are purchases either for speculation or for use.

The Increasing Speculative Element in the Real Estate Market.

This brings us to the second salient fact about real estate conditions during the past year, the fact, viz., that more than ever before the market is dominated by expert professional operations. Here again the year 1902 has only fulfilled the promise of 1901. There is no way of precisely measuring the speculative interest at any particular time. Indeed, about the only indication we have, which is in the least statistical, is the proportion which the number of transfers at nominal considerations bears to the total number of conveyances. This indication is vague, because the large number of papers filed for more or less technical legal purposes, rarely carry with them an express consideration, but since papers of this character are a pretty constant quantity, it is obvious that any great variation in the number of transfers at a nominal price must be due to other causes. As a matter of fact the proportion of these transfers to the total number has been increasing for years. In 1868, out of 10,070 deeds, only 592 or less than 6 per cent. failed to give the price paid for the property. Ten years later, in 1878, out of 6,861 deeds, 1,927 or 27 per cent. contained nominal considerations. By 1888 this percentage had not increased, but had fallen slightly to about 24 per cent. Thereafter, however, it increased rapidly. By 1893 the conveyances at nominal considerations had reached 37 per cent. of the number in which the consideration was expressed. By 1897 it had amounted to more than 50 per cent., in 1901 to almost 60 per cent., while during the past year, almost two-thirds of the transfers came under this head. At the present rate of increase, in this class of papers, it will soon be only deeds given by executors and trustees which will contain express considerations, for the policy of assessing at full value will doubtless make purchasers still more eager to conceal the prices they have paid.

There can be little doubt that the increase of transfers at nominal considerations noted above corresponds pretty well with the increase in the speculative interest in the real estate market, and unless we are very much mistaken this increased predominance of speculative methods and purposes in real estate operations has a great deal to do with the comparative lack of interest with which investors now regard real estate. The ownership of real property carries with it much greater cares and responsibilities than does the ownership of personal property, and for these responsibilities the real estate investor has been in the past compensated by a certain increase in value upon which he could count. He generally received, not only a decent income upon his investment, but he had every reason to expect that at the end of ten or fifteen years, he would be paid for the trouble he had taken by a substantial addition to the cash value of his property. But under present conditions it is rare that an investor gets a chance at any considerable portion of this gradual increment in value. In every active branch of real estate operations, the speculators are the first in the field. They anticipate the prospective increases in value, buy the best situated property, make the desirable improvements, and when they sell out, do so at a price, which leaves the investor a decent return, perhaps upon his investment, but which has been so enlarged that the possible future increment for many years has been anticipated and capitalized. Consequently when the investor takes hold he has all the bother of managing the property, all the risk of changing conditions, and the knowledge of certain depreciation in his buildings; and nothing to reward him for all this but a possible 5 or 6 per cent. upon his money.

These considerations do not prove that the speculator is an unwholesome influence in the real estate market. On the contrary he has his necessary function in real estate as in other departments of business. He is the middle man who keeps real estate in a fluid and constantly improving condition, and such expert middlemen are absolutely necessary to adapt the real estate and building of a rapidly growing city like New York to the constantly augmenting demands of business, amusement and residence. As we all know, New York expands so rapidly and in such a large way, that it requires for its continual and sufficient improvement an unusual number of real estate operators, who control large quantities of capital. Of late years, in order to meet this necessity, the real estate corporations have grown and multiplied. They are becoming the dominant influence in the larger real estate transactions. During the past year the two most important of these corporations have consolidated, and the United States Realty & Construction Company, which is the issue of the consolidation, is undoubtedly the most formidable machinery ever fashioned to conduct real estate and building operations on a vast scale. But large as it is, it is only one company out of many; it is only the most striking example of a process which is gradually but radically altering the conditions and methods of real estate ownership.

In its largest aspect this process may be described as the mobilization of real estate, the attempt to keep it fluid and up-to-date, and to capitalize both the expert knowledge, which the process requires, and the increased value that results. It is precisely analogous to the processes which has been taking place on a still larger scale in the manufacturing industries; but the difference is that in the case of real estate operations, the problem is more complicated and has not as yet been so completely worked out. The predominance of speculative operations in the real estate market, of which the corporations are the most conspicuous evidence, has tended, as has already been observed to displace the investor, and the corporations have not yet succeeded in getting him back in an indirect fashion by selling their shares to the public. Nothing is more certain than that in the long run a large part of the expensive real estate and big buildings on Manhattan Island will be held by investment realty corporations, and that the real estate will be sold to the small investor in the form of corporate stock. But this result is still far from being attained, because the existing real estate corporations are at present operated chiefly for speculative purposes. Their methods and purposes have not as yet been proved and justified. They are experiments which must slowly win their way into public confidence by conservative methods and assured results. Whether it will be necessary to separate investment from speculative operations, in order to win the necessary public confidence, is as yet an open question, but the main fact is now established beyond any reasonable doubt. The investor, who is not a real estate expert, and who wants income from his property without the responsibilities of management, will buy his real estate, so far as Manhattan is concerned, in the form of corporate shares. Real estate values will be mobilized and distributed as stock certificates, and experts will be paid by the corporations to manage it economically and to improve it profitably.

We have dwelt at some length upon this aspect of the real estate market in 1902, because corporate and speculative aggrandizement is the great fact established by the transactions of the year. Old estates like the Rhinelander estate are organized in corporate form, even if they do not offer the shares to the public, while the Astor estates, if they do not organize, at least embark as never before in gigantic speculative improvements. This corporate and speculative aggrandizement which has not yet gone beyond its initial stages, will in the end make a profound difference to every one who directly or indirectly derive his living from real estate, and it behooves such people to watch the process closely and to face the fact that the culmination herein indicated is practically inevitable.

A Decrease in Building Operations.

While the year 1902 was distinguished by a wholly unprecedented number of real estate transactions, the same statement cannot be made in respect to building operations. In the number of new buildings projected and their estimated cost, the year 1901 was decidedly ahead of the year just closed. There were plans filed in 1902 for 1,703 buildings to be erected in Manhattan and the Bronx at an estimated cost of $88,044,400, against plans for 2,512 buildings to be erected at an estimated cost of $118,897,820 during the year previous. This difference is somewhat diminished by the fact that some $11,405,620 were planned to be spent on alterations in 1902, against only $8,632,595 in 1901, but either way the figures show a decrease of over 25 per cent. from the previous year. This decrease is however easily explained. It is covered almost precisely by the decrease which has taken place in the tenement and apartment houses which have been projected. In 1901 plans were filed for some 921 tenements to be erected in Manhattan alone, at an estimated cost of $43,476,000, whereas during 1902 the estimated cost of the tenement and apartment house buildings, plans for which were filed at the Building Department came to less than $16,000,000. This is a difference in favor of 1901 in this one class of buildings of fully $27,000,000, and that sum subtracted from the figures of 1901 would make them about the same as the figures of 1902. It is true that out of the $43,476,000 which the plans for tenements filed in 1901 called for, only about $32,000,000 were actually spent, but since the total figures of the Building Department filings for 1901 given above included both plans, which were and were not abandoned, no allowance need be made for this source of error in the present calculation. The fact remains, that apart from the tenement house filings, which were comparatively large in 1901, and comparatively small in 1902, the figures covering the building operations for each year are in respect to the gross amount of money planned to be spent practically the same. The following table shows that the number of projected buildings, their estimated cost, and the average for each building for every year from 1886 to 1902. The figures include both Manhattan and the Bronx.

The most interesting inference to be drawn from the foregoing table is that of the enormous increase in the average cost of each building projected during the sixteen years covered by the table; it has more than trebled, and has almost quadrupled. The exceptionally high figures for the past two years are due chiefly to the increased cost of the average dwelling and tenement house erected in Manhattan, but it is also partly due to the augmented proportion of large fireproof buildings which are being erected year by year. This increased cost of the average building is profoundly expressive of the radical changes which have been taking place in the manner of living and doing business in Manhattan, and of the prodigious centralization of population and business.

The Distribution of Building Operations.

If we except the large decrease in the number of tenements and apartment houses projected, the character of building operations throughout 1902 is in general very much the same as their character during the previous year. The following table shows the comparative figures for the two years in all the important classes of building operations. The second class includes business structures of all kinds, office buildings excepted. Miscellaneous buildings such as churches, theatres, schools, hospitals and the like are not included in the table at all. These figures apply to Manhattan alone.

| | 1902. | | 1901. | |
| | No. | Est. cost. | No. | Est. cost. |
| Office buildings | 30 | $10,929,000 | 19 | $12,315 000 |
| Lofts, factories, etc. | 170 | 19,254,000 | 149 | 11,166,000 |
| Hotels and apartment hotels | 46 | 21,070 000 | 46 | 20 374 000 |
| Apartments and tenements | 238 | 14,947,000 | 921 | 43,476,000 |
| Private residences | 130 | 8,161 000 | 100 | 6,020,000 |

The reason for the decrease in the building of apartment and tenement houses, we explained at length in a special article on the subject in our last issue. The other most important change shown by the table is the substantial increment in the amount of money invested in lofts, factories and miscellaneous business buildings. In 1902 there were 170 such structures projected, which were estimated to cost $19,254,000, while in 1901 there were plans filed for only 149 buildings of this class, to be erected at an estimated cost of $11,166,000. Business buildings of all kinds, including office buildings were estimated to cost $30,183,000 in 1902, against $23,471,000 in 1901; that is in 1902 about 33 per cent. of all the money which was to be invested in new construction went into business buildings, whereas the corresponding proportion in 1901 was only 20 per cent. This fact indicates, as we have frequently pointed out in the Record and Guide, that it is the lively demand for Manhattan real estate for business uses, which more than any other single cause gives character and tone to the real estate market of the present time. That one-third of all the money invested in new construction should be intended for business buildings is a fact unprecedented in the history of New York real estate. Neither is it simply big business structures which are now being erected in large quantities. Much of the new construction consists of warehouses and factories to cost from $10,000 to $50,000. These new factories and warehouses, create, of course, in all parts of the city an increased demand for labor, and have much to do with the fact, upon which all observers are agreed, that during the past two years the population of the city has been increasing much more rapidily than the average rate of the past ten years.

The second largest item in the filings of the year consists in the estimated cost of the hotels and apartment hotels, which were planned to be erected. When it is remembered that only eleven of these buildings to cost $2,080,000 were planned to be erected in 1900, it will be appreciated how sudden and overwhelming has been the popularity of this class of building. The figures apparently show a small increase during 1902 over 1901, but as a matter of fact the increase is larger than appears, for the totals for 1901 include several colossal hotels for transients, which account for about $5,000,000, while only one such building is contained in the figures for 1902. It is very probable that after a few years there will be a marked decrease in the erection of this class of structure, but there is no sign that this decrease will be very conspicuous during 1903. These hotels, as soon as they are completed, are readily leased to responsible managers, who almost as readily find all the tenants they need. The consequence is that plans are already announced for a large number of them to be erected during the coming year. Considering the very large figures both for 1901 and 1902 we look for some small diminution in the totals, but the diminution will not amount to more than perhaps 15 or 20 per cent.

As to the figures for private residences they also have received full consideration in a recent issue of the Record and Guide. In 1901 there were plans filed for 100 private dwellings to be erected in Manhattan, at an estimated cost of $6,020,000, an average of $60,000 for each dwelling. In 1902 there were plans filed for 130 private dwellings to be erected at an estimated cost of $8,161,000, an average of $62,700 for each dwelling. The increase amounted to about 30 per cent. in the number of residences and to 33 per cent. in their estimated cost. It is unnecessary to comment further upon these figures, for we have on former occasions fully explained their significance, but it is worth while considering how far the building of private dwellings will continue to have the same characteristics during 1903 as it has had during the past two years. According to the present outlook a perceptable alteration is destined to take place in the near future. Undoubtedly a considerable number of plans for expensive private dwellings will be filed in 1903. but the number will probably be smaller than it has been of late. The great majority of the plans filed in 1902 were prepared for speculative builders, and it may be doubted whether they will feel like keeping up the same pace another year. A number of important residences will be erected especially for private owners, but construction of this character always bulks small compared with that of building operators. It is probable, however, that there will be a considerable increase in the number of small and cheap residences erected on Washington Heights and in the Bronx. The conditions of the past few years are undoubtedly abnormal, and will be replaced by other conditions as soon as the Subway is fairly in use.

On the whole there seems to be no reason to expect a diminution of building activity during 1903. The number of office and business buildings erected will probably exceed that of the past year, the number of tenements and apartment houses will certainly do so, and the building of apartment hotels and dwellings will continue at a tolerable rate of speed. The price of building materials is so high that any excessive building will be discouraged, but dealers and manufacturers of materals can count upon a demand at least equal to that of the past two years and probably superior to it, and this quite apart from the demand for structural steel and other materials, which will be occasioned by the important improvements in transit facilities which are now on the boards. Moreover the building of the next few years will be more diversified than it has been during the past two years. The prospects for future work are bright and indefinitely large.

PRICES on the Stock Market are advancing and will continue to advance, with the usual and inevitable reactions, until a renewal of the commercial demand for money brings about a condition of things similar to that seen in the last ten weeks of the year. This will, presumably, occur near the end of February or the beginning of March, provided Congress does not meanwhile do something to increase the volume of currency in periods of urgent demand. There are interests largely professional that have fought the rise so far, but the outlook to the average observer is too good, and the antecedent liquidation tested the situation so thoroughly without developing weak spots, that it is only natural that stock market quotations advance with the recurrence of ease in money, and that they should continue to do so, so long as present conditions of the money market prevail. There are features in the trading that excite apprehension for the future, but such features always accompany an advance. There is always a highly venturesome party in a bull movement that say and do things that the conservative disapprove, and who prepare the way for the extremities of the declines as they recur, but they have to be accepted as inevitable, if not indispensable factors in the situation, in order to have a true appreciation of its bearings. At the same time new money is constantly appearing in the market to pick up securities that look cheap and there are some that really are so. In the main, of course, current quotations represent all or more than full values on careful estimates, but a buying public exhilarated by success in their own private concerns and convinced that our great prosperity is come to stay, is likely to make extravagent estimates of values and be guided accordingly. There is this to be said in their favor, that events move rapidly and intrinsic, as well as speculative values are increased with equal rapidity, justifying quotations to-day that would have been absurd but a few months ago.

IF it be true as has been recently stated, that arrangements are being made to send the suburban trains, now entering the Grand Central Station, through the Subway to the Battery, it will mean an incalculable benefit to the residents of the upper Bronx and Westchester County. The necessity of changing cars at 42d street would have meant ten or fifteen minutes delay to all the commuters on the Harlem, New Haven and Central roads, as well as a great deal of unnecessary annoyance. The traffic situation to 42d street will never be satisfactory until these commuters have a continuous service to the Battery, and if such a service is now practically arranged for, the last step will be taken toward providing means for the full and free development of the large territory tributary to the Vanderbilt lines. Better late than never.

IT is stated that one of the Atlantic record breakers about to be built by the Cunard Company under government patronage is to be constructed on the Clyde by the builders of the Campania and Lucania, and the other at Barrow by a large concern, but one that has not yet been a constructor of conspicuously large steamers. The choice of contractors is limited to concerns that will undertake the work subject not merely to the usual tests before acceptance, but also to the condition that the boats may be returned to their builders, if at the end of twelve months' running they shall not have achieved an average of twenty-five knots throughout the voyages. Seeing that if this requirement should be enforced the builder would have on his hands a white elephant of hitherto unknown inconvenience and cost, we may be sure that everything possible will be done to make these steamers the fastest as well as the largest afloat and the greatest advertisement for the shipping industry which they will typify. The expenditure involved $10,000,000 is in the first instance borne by the government which loans the money as required at 2¾ per cent., repayable in 20 years, at the end of which time it is estimated that the vessels will be antiquated. Their intended dimensions, 750 ft. long and 76 ft. beam, are greater than those of any ship hitherto built, and they set an example in cost that is not likely to be imitated for many years to come, except under a similar motive that accounts for this undertaking, namely, to show what can be done by the shipbuilding interest of the country merely in magnitude and mechanical capacity. What a competition upon such a basis would involve may be indicated by one fact, that to add only one more knot to a speed of 25 knots, would add 25% to the cost. In fact the cost of added speed mounts up in an almost incredible ratio. Authoritative estimates go to show that each additional knot above 20 and up to 25, would cost on the average about $650,000, the cost of the first being $250,000, and of the last of the five $1,250,000. As the boats about to be built seem to be foreshadowed by doubtful commercial success, if not failure, there is likely to be little of this form of competition. As a feature of the policy of waking up John Bull the enterprise doubtless has its merits and is in some other respects dazzling, but is not inviting. It may stimulate less ambitious forms of building and, anyway, the distribution of $10,000,000 among the allied industries that will assist in the construction of the Leviathans will not be without its practical benefits, especially as the British shipyards are at the moment to a considerable extent idle.

NO Mayor, since Abram S. Hewitt, has shown the same grasp of the city's business that Mayor Low has shown in his message to the Board of Aldermen. It is easy enough to propose large schemes of city improvement, and to discourse entertainingly upon the growth and destiny of the Greater New York. But what Mayor Low, better than any of his predecessors, has succeeded in doing, is both to lay down a comprehensive plan of city improvements and to find the means with which to carry them out. The improvements, of course, were all suggested by other people, but Mayor Low has arranged for their proper co-ordination and for a financial scheme which will enable the city to pay for them without in all probability any increase of existing taxation. The whole plan constitutes an admirable piece of construction municipal management and finance, for which the credit is due, not only to the Mayor, but to other members of the administration. If the next Mayor, whoever he may be, abandons it, he can only do so to the manifest disadvantage of the city's economic and social development. New York may certainly congratulate itself upon having its affairs conducted just as the affairs of any great business corporation would be conducted. It is interesting to observe also that the Mayor is willing to appoint a Commission to suggest desirable changes in the lay-out of the Greater New York, provided that the Board of Aldermen will appropriate $10,000 for the expenses of such a Commission. His reference to the matter, however, justifies the inference that he is not particularly interested in the plan, and does not attach over-much importance to it. If so, his reason probably is that he believes the city has already projected as many improvements as it can afford to pay for, but he fails to perceive how essential to any radical cure of the traffic congestion is the adoption of an improved lay-out of the Manhattan street system. Be it added, however, that the report of the Municipal Art Society, submitted during the past week in favor of radical and extensive alterations of all existing arrangements in all the boroughs of the city, has not aided the cause it was intended to advance. In the case of a city like New York, in which all municipal improvements are dependent upon rigid economic and financial conditions, it is absurd to propose a scheme, which, however well considered, utterly disregards the fact that the plan could not actually be realized for a century or two. The Commission, which is proposed is, however, constituted along the proper lines, and would avoid the error of proposing a scheme which bears no relation at all to the city's existing resources.

GOVERNOR ODELL declares explicitly in his message in favor of certain unspecified amendments to the Tenement House Law. "I am satisfied," he says, (the law) "should be further amended;" and he goes on to intimate that these amendments should take the form of some modifications of the provisions of the law in favor of the Borough of Brooklyn and the city of Buffalo. Of course, one cannot accept or reject these amendments in advance of their definite presentation, but in respect to the assertion that the law should be modified to meet the local conditions of the Borough of Brooklyn, there are certain general considerations to be urged. There are undoubtedly stronge marked differences of local building and residence conditions between the Boroughs of Brooklyn or the Bronx, and the Borough of Manhattan. Brooklyn, for instance, has a local type of three-family tenement, in respect to which the law was amended during the last session of the Legislature. But, on the other hand, it must also be remembered that these differences in local conditions are to a large extent temporary. When there are trains running between Manhattan and Brooklyn over four bridges and through three tunnels, the special local conditions at least in the older parts of the Borough of Brooklyn will soon disappear. How far the process will be one of levelling down in Manhattan, or levelling up in Brooklyn, we do not know, but at any rate it is certain that the East River as an impediment to transit is destined to disappear. What the supporters of the law wish to prevent is the growth in Brooklyn of the unwholesome tenement conditions, which prevail in Manhattan—conditions which could be eradicated in the end only by a violent wrench; and it is better to provide in advance against the appearance of such conditions than to let them grow and then pull them up. How far these considerations apply to the proposed modifications to the law cannot be stated in advance of the appearance of the amending bills, but so far as these amendments are based on differences of local conditions, it must be premised that local conditions are now in the way of being revolutionized.

TWO of Governor Odell's tax propositions have a direct and immediate bearing upon real estate. One is that a tax of 40 mills per annum should be placed upon mortgages, and the other that a recording fee of 10 cents per $100 be placed upon transfers of real and personal property. The first is a harking back to the Stranahan proposition of 1900 with the tax reduced from 50 cents to 40 cents, and the second is a revival with lesser dimensions of the war tax on transfers. It will surprise many that the Governor did not recommend the reintroduction of last year's bill placing a recording tax of 50 cents merely upon mortgages. He explains why he prefers the annual tax, but without his explanation the reasons would be obvious. In the first place the desire is to raise more money than could be obtained from a mere tax on recording; and, in the second, it is necessary to meet the opposition of the rural sections which defeated the bill of last year, which opposition was based upon the practical ground that the rural localities obtained the larger part of their income from personal taxation, and that this would be cut off by the State tax on mortgages proposed to be enforced accompanied as it was by the provision that the mortgages so taxed should be exempt from all other forms of taxation. To meet this objection it is now proposed that one-third of the proceeds of the new tax should go to the State and two-thirds to the localities. It is presumable that the Governor has consulted the leaders of the rural contingent in the Legislature before making his recommendations, but considering the difference between two-thirds of the proposed tax and that usually imposed, it is difficult to see how they can be satisfied with his suggestion. So far as the urban communities are concerned, as was pointed out in these columns a few weeks ago, there is a large and growing desire to have this question of taxation of mortgages finally disposed of. There are valid objections to a tax on mortgages as being in the nature of a double tax, but as there seems to be no way of getting them exempt from taxation altogether, any reasonable compromise proposition imposing a small tax and relieving them from liability of a large one, as personal property will receive favorable consideration, and in the end support most probably. This view has the aid of a recollection of the considerable support given in realty circles of this city to the Stranahan bill of two years ago, and the largely augmented favor with which the proposal of last year was received. There is a great difference between one tax of 50 cents for the life of a mortgage, and one of 40 cents that must be paid annually, but still the desire to dispose of the matter and the expectation, probably rather too confidently entertained, that the exemption from other tax liability will increase the demand for mortgages and reduce the rates of interest sufficiently to recoup the tax paid, may outweigh all objections. As to the proposed tax on deeds that is so small and as the larger Federal tax encountered no protest, its imposition is likely to be left largely in the discretion of the Legislature. It is not that these taxes are allowed to be correct in principle, but that it is felt that there may be a surrender of principle in order to secure stable conditions.

THE many elaborate reviews of the commercial and financial conditions of the world generally which appeared with the opening of the new year confirm what has been insisted upon for some months in these columns, that the process of revival in all the great foreign centres of finance and industry is underway and taking volume as time goes on. It goes without saying that the fact is important to capitalists and producers in this country, for given an assurance of increased activity and stability, they will increase their efforts to participate in the growing profits of the foreign markets. That they can do so now seems certain, because there has not only been a long period of depression and liquidation, but the latter part of this period is unmarked by any important failure and, as we have said, confidence is reviving. The effects of recent political events, that at first appeared to be ominous, only serve to confirm this view, because although each week apparently produces its nerve-testing complication, they all eventually dissolve under rational reasoning guided by a spirit of compromise. The Venezuelan and Moroccan troubles looked portentious at first, as did this week's announcement of Great Britain's protest against the passage of Russian war vessels through the Dardanelles, but the effects of any one or all of them on the markets were but slight and rather an excuse for a raid upon prices than a reason for a break. Gauged by the movement of prices there is a growing demand in all staples, typical quotations moving upward with commendable steadiness. French capital is displaying a little nervousness because of the socialistic tendencies of the present administration, and this is said to explain the recent French buying of British and British colonial securities. At the same time this buying is said to discriminate against New Zealand issues for the consistent reason that there the labor party has an ascendance not unlike that of the labor party at home, whose actions are sending the capital abroad for investment. It is a fact that New Zealand is borrowing at 4 per cent. on par, while other colonies can obtain a small premium at a lesser rate of interest. Russia is said to be still feeling the effects in every branch of the national life of a succession of bad harvests and partial famines. But these are the only spots that dim the otherwise bright prospect. It is significant of the subdued character of business in the recent past that very little money has been sought for new enterprises, and equally so of an improved future that most of the activity now apparent is preparative. There are readjustments of old undertakings to new conditions and the floating of loans for extensions and improvements, but the new enterprises with which doubtless the brains of promoters are teeming, as they always are, are carefully kept in the background.

IT is hardly necessary to call attention to the fact that the tax books will be opened to inspection next Monday, or that they have surprises in store for property owners in many sections. It is currently reported that the increase in total valuations will approximate a billion and a half of dollars. Increases will be found to be heavy in sections that have of late years been favored with activity and in some cases owners will find their assessments more than doubled. To estimate the effects of the raised assessments in tax payments, in any particular case, it will be necessary to compare their proportions with the proportions of the prospective decrease in the tax rate. If, for example, it is accepted that the new tax rate will be 1.60, or about 70 per cent. of the present tax rate, it will take an increase of about, putting it roughly, 45 per cent. in valuations to neutralize the benefit of the reduced tax rate. Therefore any increase of assessment short of that proportion will be a gain to the taxpayers and any above a loss, provided that the tax rate will not be more than 1.60. Of course the gain will appreciate and the loss depreciate if the rate proves to be lower than that figure.

For a More Beautiful New York.

RECOMMENDATIONS OF THE MUNICIPAL ART SOCIETY FOR A FUNDAMENTAL PLAN.

The Municipal Art Society's report to Mayor Low puts into a form tangible and complete a large number of ideas for embellishing the city, and itself constitutes a fundamental plan, preliminary though it may be, of systematic development for all time to come. It concentrates and embodies suggestions from various other societies of artists, architects, civil engineers, merchants and manufacturers, and on that account, as representing the best advice obtainable at this time, is entitled to the highest respect. It considers everything affecting the beauty of the city, taking up separately freight distribution, passenger traffic, parks, public buildings and their decoration, public monuments and general topics, under which last head are included the naming of streets and the placing of historical tablets. In a word, we have here present a plan so broad in its scope as to provide not only for public but also for private expenditure.

The report points out that Manhattan is dominated by a plan created in 1807, and, as yet, unmodified in essential details. New York's location is such that it must become a greater centre than the world has ever seen. Nothing but the folly of its citizens can postpone the prompt realization of this. The absence of a fundamental plan makes co-operation with adjacent districts and neighboring cities an impossibility. Schemes proposed to-day must be changed to-morrow. Costly improvements adequate to local conditions must eventually be made obsolete by the steady growth of the greater city. Millions upon millions are thus needlessly wasted. All projected developments are met with "pleas of economy." There can be no greater economy for the city than its adoption of an intelligent plan to which detail shall conform. It need not be carried out at once, but its establishment would guide the imagination of our citizens and make possible the effective co-operation of all interested in the development of our world metropolis.

The societies that contributed ideas are specifically named as follows: The Merchants' Association of New York, the New York Board of Trade and Transportation, the Manufacturers' Association of New York, the American Society of Civil Engineers, the Architectural League of New York, the National Society of Mural Painters, the National Sculpture Society, and the Municipal Art Society itself.

Under the head of Parks the report advises that to the existing park area should be added water front parks, connected by parkways, and forming breathing space, with appropriate opportunities for recreation. The small park system should be extended, not always by condemnation of large tracks or even blocks, but by competent designing of small tracts. Old parks could easily be rearranged to suit new conditions, and outlying districts so encouraged to acquire park reservations as to supplement the plan of the city itself.

In regard to public buildings the report suggests that instead of letting such be located at hazard, reservations should now be made which, as the city grows, can be utilized as sites for monumental structures. The adoption of a proper plan would make possible the co-operation of citizens interested in its welfare, and eventually by gift or bequest many public or quasi-public buildings would be added by private or semi-private enterprises. The location of libraries, hospitals, schools, colleges, settlement houses and charities could thus be so guided as to provide more appropriate city buildings. Public buildings should have not only consistent architecture, bue should have as well their sculptural and mural decorations selected with reference to the purpose for which the building was created, and the historic interest of the section in which it is placed. Such buildings should be treated with rational decoration, considered at the inception of the building by men whose special artistic training fits them for such planning.

The Art Society received more suggestions regarding monuments than on any other subject. The following are the principal ones: A water gate and triumphal arch at the Battery; a monument in Battery Park to record the growth of the country from immigration; a public forum at Union square; a monument to the prison ship martyrs at Fort Greene, Brooklyn; a historic monument at or near 23d st and 5th av, to record the events of the civil war; historical tablets; memorial fountains—many, if not all, of which would be given by our public-spirited citizens, if they could but feel that in so doing they were contributing to perfect the details of a plan so grand that, when completed, it would make our city the leading city of the world.

For freight traffic provision should be made, is the advice of the report, for freight terminii, such as the one proposed for Communipaw, with its logical changes of the contiguous property—the Newark Meadows; readjustment of the New York Central tracks at 42d st; the Pennsylvania Railroad tunnel, and the other tunnels to follow; possible canals for freight distribution; judicious development of the water fronts—and the eventual connection of these with the underground system. A successful city must be so planned as to permit economical and prompt delivery of merchandise. Natural advantages should be so supplemented as to utilize them to the utmost.

The problem of passenger traffic should be met by realizing that in time every important street must have an underground, not as at present constructed, but with the street excavated from house line to house line, thus permitting at the sides ample room for electric conduits, pipe galleries, and water mains, and saving in expense of repaving, excavation and water waste. Union station could then be so placed as to easily distribute the immense and ever-growing traffic. Avenues without adequate outlet should be extended to connect with main arteries. Bridge terminals should be made points of distribution and created to relieve congested districts. Subsidiary streets and arcades should further relieve specially crowded hours, and street traffic on main avenues and along water fronts should be added, through division, by isles of safety.

The society truly says that the general project is, first of all, an engineering one, for it involves the consideration of problems of design and of construction in almost every branch of applied science, æsthetic and economic. Such a plan as that proposed, the society thinks, would be rather a guide for whatever the city might do than a requisition calling for action; nor would its realization involve drastic change of law. To consider the subject in all its phases the society recommends the appointment of a committee of broad scope.

Staten Island Looking Up.

The people of Richmond Borough are in a fair way to have their strenuous movement for better ferry service crowned with success, as the Sinking Fund Commission has decided to acquire the ferry terminal at St. George, from the Staten Island Rapid Transit Company. Then, owning both the Manhattan and the Richmond terminals, the city will be in a position to exact better consideration of the comfort of passengers. Next May the term of the present ferry franchise will expire, when new arrangements are expected to be introduced as a condition of receiving the privilege. The best offer will be the one which will do most, not for the city treasury, but for the convenience of the passengers. A syndicate that will be one of the bidders for the franchise has not only definitely agreed to put on a fleet of fast boats, but also to make the commutation fare three cents. Moreover, the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad Company, which now owns the franchise, has promised to make a like rate if the city will remit certain taxes against the ferry. Staten Island, in many respects a convenient and desirable residential spot, is evidently about to enter upon an era of larger popularity and growth. With ferries capable of making the run in twenty minutes, more frequent trips and a three-cent fare, it is difficult to see what could stop a building campaign of magnitude there. Some interests being desirous of changing the ferry terminals to Tompkinsville, representatives of the north side business interests appeared before Commissioner Hawkes on Thursday and strongly opposed this proposal.

"The Transfer Tax Act."

SHARES OF STOCK OF JOINT STOCK ASSOCIATION ARE TAXABLE AS PERSONAL PROPERTY, ALTHOUGH THE PROPERTY OF THE ASSOCIATION CONSISTS LARGELY OF REAL ESTATE.

To the Editor of THE RECORD AND GUIDE:

I enclose a newspaper clipping about the taxation under the "Transfer Tax Act" of the shares of the "New York Times," held by the estate of the late George Jones. Will your law editor give me his opinion as to the scope of the decision of the Court of Appeals, and especially whether it applies to shares in an ordinary realty corporation?

Answer.—George Jones, upon his death, left an estate valued at about $800,000, a part of which consisted of forty-six shares of the joint stock association known as the "New York Times." The Comptroller of the State commenced proceedings to collect the transfer tax, and the executors of the estate asked to have deducted from the value of the forty-six shares of the "Times" stock the amount of its good will, and also the amount of many libel suits that were then pending against "The Times."

Both these claims were disallowed. The executors also raised the further point that in so far as the value of these shares was made up of real estate (the "Times" building in New York City), the shares should also be considered as real estate, and not taxed, since the law taxed only personal property. The appraiser, the late George P. Webster, overruled this point, and upon the testimony of Richard V. Harnett that the building was worth $1,200,000, assessed the interest of Mr. Jones therein, represented by his shares, at $575,000. The executors immediately appealed to Surrogate Varnum, who sustained the appraiser's view, and Surrogate Fitzgerald subsequently concurred therein. The executors then took a further appeal to the Appellate Division, where they succeeded in having the decisions of the appraiser and Surrogate reversed by a divided court.

The Court of Appeals, in the opinion just handed down, all the judges concurring with Judge O'Brien, who wrote the same, holds that the stock is taxable as personal property, whether or not its value is largely made up of real estate.

The opinion is published in full in the "New York Law Journal" of December 20th.

A joint stock association differs from a corporation. It is a quasi-partnership, invested by statutes in New York and many of the other States with some of the privileges of a corporation. There is in such a company no dilectus personarum; that is, no choice about admitting partners; the shares into which the capital is divided are transferable at the pleasure of the person holding them, and the assignee becomes a partner by virtue of the transfer and the rights and duties of the partners or members are determined by the articles of association.

The question whether the shares of stock of such an association are to be treated as personal property and taxable as such under the Transfer Tax Act is new, but is now set at rest by this decision.

The stock of a corporation, whether it be a realty corporation or any other kind, has always been held to be personal property, and to be taxable under the various statutes relating to taxation.

The opinion is in part as follows: "The late George Jones was a member of a joint stock association, known as the 'New York Times.' The property of this association was represented by the issue of 100 shares of stock, of which the deceased owned 46. This association was formed in January, 1872, its articles being executed by 7 associates, and provided in detail for the management of the business; the eighth sub-division reads as follows: 'All the property, real and personal, and all the goods and chattels, choses and rights in action and credits of every name and nature with the evidence thereof, including the good will of the business of the association heretofore existing, known as 'The New York Times Establishment,' are put in by the undersigned, who are the owners thereof, and constitute the value of the shares of the association.'

"The ninth sub-division reads: 'The shares of the association shall represent all the rights and property mentioned in the foregoing article, together with all said property, goods and chattels, rights and credits, as shall from time to time be required, and shall always be divided into one hundred equal shares.'

"The articles further provide that each of the associates had the power to sell his shares subject to certain conditions not important to be considered at this time. Also, that the title to the real estate should vest in the president of the association and be held by him for its use and benefit, subject to the control and disposition of the board of directors, who were clothed with ample powers to conduct the business. * * * * It appears that the associates constituting this joint stock association treated their property, real and personal, as represented by shares of stock, and Mr. Jones in his will, saw fit to distribute his interest by adopting the same mode of representation.

"It was claimed by the Comptroller that these shares were personal property, and taxable as shares of stock in an ordinary corporation; the executors contended that as the joint stock association owned this realty, the interest therein of the shareholder was realty also, and as it passed under his will in the direct line, was exempt, the statute taxing transfers of realty only when passing to collaterals or strangers.

"In People ex rel. Winchester v. Coleman (133 N. Y., 279), Judge Finch pointed out the many respects in which joint stock associations resemble corporations, but emphasized the fact that the one derives its existence from the contract of individuals, the other from the sovereignty of the State. He said: 'The two are alike, but not the same. More or less they crowd upon and overlap each other, but without losing their identity; and so, while we cannot say that a joint stock company is a corporation, we can say, as we did say in Van Aernam v. Bleistein (102 N. Y., 360), that a joint stock company is a partnership with some of the powers of a corporation.'

"This quotation states in a brief manner the law relating to these associations as it exists in this State."

Here follows an interesting history of joint stock associations both in England and this country, and a review of the statutes and decisions of this State relating to them.

The opinion continues: "A particular feature of the joint stock association is the right of perpetual succession. In this respect it is like a corporation, and enjoys all the advantages flowing from such a privilege.

"It has frequently been held in this State that where a tax has been imposed upon all moneyed or stock associations, it could not be collected from a joint association, for the reason that technically it could not be regarded as a corporation (People ex rel. Winchester v. Coleman, 133 N. Y., 279). In these cases the question was whether a joint stock association was taxable upon its capital under the provisions of the Revised Statutes. (I. R. S., 414, sec. 1), subjecting 'all moneyed or stock corporations deriving an income or profit from their capital or otherwise' to such a tax."

The opinions of Mr. Justice Barrett, at Special Term, Mr. Justice Van Brunt, at General Term, and Judge Fitch, in this court, all considered the question whether a joint stock association was a corporation, and whether the acts creating for it certain privileges intended to confer a corporate franchise. It was held that, while a joint stock association possessed certain corporate powers, nevertheless it was not a corporation within the meaning of the statute to which reference has been made.

The fact that a joint stock association is not in legal contemplation a corporation, and not liable to taxation under acts seeking to reach corporations, in no way militates against the position assumed by the Comptroller in this case. * * * * It is contended on behalf of the executors that this large amount of real estate, which is of greater value than appraised, is not subject to the tax, for the reason that it would descend to the testator's children, and was not taxable under the Transfer Tax Law in force at the time of the testator's death. The fact is that at the time of Mr. Jones's death the title to the real estate of "The New York Times" was vested in its president for the benefit of the association, and this situation was not changed by that event. It was not possible that the real estate of "The New York Times" could, after Mr. Jones's death, remain as theretofore, the property of the association, be used for its business purposes, and still be regarded, so far as testator's interest was concerned, real estate passing to his children. It was neither so in fact nor in law."

After reviewing a number of other cases, the opinion concludes as follows: "We are of opinion, on principle and authority, that the shares of a joint stock association should be treated as personal property and be taxable as such. The difference between a corporation and a joint stock association, in view of the many corporate powers bestowed upon the latter, is more in degree than kind. The policy of the Legislature in creating corporations is to continue to a certain extent the common-law liability of partners or joint debtors under which the stockholders would rest if unincorporated and engaged in a joint venture or partnership. This liability is primary and not statutory, and rests upon the directors and stockholders alike. The Legislature says in effect to all the members of the corporation, you shall enjoy certain corporate powers, but as to creditors you remain liable as partners at common law, subject to such limitations as we have placed upon that liability."

Protection Against Loss of Life by Fire.

RECORD OF THE FIRST YEAR'S WORK OF THE NEW BUREAU OF BUILDINGS OF MANHATTAN BOROUGH.

Superintendent of Buildings Perez M. Stewart has prepared a report of the operations of the Fire-Escape Inspection Division of the Bureau for the first year of its organization under the new Charter. This division, since the burning of the Park Avenue Hotel and the Seventy-first Regiment Armory, has been made an important branch of the new Bureau, and a regular staff of special and district inspectors has been organized and detailed to make a systematic inspection of buildings of this special and kindred classes. During the year, these inspectors have made a tour of all the hotels, theatres, schools, both public and private, and all places of public assembly, as well as hospitals, asylums, office buildings, department stores, factories and workshops. A particular feature of this work has been the inspection of the private schools, of which a very thorough investigation was made.

Mr. Stewart's statement shows that he rigidly enforced a rule requiring architects to show clearly upon the plans of all buildings to be erected, and which would come within the law requiring fire-escapes exactly what facilities it is proposed to equip such buildings with, and that he made the announcement that no plan would be approved unless it showed that adequate provision was to be made for the safety of the inmates of such proposed buildings.

A record of the year shows that in the matter of enforcing proper life and limb protection in buildings of all classes coming within the fire-escape provisions of the Building Code, more has been accomplished than in any previous year since the establishment of the Department, the record, as it affects hotels, theatres, hospitals, far exceeding any year's work heretofore accomplished.

While the property-owners have, in most cases, met the orders issued by the Bureau in a cheerful spirit of compliance, Superintendent Stewart expresses particular gratification at the manner in which the proprietors of hotels and theatres and buildings of the public class generally have co-operated with the Bureau in making with desirable promptness those changes which the Park Avenue Hotel experience indicated to be necessary to make this class of buildings practically safe.

The report gives the following statistical review of the work of the year:

|---|---|
| Fire escape cases pending Jan. 1, 1902. | 2,849 |
| Cases transferred under new Charter provision to Bronx Bureau of Buildings | 651 |
| Cases transferred under same provision to Tenement House Dept.. | 2,037 |
| New cases filed during 1902. | 1,711 |

Of the buildings affected in this list there were, hotels, 277; theatres, 12; concert halls, 3, workshops, 439; factories, 117; office buildings, 57; lodging-houses, 23; loft buildings, 17; department stores, 9; places of assembly, 46; hospitals, 10; schools, 74; tenements, 551; miscellaneous public buildings, 20; and asylums, 4.

Fire-Escape Orders complied with, 1,019; notices issued to owners or responsible agents, 2,443.

The report further shows that the special fire-escape corps made examinations and recommended fire-escape equipment to be provided where necessary, as follows: Private schools, 452; colleges, 31; theatres, 51; music halls, 35; department stores, 24; factories and workshops, 800.

The superintendent states that 53 prominent hotels of the city have fully complied with the orders issued by the Bureau for their better protection, and of the 12 theatres whose managers or owners were served with fire-escape notices, 8 have fully complied with all the requirements, and that work is in progress on the others.

The Block of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co.

The Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. has at last succeeded in acquiring the entire block bounded by Madison square, 4th avenue, 23d and 24th sts. At a meeting held on Monday at the Seaman's Bank, No. 44 Wall st, representatives of the company and the Madison Square Presbyterian Church, agreed upon terms under which the site now occupied by that church is to become the property of the company. These terms have now to be ratified by the congregation. If that is done, as undoubtedly will be the case, the church will simply move across the street to the site on which now stands the residence of the late Miss Catherine Wolfe. It was finally agreed that the Wolfe site, at the northeast corner of Madison av and 24th st, which the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. bought about a month ago for $750,000, is exchanged for the present site of the church, the insurance company paying a cash bonus on the site of $300,000. This makes the total price paid by the company $1,050,000. The Wolfe property was purchased by the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. from the estate of David W. Bishop through Horace S. Ely & Co.

The two sites exchanged are of exactly the same size, 75x150. The preparations for the rebuilding of the church on the new site are to begin as soon as the agreement has been submitted to and approved by the congregation. The Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. will improve the site just acquired with another addition to the structure, with which it has been gradually covering this block, and when completed will have a building embracing a larger ground area, with more rentable space, than any building in this or any other city. The block is 200x430, making a ground area of 86,000 square feet. Since the building is eleven stories high, the lots acquired will give the company a gross floor space of 946,000 square feet, and figuring that 60 per cent of this is rentable, it includes 567,000 square feet of rentable space. The nearest approach to this is the building of the Mutual Life Insurance Co., on the block bounded by Nassau and William sts, Cedar and Liberty sts. This block is approximately 160x400, giving a total area of 64,000. Assuming that the remaining low buildings will eventually be made fifteen stories high, the block when entirely improved would have a gross floor area of 715,830 square feet, and a rentable area of 431,888 square feet, or 35,712 less than that of the Metropolitan Life.

The Governor, the Legislature and the Constitution.

The new manifestations which the Governor gives of his devotion to one idea, tax reform, invite various criticism from real estate and building interests. A gentleman who has been often to Albany in the interest of tax legislation expresses the opinion that the Executive has not suggested a single thing under the head of tax reform that the Legislature will vitalize into law. It will not repeal the franchise tax law, nor will it enact a tax for real estate transfers.

"No Legislature will dare lay a tax on real estate transfers without doing the same for stocks and bonds, not to speak of other personal property," he added.

"The Governor also makes a serious mistake when he says that the listing and taxing of mortgages would increase the debt limit of municipalities for bond issues, because the Constitution expressly states that the limit of municipal indebtedness shall be measured by the total value of the real estate."

War Revenue Taxes.

Having received a number of inquiries as to what the various war tax rates were on conveyances and mortgages, we now republish them:

July 1, 1898, to June 30, 1901.

On conveyances, where the value exceeds $100 and does not exceed $500, fifty cents; and for each additional $500 or fractional part thereof, fifty cents.

On mortgages, or conveyance by way of mortgage, to secure any definite sum, if the sum secured exceeds $1,000, and does not exceed $1,500, twenty-five cents; and on each $500 or fractional part thereof in addition, twenty-five cents.

July 1, 1901, to June 30, 1902.

Conveyances, below $2,500, exempted; above $2,500, twenty-five cents for each $500.

The Governor, in his annual message, advocates a tax of ten cents per hundred on all conveyances.

Sentiments of Bronx Taxpayers on Important Subjects.

At the meeting of the Taxpayers' Alliance of Bronx Borough on Wednesday evening, it was strenuously urged that the Elevated R. R. should be compelled to put in a third rail the entire length of its line and branches, and also made to extend its line to Woodlawn, as well as to West Farms.

The question of an amendment to the Tenement House Law so as to allow three-family houses to be exempt from its operation in construction, but still subject to the Building Code, was much discussed. It was claimed that the suburbs should not be subject to the same conditions in building that would be proper in the crowded portion of Manhattan and of Brooklyn.

The Annual Report of the New York Life Insurance Co.

It is not quite eleven years since John A. McCall became President of the New York Life Insurance Company. He found it a great company, with $575,000,000 of insurance and $125,000,000 in assets. Its report for the year ending December 31, 1902, published in another column, shows over $1,550,000,000 of insurance in force and over $322,000,000 in assets. Every important item—assets, surplus, income and insurance—have much more than doubled in eleven years. How has such a stupendous result beeen achieved? Mr. McCall's first step was to offer a policy contract embodying more and more valuable benefits. The second step was to convince the public of the soundness of the company, by the increasing publicity of its business. The third step was to submit the company's business and methods to the scrutiny of every insurance department in the world, and to conform to their most rigid requirements for the benefit of policyholders. The fourth step was to build up an agency force under direct contracts with the company, and to establish branch offices in all parts of the world. It is simply a case of the best contract, the greatest publicity, the most safeguards, and good men to push the business.

The attention of people interested in country property is directed to the advertisement in another column of an estate at Sussex, N. J., which is very desirable for a club or for a gentleman ready to pay for good fishing and hunting.

On Friday, Jan. 16th, Peter F. Meyer will sell at the New York Real Estate Salesroom, the valuable parcel at No. 24 John st. It is only 75 feet and 6 inches from the corner of Nassau st. Its possibilities as a speculative proposition are very great. Details can be obtained at the auctioneer's office, No. 111 Broadway.

Attention is directed to the announcement on another page that a large piece of water front property, on the north corner of 36th st and East River, with all wharfage and cranage rights, is for lease for a term of years at moderate rental. Applications should be addressed to Henry Keale, of No. 25 Broad st, for further particulars.

Looking for a New Real Estate Auction Room.

Since it has been definitely settled that the Trinity Building is shortly to be torn down, the Real Estate Auctioneers' Association and other tenants of the building have been looking around for new quarters. Yesterday it was reported that the Auctioneers' Association had secured a location on Park Place, but late in the day we learned from an officer of the Association that "nothing definite had yet been settled on." When told of the report about Park Place, he added: "It is not settled whether we will go to Park Place or Vesey st." A room in the Boreel Building, at 115 Broadway, for which they can get a two years' lease, is also mentioned.

Joseph P. Day has joined the ranks of the Real Estate Auctioneers' Association and will hereafter sell at auction, besides continuing his long-established brokerage, agency and appraising business, with offices at No. 932 8th av, near 55th st, and No. 258 Broadway. Mr. Day purchased John T. Boyd's membership and stand in the Auction Room.

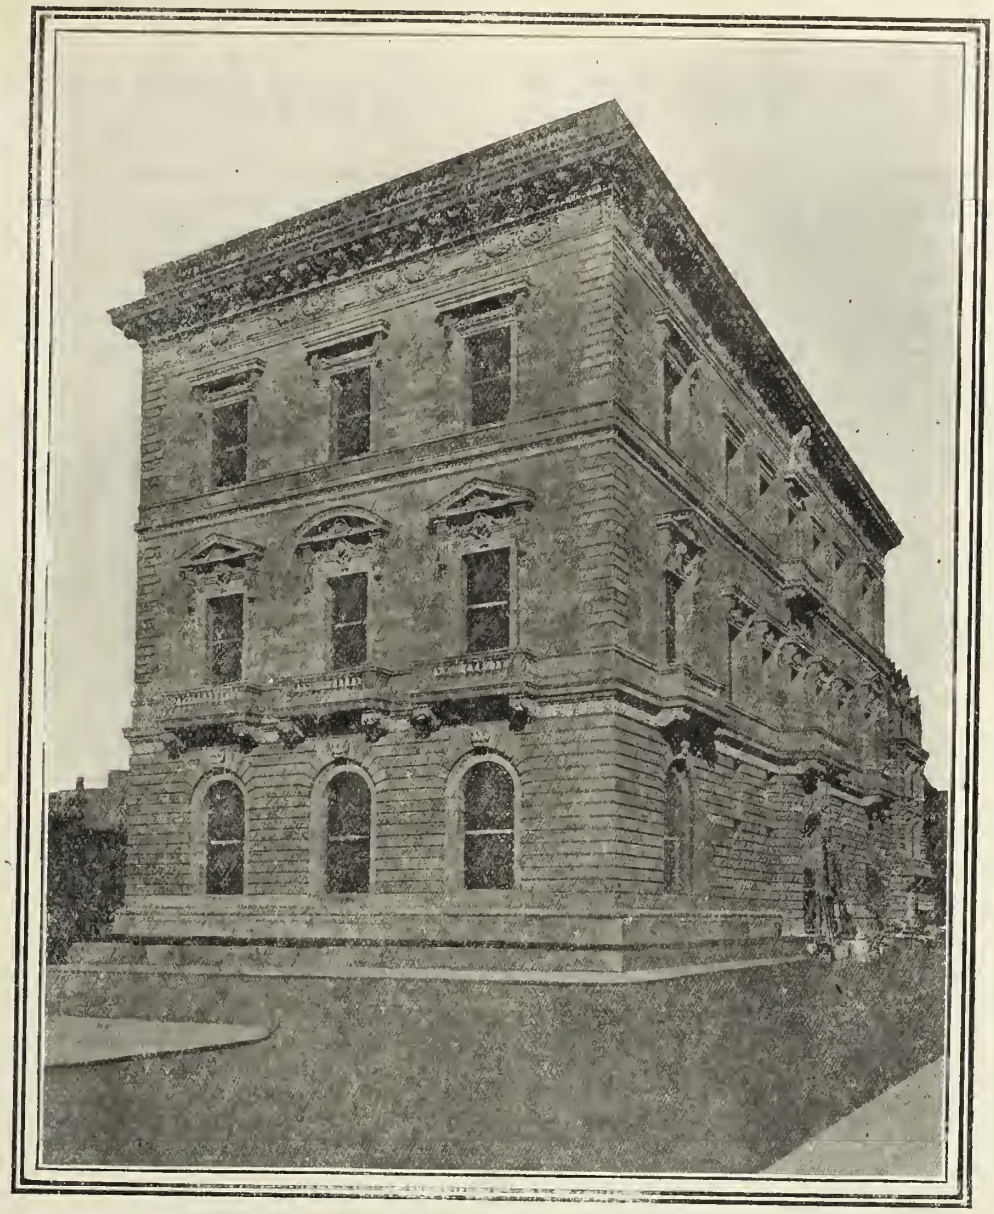
The St. Paul, a new 10-sty apartment hotel now under construction at the southeast corner of Columbus av and 60th st, will be rented by Chris. Schierloh, real estate agent, of No. 896 8th av, near 53d st.

Owing to the necessity of obtaining more office space, the Lawyers' Mortgage Insurance Co., now located at 37 Liberty st, have leased the building at 43 Liberty st, which they will alter and improve for their own occupancy.

The Barclay Realty Co. obtained from the Lawyers' Title Insurance Company a building loan of $1,700,000, at 4½ per cent., on the southwest corner of Broadway and Duane st. The site is to be improved with a large office building.



It was reported yesterday that William J. Casey had purchased Nos. 960 and 962 Amsterdam av from John O'Connor; as a matter of fact Mr. Casey bought the property some weeks ago, Mr. O'Connor simply acting in the capacity of a dummy.

Edward D. Palmer makes a specialty of selling and appraising real estats, and has centrally-located and easily accessible offices at No. 179 Columbus av, southeast corner of 68th st. His lists include many desirable improved and unimproved parcels.

Joshua W. Jones & Co., real estate brokers and agents, have moved from No. 154 6th av to No. 247 6th av, corner 16th st, where they have light and spacious offices. Mr. Jones has been a successful manager of 9th and 15th Ward properties for many years.

On Wednesday, Jan. 7th, the Lawyers' Title Insurance Co. declared a dividend of four per cent. upon its capital stock, an increase of one per cent. over the rate distributed last July. This company is evidently sharing in the prosperity of the real estate trade.

The Chamber of Commerce has before its executive committees for consideration a resolution introduced at the meeting on Thursday protesting against the removal of the chief distributing post-office from its present site. An official expression of opinion from the Chamber, while it might not change present plans, would have no little weight.

THE NEW UNION CLUB AT FIFTH AVENUE AND 51ST STREET.

Du Fais & Cass Gilbert, Architects.

The Union Club, the oldest in the city, has abandoned its old home at Fifth Avenue and 21st Street, a house which it had occupied since 1855, and the edifice will soon be torn down by the Central Realty, Bond and Trust Company, the purchaser, to make room for a monumental office structure. The new clubhouse at Fifth Avenue and 51st Street, just above the Cathedral, will not be ready for occupancy for some weeks yet, and in the meantime the members are accepting the hospitality of the Metropolitan, Calumet and New York Yacht Clubs. The Union was organized in 1836, and was first housed at 343 Broadway; in 1841 it moved to the Astor residence at 376 Broadway, and in 1850 to the Kernochan home, at 691 Broadway.

E. V. Pescia, late of Pescia & Colucci, is now located at No. 302 Broadway, carrying on the real estate business as E. V. Pescia & Co. Their specialty is the leasing, selling and taking charge of property in the Italian sections of the city, in which line Mr. Pescia is an expert.

Officials of the Tax Department are preparing to handle the annual rush of citizens to swear off taxes. The tax books, with the reassessment under the new 100 per cent. value plan, will be opened to the public for examination and correction on next Monday, and would remain open until April 1.

The New York Mortgage and Security Co., of No. 149 Broadway, organized last year by Mr. Edgar J. Levey and other officers and stockholders of the Title Insurance Co., has been very successful, and this week the stockholders received a dividend of 2½ per cent. for the six months ending Dec. 31, 1902.

The reports on file in Borough President Cantor's office show that more than three thousand small metal street signs have been put up in places in Manhattan, and all the illuminated signs are up in upper Broadway, above 42d st, in Central Park West, Amsterdam av, and Riverside Drive. The next thoroughfare to receive new signs will be Lexington av, or upper 5th av and Madison av.

One would hardly expect an employe of the city to be found working day and night, but one such is certainly in the employ of the city at this time, and has been for a number of years. The writer met him Thursday night, at 10 p. m., investigating a matter which he could have left for the day-time, and not by order of his superiors, but of his own volition. At his request his name is not mentioned, but it is one that has been much spoken of lately.

It is now definitely known that the Real Estate Auctioneers' Association will have to quit its present quarters, in the basement of the Trinity Building, at No. 111 Broadway, and the members are looking about for a new home. The association will probably settle in or near Broadway, a few blocks further uptown. Two qualifications are essential for their future habitation —a moderate rental and the favor of the Supreme Court, in which is vested the authority to name the place where legal sales at auction must be held in this county.

Charles Reckling, for many years one of the firm of William E. Callender & Co., real estate brokers of No. 35 Nassau st, has withdrawn from that firm. Mr. Reckling has formed a partnership with Richard Vallender. The new firm will operate in real estate, buying and selling for their own account. Their office, which adjoins that of Callender & Co., is at No. 35 Nassau st, and is well equipped with records, maps and everything essential for doing a large business. Mr. Reckling's experience as a broker augurs well for the success of the new firm.

William E. McFadden, collector of assessments and arrears, handed a report to Comptroller Grout on Thursday which shows that the collections in that branch of the Finance Department for 1902 exceeded those made in 1901 by $1,219,037.55. The receipts in the borough of Manhattan for the year were $6,196,-621.69, an increase of $94,614.84, and in the Bronx $3,948,044.80, an increase of $23,676.42. The receipts in the other boroughs follow: Brooklyn, $3,355,182.55; an increase of $927,738.45; Queens, $672,247.36, an increase of $135,001.17; and Richmond, $185,076.22, an increase of $38,006.67.

The West End Association, at its meeting on Monday, elected the following new members: Geo. De Forest Barton, William A. Crombie, Edw. K. Beddall, William J. Moran, Henry W. Mayer, Clarence De Wit Rogers. Resignations of John A. Connolly, John E. Kerr, Jr., John P. Kirwan, John Stewart, S. W. Thurber were accepted; the Committee of the Whole called to attend Rapid Transit Commission meeting on January 8th, to protest against continued delay on subway work upon Broadway. Messrs. Williams, Vogel, Kirby, Houghton and Gardiner Stewart, appointed special committee to represent the association in the present movement for better service on surface and elevated roads.

Material Market.

TERRA COTTA FIREPROOFING.

Business for this material was exceptionally good in the two years just closed, and manufacturers look for another of the same intensity. This they may expect even independently of the magnitude of general building. Having their fortunes bound up by law with a class of operations that must ever accompany business enterprise in this metropolis, they can look ahead with serenity. Last fall the factories were behind with their orders, but the present month sees the supply and the need on even terms. An advance in prices of about 10 per cent. occurred during the past year, which, however, was mainly owing to the higher cost of coal.

Standard sizes are now quoted as follows: Floor arches (6 to 12 inches deep), 10 to 18 cents a square foot; partition blocks, 2 to 6 inches, 5 to 8 cents. The present winter has yet seen but a slight falling-off in the requirement, which is in part owing to the delays that occurred in constructive operations last summer through slow deliveries of steel.

LUMBER.

The local movement of lumber is by no means large, and wholesalers tersely summarize the situation as quiet. Stocks on the whole are smaller than was true a year ago, but buying for replenishment is slow to begin. No material change in the price list is considered imminent, as manufacturers, seeing that building shows symptoms of discouragement, are inclined to let present figures alone. They will also probably stand for the advance in freight rates from Canada, of one cent a hundred, that will go into effect on January 10th. Freights by vessel from Norfolk are high, on account of the extreme cost of coal, $3.25 per M. being the present rate on North Carolina pine.

As lumber is at the highest level it ever reached, it is a popular surmise that the dealers are making a great deal of money. This may be true of the producers, but it is an injustice to retailers. An officer of a large retail company remarked this week:

"Lumber is higher than ever, and we are making less money. Only the rich, and those who must, are doing any building. Lumbering is getting into stronger hands all the while, so far as the ownership of timber lands and manufacturing is concerned. Putting lumber on the free list would not bring a noticeable change; the tariff is very small, and the shippers would simply put the dollar or two difference in their own pocket, instead of giving it to the public. When you realize that the available timber tracts in Canada are largely owned by American syndicates, the possibility of their doing this will be apparent. But what does the tariff amount to, anyway, compared with current prices? In the retail business up our way we found aggregate profits for the year altogether too small for any dividends on capital stock."

Estimates by our State College of Forestry based on the last census emphasizes the improbability that the stand of virgin timber in the United States alone would be able to meet the demand for another thirty years under present methods of utilization. Even under good forestry practice the possibilities from reproduction would meet the increasing necessity but for a short time. Even Canada could not long be relied upon. At the present moment nearly the entire cut of Canadian white pine for the coming year has been contracted for. An instance of the evolution going on in the forests is contained in the announcement that the Wabash Railroad Company is back of the Philadelphia syndicate which has purchased 15,000 acres of timber land lying in Barbour and Upshur counties, West Virginia. The transfer includes the Rich Mountain Railroad, its rolling stock (consisting of one engine and twenty cars), and several saw mills.

CEMENT AND BRICK.

With midwinter close by, cement continues in large use, running along on the level entered upon a month ago, and being favored latterly by generally mild temperatures. There is a gradual letting-up on both sides of the counter, but quotations need no change. Buying for future delivery is setting in strong, and there will be fewer dealers and consumers in straits next summer.

Although the manufacture of cement has been carried on in Mexico for some years now, great quantities are still imported from Europe and also from this country, which is making efforts to introduce various brands. There are many Belgian brands in the Mexican market, and the demand for cement is large. As there are extensive public works in hand and projected, there is reason to hope that the importation of cement will show a sensible increase. This is a class of goods which is generally shipped on consignment to the agent in Mexico, who sells at the best price he can and charges the senders a commission. The duty on cement is half a dollar per hundred kilos, gross (about 40 cents per 1¾ cwt.).

The current arrivals from Haverstraw Bay are sufficient for all the brick-laying now being done here. Winter stocks have scarcely been touched yet, and prices are weak, though the limits are unchanged.

GLASS.

The manufacturers and jobbers have finally come to an understanding, which is expected to last during the present fire. Prices are easier if anything, and business is quiet.

CORNICES.

Sheet metal work in its various departments has become a large and important line of business. Some branches are quite new, and some in their modernized form practically so. Metal ceilings and sidewalls, and metal-clad woodwork, for interiors, and metal cornices, hoods and various ornamental parts for exteriors, are comparatively modern developments. The ornamental is often so well fitted to its office and so skilfully done that criticism is silenced and admiration called forth. In cornice and allied work there has been a marked advance recently. Factories are equipped with the most curious and elaborate machinery and ample means for working out the most intricate design that the architect can conceive of. The improvements in manufacture have also resulted in concentrating the business in a few large concerns, whose large capital and facilities represent the rewards of superiority. Competition has evolved, furthermore, a reasonable price list. For good work, in copper, from $1.50 to $2 a running foot is charged, and when done in galvanized iron, from 75 cents to $1, though the plainest work may sometimes be obtained for 50 cents a running foot.

IRON AND STEEL.

With no lack of reliance upon a large consumption in 1903, there is yet uncertainty in regard to prices, which, to conform to the weight of opinion ought to be lower. Producers admit this, but wonder where a retreat would stop. Large buying has scarcely been resumed yet, and many lists are waiting for a decision. Another decline for pig iron is predicted, and large orders now, at the week end, might possibly be taken at slight concessions. If a year ago this month any one had predicted that in September iron, then quoted for $11.50, would sell at $25, his friends would have forsaken him. Who, then, will be so rash now as to mark out very far in advance a course for iron? With the most of what can be made for the first half of the year already sold at relatively high prices, producers will make a strong effort to keep these prices in countenance.

The entrance of independent mills last year into the sheet iron trade resulted eventually in a lower level of prices in this line, and keen competition still continues. The transactions in structural steel here during 1902 were the largest in local history. The mills have now so increased their capacity that premiums have in a large measure been discontinued, local yard prices reduced, and it is possible to obtain much earlier shipments at official prices. Large beams and angles are available in from four to eight weeks, but on medium and light shapes three months or more are required. The present prices of iron and steel bars is regarded as conservative. But, generally viewed, the prices of staple items in iron and steel manufactures, in which we include builders' hardware, seem to be near the end of the high level, and to have already commenced a decline.

All this must be an encouragement to builders, who have been awaiting a return to that ordinary activity in business where they find their really best profits.

Practical Fire Test.

Guy B. Waite Co.'s system of fireproof construction was severely tested in a recent fire on the second floor of Hotel Belle Claire.

A quantity of oils and paints caught fire and burned for several hours, destroying all wooden floors and trim in the rooms in which the fire occurred.

The fire was confined to the rooms in which it originated, and no damage was done to the fireproofing. An acocunt of this fire was given in Sunday's New York "Sun" of Dec. 28.

It is fortunate that a large proportion of recent fireproof buildings have this system of fireproofing.

Among a half-hundred recent buildings having this system are: Grand and Miner Theatres, 23d st Y. M. C. A., Progress Club, Sherman Square Hotel, Dutchess County Court House, several large hotels and warehouses.

An Increase of Capital Stock.

At a meeting of the stockholders of the Lawyers' Mortgage Insurance Co., held on Jan. 5th, it was voted to increase the capital stock to $2,500,000. the same to be paid in at $175 a share. This increase, which was necessitated by the expanding business of the company, will bring the capital and surplus up to $4,000,000. The new stock was taken by the existing stockholders, the Equitable Life Assurance Society, the Mutual Life Insurance Company and the Central Realty, Bond and Trust Company.

The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: Richard M. Hurd, President; Edwin W. Coggeshall, Charles S. Fairchild and David B. Ogden, Vice-Presidents; O. Egerton Schmidt, Treasurer; Cecil C. Evers, Secretary.

Mr. Richard M. Hurd, the new President, is well known as an authority upon realty values.

Masters and Men.

"Only a very small per cent. of the master painters of New York City are paying either the Amalgamated or the Brotherhood scale of wages," asserted an officer of the Master Painters' and Decorators' Association, when speaking this week of the difficulties between the two unions. Nothing has transpired since the local negotiations between the rival bodies were broken off at the first of the year, when the Brotherhood failed to strike for the Amalgamated scale.

About eight hundred machine and iron riggers having been refused an advance in wages, have gone on strike. The foremen have been receiving $3 and the helpers $2.25, with a nine-hour day. They asked for $5 and $3.50, with an eight-hour day. The employers were willing to compromise by giving $4 and $3, with no change of hours, but the men would not accept this. These riggers are not those who handle structural material, though they are affiliated with the Housesmiths' and Bridgemen's Union. The Housesmiths do their own rigging, and the business of the machine and iron riggers consists in handling boilers, machinery and iron equipment. The strikers are hardly likely to succeed alone against determined resistance, and so are trying to bring on a general strike of ironworkers in buildings next week. Whether or not a general cessation is to be ordered will be decided next Monday.

STOP THE CLASHING.

It is about time that strikes and "tie-ups" in consequence of petty disputes between building trades should cease. The stopping of all work so as to leave buildings in an incomplete state for weeks to the injury of persons not a party to the dispute, as in the case of the Vanderbilt house, does not appeal to the public as a proceeding entirely justifiable. Too often does a strike of the ordinary sort visit consequences upon innocent heads, it may be employers or operators, as well as owners, while the strikers may find work elsewhere. The boycott is a weapon too heavy for use in trifling quarrels. The axe that in the hands of pioneers leveled the forests, is not the instrument for tilling the soil. Others should take a leaf from the book of the plasterers, who, in their dealings with the employers' association, have resolved to arbitrate everything and never to strike. The American Federation of Labor will prove itself a worthy organization if it can bring all national organizations into harmony with this idea, as it hopes to do. At this moment the presidents of twenty-four organizations of ironworkers are meeting together in Pittsburg for the purpose of clearly defining the field to be occupied by each union. The immediate reason for the conference is a trouble that has arisen between the Bridge and Structural Iron Workers' National Union and the United Metal Workers' International Union, known as the inside structural ironworkers. It is the hope of the Federation not only to harmonize these two bodies, but to prevent any more strikes resulting from clashes between ironworkers' unions.

NEW CONTRACTORS AT THE CITY HALL.

The influence of the unions which Ryan & McFerran offended by their methods of work at the City Hall ought to be fully manifest to all concerned, seeing that Borough President Cantor has annulled the contract which the firm had for making general improvements to the building. Following the order for the suspension of work on Tuesday of last week, President Cantor instituted an investigation into the methods and especially the quality of the workmanship of the firm. Instances of disobedience of personal orders and of disregard of specifications were recited by the consulting architect, Mr. Aiken. When a certificate had been drawn up and signed by the architect, setting forth that the work was not according to contract, the Borough President was armed with the authority to eject the contractors. But for a time he stayed his hand, awaiting assurances from Ryan & McFerran as to future performance. It was thought for some days that assurances satisfactory all around would be forthcoming, and the firm, in expectation of an amicable settlement, dropped proceedings for an injunction. On Wednesday of this week Mr. Cantor ended the suspense by personally notifying McFerran that his work was altogether unsatisfactory; that the firm was not fit to undertake a job of this sort, and that the contract was off. The firm have thus far received payments of $13,500; the total contract price was $30,000. They will go to court and attack the ruling of the architect on the ground of bad faith. The bondsmen of the contractors are the American Surety Company and the United States Fidelity and Guarantee Company, the latter sometimes known as Andrew Freedman's Company, in which Richard Croker is a prominent stockholder. The chief engineer of this company says that the firm of Klees Brothers will be as acceptable to his company as to the union. Ryan & McFerran has been paying some of the union men only $3 a day, but the sureties will pay the regular schedules in all cases.

To a committee of delegates from the United Board of Building Trades who waited on him Thursday, President Cantor said:

"The matter is all settled and work on the City Hall will be resumed on Monday morning. The sureties will continue the bond of Ryan & McFerran, and other contractors will complete the work. The surety companies have agreed to all that you have requested. Klees Brothers will do the ornamental plaster work, and other concerns on the union card and agreeable to you will finish the rest of the work. The plasterers will receive $5 a day, and the other tradesmen the union scale of wages, and the marble work you have complained of will be rehandled to suit the requirements of the union."

The case will teach its useful lessons. The Borough President will hardly be discountenanced in the courts through any proceedings that the former contractors may take for insisting upon a quality of workmanship in keeping with the character of the job.

CONTRACTS AWARDED.

Frank A. Mueller, No. 13 Park Row, has closed a contract with the Street Cleaning Department for filling in and making land at Riker's Island. City ashes only will be used, and this work means the beginning of increasing Riker's Island by 187 acres, and making it a beauty spot. Mr. Mueller's contract aggregates about half a million dollars, and he will commence work about January 15th.

The contract for installing heating and ventilating apparatus in Public School No. 89, Manhattan, has been awarded to William N. Tobin at $15,414.

Of Interest to the Building Trades.

Rode & Horn, retail hardwood dealers, at Brooklyn, have incorporated.

Mr. W. D. Mershon, wholesale lumber, 18 Broadway, spent the holidays at Saginaw, Mich.

The Fulton Street Lumber Company, of Brooklyn, has been incorporated, with a capital stock of $5,000, by W. H. Hall, E. G. Nolan, and P. D. Meagher.

The Brownsville Company, of Pittsburg, Pa., have now completed their works at Morgantown, Pa., for the manufacture of wire glass. The specimens sent out show excellent results.

The plant of the Snead Architectural Iron Works, Louisville, Ky., having been almost entirely destroyed by fire on the morning of December 20, that company are anxious to receive catalogues of all tools and machinery used in their business.

To better accommodate a constantly increasing business the Noiseless and Draughtless Door and Window Cushion Co., manufacturers of the celebrated "Paragon Metal Weather Strip," have removed to larger and better equipped quarters at No. 112 West 42d st.

Edward A. Parmele and Oscar S. Flash, composing the firm of Parmele & Flash, wholesale dealers in lumber, at 35 Broadway, have made an assignment to Louis B. Oehmichen without preference. With liabilities estimated at $5,000, the assets are sufficient to pay creditors.

Merchants' liens aggregating $75,000 have been filed against Howard Gould's new castle at Sand's Point, by John Clark Udal, architect and builder of Great Neck, a culmination of a long series of disputes among the workmen for which it is said labor agitators were responsible.

Money has this week been loaned for as low as 5 per cent. on time periods of four to six months when the collateral has been gilt-edged. The predictions of easier money are coming true, and as Wall Street loans lose some of their fascination real estate investments gain in attractiveness.

The Iron Pipe and Supply Co. has been incorporated under the laws of the State of New Jersey, with a capital stock of $100,000. The temporary address of the company is given as 512 Perry st, Trenton, N. J. The incorporators are William S. D'Arcy and Thomas McClinchey, of Trenton, N. J., and Thomas J. McKenna, of 29 Broadway, New York City.

"If you want to make a loan on Brooklyn real estate to-day you are laughed at," exclaimed an indignant citizen to the State Railroad Commission, as an argument for better transportation facilities in Brooklyn. The B. R. T., hearing the thunder of public opinion, promises better service in the spring. The thing to do is to see that the promises are executed.

Officers of an alleged incorporated body that was not really incorporated were arrested this week on the charge of obtaining money under false pretenses and making fraudulent representations by signing the papers of the alleged "company," which was doing some sort of real estate business under a high-sounding name. The State Banking and Insurance Commissioner is making an investigation.

George W. Jump & Co., dealers in second-hand material, 124 West 26th st, Manhattan, have the contract from the Hudson Realty Company to remove the old Union Clubhouse, at the northwest corner of 5th av and 21st st. Their work is to be completed by February 15, when the construction of an 11-sty mercantile building will be started. The plans have been drawn by Buchman & Fox.

Housesmiths have made some progress with the structural steel in the great subway power stations at 58th st and 11th av. In a very few days bids will be received by the Interborough Rapid Transit Company, whose offices are in the Park Row Building, for all of the piping, tanks, valves, fittings and steam specialties required in the equipment of the station. The contract, it is estimated, will aggregate $300,000. Bids are being compiled both on the entire outfit and on the various separate sections or classes of materials required.

Annual meetings of lumbermen: National Lumber Exporters' Association, at Washington, D. C., Wednesday, January 21, 1903; Retail Lumber Dealers' Association of the State of New York, George Wilson-Jones, secretary, Utica, N. Y., will be held February 25, probably at Rochester; National Wholesale Lumber Dealers' Association, E. F. Perry, secretary, 66 Broadway, New York, to be held at Washington, D. C., March 4 and 5; National Lumber Manufacturers' Association, Geo. K. Smith, secretary, St. Louis, Mo., to be held at Washington, D. C., April 20 and 21; National Hardwood Lumber Association, A. R. Vinnedge, secretary, North Branch and Division sts, Chicago, Ill., to be held at Indianapolis, Ind., May 21.

The fine residence which is being erected at the corner of Madison av and 37th st, New York, for Capt. J. R. De Lamar, is to be unique in the respect that it will be equipped with no less than five electric elevators. The Otis Elevator Company has been awarded the contract to install the following: A passenger elevator, a servants' elevator and a dumb-walter—all to be fitted with the push-button system of control, whereby the movements of the cars are controlled by merely pushing buttons in the cars and at the several landings. In addition the contract calls for a sidewalk elevator for ashes, etc., and an automobile lift for conveying motor cars from the street level to a storage room in the sub-basement. C. P. H. Gilbert is the architect of this fine structure.

Charles Buermann & Co. have sold for Henry Buermann No. 207 12th st, 4-sty double flat, 25x65x100, to The Essex Realty Co.

The Fayerweather estate, which has owned the Johnston Building, on Nevins st, near Flatbush av, since 1899, has just sold the property to the Federal Brewing Company of Brooklyn. Ezra D. Bushnell, of the D. & M. Chauncey Real Estate Co., was the broker. The building and land cost originally $135,000. The Federal Brewing Company is the successor to the Long Island Brewery. It is composed of many of the retail liquor dealers of Brooklyn, and Valentine Schmitt is president of the corporation. The Johnston Building was erected in 1892, by the former well-known grocery firm of Johnston Bros. It was planned by M. J. Morrill, a Brooklyn architect. The upper floors contain an assembly room, studios and lodge rooms.

TO WIDEN LIVINGSTON STREET.

The Brooklyn Heights Board of Local Improvements, at a meeting on Friday afternoon, decided to recommend the carrying out of the plan to widen Livingston st, from Flatbush av to Court st, Brooklyn. The original idea was to make the thoroughfare 110 feet wide, but the board cut this down by 10 feet. The street is now less than 50 feet wide, and is of little use as a thoroughfare, either for vehicles or pedestrians. An engineer of the Department of Public Works estimated that the street could be widened to 110 feet, and paved with asphalt at a cost of $1,800,000. Before the improvement can be carried out it will have to pass the Board of Estimate and Apportionment, and the Board of Aldermen.

Ex-Commissioner of Buildings Thomas B. Rutan died on Monday night at his home, 576 Madison st, Brooklyn. He was born in Newark, N. J., in 1837, and had lived in Brooklyn since 1845. He was engaged in business as a mason and builder when he enlisted in the One Hundred and Thirty-ninth New York Volunteers for service in the civil war. He was the builder of many of Brooklyn's most prominent buildings, among them the Fourteenth Regiment Armory, Mount Prospect Water Tower, Brooklyn City Railroad Building in Montague st; St. Augustine's Church, the National City Bank Building, the Central Presbyterian Church, and the People's Bank Building. He was also Superintendent of Construction of the Federal Building in Brooklyn, and in 1892 was appointed Commissioner of Buildings of the old City of Brooklyn. Mr. Rutan was prominent in Grand Army circles, and was a member of the Constitution Club, Knights of Honor, Knights Templar, Knights of St. John and Malta, and of Cornerstone Lodge, F. and A. M.

Product and Appliance and Other Matters.

Information regarding new building material or appliances will be duly noticed when addressed to editor product and appliance department.

Catalpa wood is more enduring than any other and the Department of Agriculture is encouraging its growth throughout the state. No traces of decay are discernible in catalpa after being in use over forty years. It is considered invaluable as sleepers and telegraph poles and ought, if only on account of its remarkably slow burning qualities, to be sought after as building material.

Builders and others desirous of using Hydrofugal, either as a preservative of steel, plaster or cement are urged by the manufacturers to place their orders with dealers far in advance of the time it is actually needed. "The Record and Guide," says the Central Chemical Co.'s manager, "is far beyond our expectations in its advertising value. We have orders now which will take three months to execute, and we are compelled to build a new and much larger plant."

We learn that the inspectors employed by the Bureau of Buildings to inspect fireproof wood which can be accepted conditionally, will, in 1903, be compelled to brand each log or plank they accept as fireproof, with their initials. This is excellent.

Explosions from dynamite's sensibility to a comparatively low temperature are still frequent and the cause of much destruction and woe. Dynamite will fuse at about 370° F without the aid of the electric battery, and it seems almost criminal to permit its storage in proximity to dwellings either in large or small quantities.

So long, however, as dynamite is controlled by a gigantic, soulless trust public safety is not to be considered against the almighty dollar. Dynamite rightly understood is an explosive which is superseded. It is not to be compared with Masurite, which cannot be exploded at any number of degress Fahrenheit without the special cap and battery. But this is all well known.

One of the simplest means of annihilating an incipient blaze is to throw on it a handful or two of a mixture of fullers earth and carbonate of soda. This is a dry powder fire extinguisher par excellence and is simple and cheap, as it is effective at the start.

Wire glass will soon have another manufacturer. We suppose this one will join the wire glass trust Talking about wire glass reminds the writer that he has seen a beautiful glass panel with fine steel floral work embedded in its centre. Upon examination it was seen that the steel was a very fine and narrow tape. The edge was facing the sheet and almost invisible, while the width of the tape was not more than one 64th of an inch.

Bay Window Ordinance.

The Committee on Buildings of the Board of Aldermen has reported favorably the following amendments to this ordinance. The Borough Presidents are designated as the persons to issue permits; payments for permits to be made in whatever way may be most convenient:

"Section 3. Each application for the erection of a bay window projecting more than one foot beyond the building line shall be accompanied by a certified copy of the last assessed valuation of the property on which said bay window is to be erected, which appears upon the books of the Department of Taxes and Assessments. Except as hereinafter provided, the amount that shall be paid as compensation to the city for privilege of erecting each bay window shall be at the rate of 10 per cent. of the assessed valuation per square foot of the property on which the said bay window is to be erected (not less than one dollar nor more than five dollars), for each and every square foot, or fraction thereof, of area covered by said bay window beyond the building line for each and every story through which it is carried. (The rate to be based upon the assessed valuation of the property as confirmed by the city authorities.)

"If the projection of a bay window does not exceed one foot beyond the building line, and it is not carried higher than the sill of the second-story windows, the rate throughout the City of New York shall be ten cents for each square foot or fraction thereof of area covered by said bay windows beyond the building line."

Questions and Answers.

NO WRITTEN AUTHORIZATION TO SELL.

To the Editor of THE RECORD AND GUIDE:

A, owner, authorizes B, broker, verbally to sell his property. B finds C, buyer, and takes him to A, and finally gets C to pay A's price. B draws the contract, which is signed by both A and C in B's presence. A gives B check for part of his commission, and the day after giving it, stops payment. There is no dispute as to the employment of B by A or his authorization. Does the Law of 1901, Chapter 128, prevent B from collecting commission because of his omission to have his authorization in writing?

Answer.—A broker who, since the passage of the law referred to, sells real property in cities of the first and second class without written authorization, cannot recover his commission at law. The only decision that I know of as yet on the point was rendered in the Supreme Court two months ago, and is reported in 39 Misc. Rep., 93, Whiteley v. Terry. Justice Clarke, in his opinion, quotes from Fox v. Dixon, 34 N. Y., St. Rep., 710, as follows: "It is a settled principle that one cannot recover compensation for doing an act to do which is forbidden by law and is a misdemeanor. The contrary rule would make an absurdity. It would permit one to hire another to commit a misdemeanor, and would compel the payment of the contract price for doing what the law forbids. Whether this statute is wise or not we cannot examine. * * * We must give effect to it. And we cannot permit a recovery of compensation for doing an act which this statute declares to be a misdemeanor."—Law Editor.

OLD MORTGAGE BLANK USED.

To the Editor of THE RECORD AND GUIDE:

Will you kindly give me your opinion in the following matter. A contracted to sell a piece of property to B for a certain consideration, subject to mortgages for the sum of $15,000.00; the house only had mortgage for $10,000. B did not want to execute the mortgage of the difference of the $5,000.00, but told A to execute a mortgage and put it on the property before the day of closing. A day before the closing A put a mortgage on record for $5,000.00, and the next day A delivered a deed to B as agreed and so stated in his deed, "Subject to $15,000.00 mortgages."

Now, when that mortgage came back from record, he then discovered a mistake in the mortgage, the usual form of the mortgage was printed "Eighteen Hundred" and he had not changed it to "Nineteen Hundred" and simply added on the present year and the year coming due, which is two (2) and five (5), now this makes the mortgage be one hundred (100) years old. Upon receipt of the mortgage from register's office and finding out the fact, the mortgagor immediately corrected same, making it read "Nineteen hundred" and had the same re-recorded. But A had no longer title then on record, but it is the same mortgage as had been executed before B took title. Is the mortgage good? And what steps can the mortgagor take if the said mortgage is not good.

Answer: The mortgage is perfectly valid.—Law Editor.

The Smoke Nuisance.

The question of smoke consumption has long agitated the city of Paris, as well as cities in our own country, and although it is forbidden to discharge smoke into the Parisian atmosphere, just as it is into those of New York, the means for avoiding it is no better understood there than here. In 1894 a grand competition was held by the city of Paris for smoke-consuming apparatus. One hundred and ten devices were exhibited, of which not one was held by the judges to be satisfactory, and only six were awarded even a premium. Since then very little progress has been made, and it seems to be an official, rather than a patentee, who has, so far, come nearest to success. This official, M. Sabourain, inspector of the pneumatic tube service of the Paris post-office, having several boilers under his charge, was led to study the possibility of diminishing, by some simple means, the discharge of smoke from their chimneys, a discharge which not only contravened the police laws, but, to a certain extent, wasted coal. As everyone knows, the principle of all smoke-consuming devices for boiler furnaces is to force the smoke from the fresh coal to pass through a mass of coal already brightly burning so that the carbon of the smoke may be caught and consumed. Although the principle is simple, the practice is by no means equally so, for the carbon-bearing smoke, as it passes through the second fire, must find there oxygen with which to combine, and the problem of supplying oxygen both to the second fire and to the smoke has been found a difficult one.

To meet the case as directly as possible, Mr. Sabourain, taking, for example, the fire box of a water-tube boiler, inserts a fire brick arch over the front half of the grate, above the fire door, but curving downwards at the back, toward the grate; and, at the same time, an iron plate is hung in the ash pit, below the middle of the grate. When the fire is lighted, a quantity of coal is placed on the front of the grate, and, when thoroughly incandescent, the mass is pushed to the rear. The next charge of coal is put on the front of the grate and the smoke which at first rises from it is directed by the fire brick arch down to and over the brightly burning coal beyond. At the same time the plate, hanging loosely in the ash pit, cuts off some of the air from the rear portion of the fire, while it increases the proportion of oxygen which passes through the front part and which the smoke carries with it to the rear, where the heat is sufficient to determine combination. This simple arrangement seems to have proved very successful. Although the firebrick arch, of course, cuts off the front part of the water tubes from the direct action of the fire the loss in evaporating power due to this is said to be fully made up by the more perfect combustion of the fuel, while the arch, by protecting the front ends of the tubes and their connections from violent fluctuations of heat, and from the currents of cold air which enter when the fire doors are opened, favors constancy of pressure and preserves the tubes and joints. On the first installation of the apparatus in a battery of boilers in the Avenue Breteuil, while the smoke was practically suppressed, it was found that more coal was used by about five per cent. than was burned without it. The difference was, however, discovered to be due to the loss of small particles of coal through the grate in shifting the charges from the front to the back of the fire; and, as "Le Genie Civil" tells us, it was substantially overcome by changing the grates and putting in those of the Wagner pattern, the bars of which are only one-quarter of an inch apart.

The Development of Rolled Beams.

There were so many engineering triumphs during the nineteenth century and there are so many champions to uphold the supremacy of particular examples, it is not surprising that their relative value has not been established. But as regards statical construction nothing arose during the century to surpass the determination of the forms of beams and columns. Previous to 1820, the forms which were in use would now be considered as absurd. The limitation of the resistance to extension offered by cast iron was an obstacle to its general employment for beams. The elaborate and costly experiments in Great Britain of Hodgkinson and Fairbairn, which were confirmed by those ordered by Robert Stephenson, to discover the most suitable form for a wrought-iron beam which would serve as a substitute for cast iron, were crowned with success. It was established beyond doubt, that with two horizontal flanges united by a web a beam was produced of which the strength could be calculated beforehand, and which was not liable to the uncertainties or accidents that diminished the confidence in the use of cast iron. The flanges might take the form of a series of cells or chambers and the web might become a framing of struts and ties, but the principle of a great structure like the Britannia Bridge was identical with that of a small girder made up of angle-irons and plates and which could be utilized for a factory floor or for a bridge over a lane. From that apparently simple conclusion ctructures have become possible which have not only revolutionized the practice of bridge building, but have enabled civil engineering to accomplish its main purpose of facilitating communication between men.

The simplicity of the normal wrought-iron beam was an inducement to inventors to devise arrangements for its production by rolling. If angles, tees and channels could be turned out in unlimited quantities, why should not a form which might be described as a double tee or a quadruple angle-iron with a web be also feasible? Various sections of rails could be rolled, and why not I-beams or joists? A strike of carpenters in Paris had extended the use of iron, and, moreover, English architects began to realize the advantage of having floors which resembled the French, and in which rolled iron was an element. The production of joists was therefore quickened, but for a long time the sections were limited in their dimensions. An increase of size was effected with difficulty. Twenty years ago the great Cockerill Company in Belgium rolled no larger sections than 12½ inches by 6¼ inches for iron, and 8⅝ inches by 4 inches for steel. The biggest steel joist which has been available in Europe up to the present measures 20 inches by 7¼ inches, although in America we have 24 inches by 7½ inches. The difficulty is as much with the width of the flanges as with the depth. As a rule the flanges were supposed to measure one-half the length, and thus such proportions as 12 inches by 6 inches, 10 inches by 5 inches, 8 inches by 4 inches, 6 inches by 3 inches, have become familiar among builders. After a certain limit the proportion is diminished—16 by 6, 14 by 6 and 17¾ by 6¾ are recognized market sections.

The inefficiency arising from the inadequacy of small size sections was overcome. Plates have been added to increase the width of joists, and two or more have been rivetted together in order to obtain the desired height. At one time it was generally accepted that for all girders which exceed 12 inches in depth it was economical to construct them of plates and angle-irons, but in a great many cases there is not sufficient time for the building up of beams.

What we have said is of course familiar to our readers, but it will help to explain the satisfaction in which every growth in size of rolled joists is received. The whole history of the world, it has been stated, would have been altered if Cleopatra's nose had been an inch longer or shorter. The possibility of being able to obtain a 24-inch instead of a 20-inch girder may have an important influence in fixing the character of a building. What, then, is to be said of an improvement in rolling mills by which 30-inch girders can be as easily procured as 7-inch joists were at one time? The advantages would be difficult to estimate on account of their vastness.

Duties of an Architect in England.

In an address delivered before the Architectural Association of England in a meeting in London, in 1901, the following line of duty was mentioned as the usual services recognized among the profession:

1. Reasonable preliminary sketches in pencil, revised until the wishes of the client are perfectly ascertained.

2 An approximate estimate of cost, such as may be obtained by cubing.

3. Preparation of a full set of drawings to one-eighth scale—complete in all respects, with one traced copy of the same for the use of the builders in carrying on the works.

4. A complete detailed specification, with conditions of contract, the same to be in duplicate—one copy being for use of builder.

5. Advertising and obtaining tenders for the work if let by contract.

6. Complete details, sufficient for the ordinary workman in each trade to execute his portion of the building. This to mean ¼ or ½ scale drawings of the better class of work, and half and full-size sections of all moldings and more delicate parts; also full and explicit instructions for the proper execution of the work should be given in all cases.

7. Personal supervision by the architect or his deputy should be made monthly, or once in six weeks, dependent upon size of building.

Traveling expenses, extra copies, surveys, taking out quantities extra.

Coal Briquettes in Germany.

The manufacture and use of briquettes in Germany, an article of fuel composed of brown coal, peat and the dust and waste from coal mines, has developed to such important proportions in recent years as to attract wide attention, especially at this time. This kind of briquette forms the principal domestic fuel in Berlin and other cities in Germany, and is used also in locomotives and manufacturing industries. It is clean and convenient to handle, lights quickly and burns with a clear, intense flame, and the combustion is practically smokeless. Hence, Berlin, though a busy manufacturing city, is one of the cleanest cities in Europe, so far as smoke is concerned. Like most other important German industries, this is controlled by a syndicate which includes thirty-one firms and companies, or more than nine-tenths of all the producers in the country, and which regulates the output and prices. Yet the prices remain comparatively low, and are commensurate with the means of the poorer classes. Of the 1,566,385 tons sold by the syndicate last year, 749,208 tons were taken by the German railways, 124,380 tons were sold to retailers, 497,136 tons were sold to factories and works of various kinds, and 149,089 tons, or 9.8 per cent. were used by German merchant-steamers.

Cost Per Barrel of Cement.

The following shows in tabular form a fair estimate of cost of manufacture per barrel of finished cement for a thousand-barrel-per-day plant and also a five hundred barrel-per-day plant, as given in the prospectus of a new Canadian cement manufacturing company:

| Items. | Barrels per day. 1,000. | 500. | Items. | Barrels per day. 1,000. | 500. |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Marl delivered..... | $0.05 | $0.07 | Sundry ..... | $0.10 | $0.12 |
| Clay delivered .... | .01 | .02 | | | |
| Common labor ... | .05 | .07 | Total mfg. cost | $0.48 | $0.61 |
| Chemist, foreman and skilled labor. | .05 | .07 | Supt. and sales.... | .15 | .20 |
| Repairs ..... | .07 | .10 | 10% int. on plant. | .10 | .15 |
| Fuel, total ..... | .12 | .12 | Grand total . | $0.73 | $0.96 |
| Packing ..... | .03 | .04 | | | |

The above estimates have been proved in the light of experience to be such as can be realized in practical work.

They include interest on investment for works and also repairs. These items make all earnings above this amount in the nature of double dividnds.

Steel, Cement and Corrosion.

Prof. Samuel B. Newberry comes to the help of steel structures and by an appeal to chemistry, proves, to the satisfaction of those who wish it to be so, that to inclose our steel structures in Portland cement, carbonic acid gas cannot gain access to the steel, and even if of sufficient porosity for air to pass through, the carbonic acid is extracted from the air by the cement. To prove it he cites the story of certain steel pipe at Grenoble, France, that had been laid in cement for fifteen years, and on being taken up for inspection was found to be perfectly sound.

CONVEYANCES.

Whenever the letters Q. C., C. a G. and B. & S. occur, preceded by the name of the grantee, they mean as follows:

1st.—Q. C. is an abbreviation for Quit Claim deed, i. e., a deed wherein all the right, title and interest of the grantor is conveyed, omitting all covenants or warranty.

2d.—C a G means a deed containing a Covenant against Grantor only, in which he covenants that he hath not done any act whereby the estate conveyed can be impeached, charged or encumbered.

3d.—B. & S. is an abbreviation for Bargain and Sale deed, wherein, although the seller makes no express covenants, he really grants or conveys the property for a valuable consideration, and thus impliedly claims to be the owner of it. The street and avenue numbers given in these lists are, in all cases, taken from the Insurance maps when they are not mentioned in the deeds. The numbers, it will occasionally be found, do not correspond with the existing ones, owing to there having been no official designation made of them by the Department of Public Works.

4th.—The first date is the date the deed was drawn. The second date is the date of filing same. When both dates are the same, only one is given.

5th.—The figures in each conveyance, thus, 2:482, denote that the property is in section 2 block 482.

6th.—It should also be noted in section and block numbers, the instrument as filed is strictly followed.

January 2, 3, 5, 6, 7 and 8.

MORTGAGES.

NOTE.—The arrangement of this list is as follows: The first name is that of the mortgagor, the next that of the mortgagee. The description of the property then follows, then the date of the mortgage, the time for which it was given, and the amount. The general dates used as head lines are the dates when the mortgage was handed into the Register's office to be recorded.

Whenever the letters "P. M." occur, preceded by the name of a street, in these lists of mortgages, they mean that it is a Purchase Money Mortgage, and for fuller particulars see the list of transfers under the corresponding date.

The first date is the date the mortgage is drawn, the second the date of filing; when both dates are the same, only one is given.

Subscribers will find mortgages in this list with the wrong block number attached. The block number we give is taken from the instrument as filed.

Mortgages against Bronx property will be found altogether at the foot of this list.

January 2, 3, 5, 6, 7 and 8.

Vol. LXXI. JANUARY 17, 1903. No. 1818

THERE is a distinct feeling of disappointment in Wall Street because the January interest and dividend disbursements have not found their way into that interesting thoroughfare in the manner that everybody thought they would do at the beginning of the year. It is a fact that the market is unmistakably professional, and that the public that came in on the break in the middle of last month have departed, and no new outsiders have taken their places. It is, however, too soon to cry out. Money disbursed all over the country takes some time to settle itself into new channels and in times of great commercial activity the proportion that finds its way into listed securities is naturally smaller than at others. While call money is easy and should, probably, encourage speculative short time ventures, time money is still relatively high and not inducive of purchases of investment issues at present prices for a long pull. With money for definite periods five and five and a half per cent. and the best stocks and bonds paying less than four per cent., no one wants to buy with the expectation of carrying his purchase for six months or a year, unless there is a pretty sure prospect of a rising market. When that comes the difference between income and interest cuts little figure. As to the more speculative issues, the reaction that the week has witnessed ought to encourage a turn in the professional and speculative temper. Part of the hesitation now observable may be attributed to the position occupied by that historic disappointment Erie. Whether any one of the several stories about purchase for control by Western interests is true or not, the movements of the bonds and preferred stocks shows that there is now something on the carpet of a favorable nature for the property. One can hardly imagine that it will take the form of allowing a discordant element to come into the settled calm of the Eastern Trunk Line situation, but in these days one never knows. It would be the greatest pity if the understanding that has existed for years among the Eastern trunk lines should be broken by any circumstance, because by reducing competition and maintaining and even advancing rates, that understanding has been an important factor in giving the railroad interests of the country their recent prosperity. An event of happy significance was the sharp break in exchange rates this week, produced partly by European buying in our market and, what is much more important, partly by the influence of exports of grain and other products. The monetary relations between this country and Europe are by no means such as free us entirely from the danger of gold exports, but this break being incidental to a period of easier money here reduces the probability of such a movement.

BY all odds the most interesting and important news item from abroad is that relating to the South African settlement. It is not clear that the exact facts are known, but this much is evident, the Transvaal, or as it should be read, the gold mining interest of the Rand, will come off very well. The total cost of the war was £215,000,000, and if that interest is simply to be responsible for £30,000,000 issued in three annual instalments and not maturing for ten years, certainly no one can complain. This arrangement, in connection with the obligations of the British government for the repatriation and re-establishment of Boer farmers, ought to give the colony a good start and provide that impetus to the development of the country that it needs. In any circumstance the pace is going to be slow, because, as one authority puts it, while South Africa is a country of enormous resources, it requires the investment of an enormous amount of capital to develop them. But a beginning has been made, and it only needs this financial settlement between the supreme government and the colony to set things going. In addition to this, it is now understood that the labor required in the mines, which the country itself seems unable to supply, will be drawn from China's teeming hordes of coolies. The preliminaries adjust themselves slowly, but they are adjusting themselves nevertheless, and what the world at large wants to see, the gold industry in full working order, will come in due course. The news weakened consols in the expectation that it presaged the floating of the long delayed British loan and the circumstances will open the way to profitable purchases of that security. More attention is being drawn to French buying in the London market, which has extended from government bonds into South African and Westralian gold mining shares. Money is more plentiful and sheap in Paris than anywhere else and the buying power of the French people seem inexhaustible. Yet it has only just happened that the credit of the Republic has been established upon a proper basis. The conversion of the debt into 3% rentes is now accomplished, and as the bonds converted included those issued in 1871 and 1872 at 5% and at prices to yield 6%, which, by successive conversions, are now brought down to three per cent. rentes, this is the record of the growth of the country's credit in thirty years. As it is consols at 93 yield only 2.7%, while 3% rentes are quoted at par. The difference is the reward on one side of the channel and the penalty on the other for their several and differing attitudes toward economic and political questions. The announcement of budget deficiencies—of $20,000,000 in France and $9,375,000 in Prussia—ought not to occasion any surprise, because they were expected, and no anxiety because they are expressive of conditions that are being rapidly ameliorated. Tney foreshadow appeals to capital and form part of the inciting cause of the changed feeling and renewal of activity on the European bourses. Money is veritably pouring into the great reservoirs of national funds and rates are returning to surfeit figures, facts encourage stock market operations, and it is somewhat singular to note that European opinion of American issues is, at the moment, somewhat more favorable than our own.

MORE than usual interest attaches to the returns of our foreign trade for December, because they reveal that just what was desired has taken place. That is that the export movement of our agricultural products is being accelerated in a way that will materially lessen our indebtedness to Europe. Out of a total of $148,006,823 of merchandise exports, $91,985,223 represented agricultural products. This was about $21,000,000 more of the same class of goods than was shipped in November and about $7,500,000 more than was shipped in the corresponding month of last year. It will be remembered that owing to the partial failure of the corn crop, agricultural exports declined so materially last year as to occasion a good deal of fear of its influence upon the trade balance. Meantime we have been importing goods from abroad in increased volume, and this has added to the fear that already existed regarding those relations. In the past year the relative figures for exports and imports left the balance in favor of home trade $391,426,346, to compare with a similar balance of $584,955,950 in 1901. It was in fact the smallest since 1897. But, while the favorable balance in the last month of the year was less than either that of 1901 or that of 1900, it was somewhat higher than that of 1899. This change was not produced wholly by agricultural products, because exports of other merchandise increased considerably, both as compared with the movement of the preceding month and with that for December, 1901. While it would be unwise to lay too much stress upon last month's increased outward merchandise movement, and also to minimize the effects of our still voluminous exports (the figures for the later being $94,367,204 in December, 1902, and $79,929,271 in December, 1901), especially in view of our heavy pecuniary obligations abroad, it is satisfactory to note that the exports of merchandise are growing and justifiable to expect, with the renewal of commercial and industrial activity in Europe, that the movements of the two classes of our foreign trade will return to their normal proportions. No apprehension need ordinarily be attached to increased imports in a time of industrial activity, as they are natural to such a condition of affairs, nor would any be felt if it were not known that we have beeng doing a good deal of financing with foreign funds, and that owing partly to the depression abroad, and partly to our own activity at home, we have been marketing less of our products with foreign consumers. Any indication, therefore, of a renewal of foreign demand for our products and manufactures is worthy of notice and productive of pleasurable anticipation for the future. In gold the balance for the year is $8,132,191 in our own favor and $697,010 against us for the month. The latter is explained by the recent shipments to Argentine for London account. Silver went out more freely in December than in the year, the balance for the month being $2,854,589 and for the year $22,870,019. Comparatively there was an increase for December over the same month of 1901, and a considerable decrease for the year 1902 as against 1901. The low price prevailing explains the year's diminished movement and the extent of the liquidation seen in December that of the month's increased movement in spite of the continuance of low prices.

THE investigation of overcrowding on urban lines of travel which is now proceeding will doubtless result in benefit to the public. It will undoubtedly do so, if the public maintain their demand for improved uses of these facilities and thus assist official deliberation and requirements. It is largely due to the unprotestiveness characteristic of New York's public that the trouble has reached the proportions that it has. The owners of the facilities being commercial concerns ran them subject first to the profit that could be made out of them, and so long as no effective protest was made that continued to be the dominating principle under which they were operated. Now, however, there is little doubt that a readjustment of the system of operating can be brought about that will afford some relief. At the same time, if the discussion brings out one thing more clearly than another, it is the inadequacy of the provision for the certain growth of future transit demands. Any relief furnished on the existing facilities will be very temporary. Much in that direction is expected from the Rapid Transit railroad which all hope to be completed this year, and much will certainly be supplied. But will it be sufficient? The principal contractor for the work was asked recently for what length of time it would afford adequate relief, and is reported to have replied offhandedly, "For twenty-four hours." This was an inefficient estimate, but it expresses the idea that is in the minds of all who are studying the important question of urban transit for this community. The demand upon all forms of transit here grows with such decided rapidity that prospective requirements should be considered a long way ahead. It follows then, with facilities now largely overburdened as well as inadequate in spite of what may be done to secure the more frequent running of cars and trains and for increasing the car-complements of the latter; with the extreme probability, if not certainty that the lines under construction will do no more than bring facilities up to the demand of the time of their completion, that serious work should be undertaken in laying out additional lines. It may not be possible to undertake their physical construction the moment those now being built are in operation, but it would be a great advantage if the technical preparations were made in advance, so that actual work would merely depend upon the provision of the necessary pecuniary means.

Real Estate Situation.

The actual transactions of the past week have not possessed any novel character or any exceptional interest. We may note particularly that a fair number of plans continue to be announced for the improvement of the cheaper grade of Harlem and West Side property with six-story apartments; but there continues to be a dearth of announcements as to improvements on the more important streets and avenues. Apartment hotel operations are still turning up in fairly large numbers, and testify to the unshaken faith of builders in this class of improvement. Quite the most interesting announcement of the week is the news that the "American and Journal" is the purchaser of the old Virginia Hotel property, and proposes to erect a twenty-story building on the site. Since this is the third newspaper which has selected as a site for its office building a triangle facing upon an up-town square, we may infer that such sites have exceptional advantages for the newspaper business. The surprising part of the site selected by the "Journal" is the fact that it is so far up-town. The circle is a tolerably busy square, but it does not compare to Greeley and Longacre Squares in that respect; and the value of a site thereon as a newspaper advertisement cannot be great at present. The property on Broadway and Central Park West for a few blocks north of the Circle still remains for the most part vacant, and the architectural surroundings are singularly unimposing. Last spring a considerable buying movement developed in the vicinity; but it has not as yet resulted in any improvement. The proprietor of the "Journal," however, is obviously taking a long view ahead. The time will assuredly come, although it may be postponed for fifteen years, when the Circle will be quite as much of an amusement centre as Longacre Square now is. It has the great advantage of being the best planned and most convenient square in middle Manhattan, and at the proper time this fact will tell much in its favor. But that proper time will have to wait until Washington Heights contains as large a population as the West Side now has, and until the 59th street bridge to Long Island City is completed and has begun to have something like its full effect. By that time Long Island City should have a population of half a million people who will do much of their shopping and find many of their amusements along the line of 59th street. The shopping will be done between Madison and 3d avenues, and the amusements will be found in the vicinity of the Circle. When that time comes the twenty-story building which the "Journal" proposes to erect will doubtless contribute in its own peculiar way to the popular pleasures.

Newspapers in Real Estate.

During the early part of the last week transactions in the real estate market became for a day or two visibly less, under the influence of the publication of the new assessment list, but toward the end of the week the activity increased to its normal amount. A week which can place to its credit some seventy-five sales can show quite as much activity as the season justifies. Yet there is every reason to believe that in the long run the assessment revision will have an important effect upon the course of real estate transactions. The more the list is examined, the more it is apparent that the larger increases of valuation have been placed upon high-priced speculative property. In the great majority of cases the taxes on tenements, apartment-houses and the cheaper residences, will be less than they were for the previous year, and this decrease, if the Legislature passes the Sinking Fund Bill, should average about ten per cent. of the tax payments. This, of course, will be a great boon to the owner of small properties. In the case of the proprietor of a single tenement, with an equity of about $7,000, it ought to give him an addition of one per cent. on his investment. Taken together with the lively demand for residential accommodation of all kinds, it should make the yield on the average piece of improved real estate in Manhattan better than it has been for years. On the other hand, while the owner of small properties will be benefited by the change, the owners of high-priced properties, in those parts of the city where speculation has been rampant, will undoubtedly have their taxes materially increased. It cannot be said that the increase is unfair, because the revision has been conservatively made and under rather than over-estimates the expansion in values which has taken place of late years. Yet it will undoubtedly make a good deal of difference to speculators and speculative corporaions, who are carrying a good deal of such property. In a great many cases the value has outstripped any income which the property may yield at present, and heavier taxes will decrease this income still more, and consequently increase the cost, which is already heavy, of carrying these holdings. In short, it looks as if the assessment revision might very well discourage to a certain extent that speculation in high-priced property, which has been so marked a characteristic of the market during the past two years. It will assuredly tend to prevent the purchase of such properties, unless it is the intention of the purchaser immediately to improve.

Assessment Revision and Real Estate Speculation.

The Purpose of the Assessment Revision.

THE salient fact to be kept in mind in considering the assessment revision is that it is only one factor in a comprehensive plan providing for the present and future development of New York City. The valuations have been increased, because it seemed to be the quickest and best way of augmenting the debt limit, and because it was absolutely necessary to augment the debt limit in order to pay for desirable and lucrative public improvements. The necessity of these improvements, and the profit which real estate will eventually derive from them can scarcely be exaggerated. Without them the city's growth would be terribly hampered. It would be hampered in its foreign commerce, because without the additional borrowing power, the docks of Manhattan could not be brought up to date and made equal to the demands of the city's future export trade. It would be hampered in its moral growth, because without the additional borrowing power, it could not build the schools necessary for its rapidly increasing population. It would be hampered in its business development, because without additional borrowing, it could not do anything to relieve the present transit congestion except to finish the Subway, one tunnel and one bridge to Brooklyn. This is the most important consideration of all. We all know how intolerable are present transit conditions; and we all know that the Subway, the Williamsburgh Bridge, and the new tunnel will not relieve this congestion for more than a year or two and then only partially. An East Side tunnel north of 42d street, a West Side tunnel south of 42d street, and an extension along Jerome avenue are obvious and unavoidable additions to the underground system, which, if they are not soon begun, will in the end be as critically necessary as the Subway is at the present time. And so it is with the other East River bridges and tunnels. Let every property-owner, who for any reason feels aggrieved over the new assessment, bear in mind what he has to gain from the above-named improvements, and where the city would be—in case it could not undertake them. Then he may appreciate both the full rigor of the alternative which was presented to the administration, and the fact that it is up to him or any other critic of the administration plan to propose a better solution of this complex and difficult situation.

This we believe to the the one and only justification for the increase in assessed valuation. The arguments in favor of the full value assessment on other grounds can scarcely appeal to a practical real estate man. It will be just as difficult—we had almost said impossible—to obtain an equitable assessment on a 100 per cent. rule as on a 60 per cent. rule; and there is no more virtue in a high rate of assessment and a low tax rate than there is in a high tax rate and a low assessment rate. Owing to constant changes in values, the assessment list will need as much revision as ever in each succeeding year, and it will be as possible as ever to decrease the tax rate by juggling with the assessments. On the other hand, it is absurd to object to the revision, as the "Times" has done, because the new assessed valuations are slightly less than prevailing prices. Real estate is not a commodity with a definite and indubitable market value. As the appraisals of experts so often indicate, there is always room for a difference of opinion; and the tax assessor is bound to be on the safe side. The most that can be asked is that the rule, whatever it is, shall be applied with as much knowledge as possible and with all fairness. An investigation published in another column shows an average assessment somewhere near 93 per cent., which is about what it should be. The advantage of this 93 per cent. assessment, however, is not that it is 93 rather than 60 per cent., but simply and solely because it enables the city to keep its public improvements abreast of its growth in population and business.

The reason which the revision of the assessment list has met with so much opposition is that property-owners are very much afraid of an increase in taxes. But there can be no general increase in taxes, unless there is an increase in expenditures; and there is nothing about the administration plan which necessarily increases expenditures. With the exception of the schools, the bonds will be issued for improvements which pay for themselves. But in order to make assurance doubly sure, the revision of sinking fund payments has been made an essential part of the whole scheme. This revision, which has been pronounced good law by the leading lawyers and good finance by the leading financiers, will save the city between 8 and 9 millions of dollars a year; and $9,000,000 would pay interest not only on the $150,000,000 by which the debt limit may be increased, but on $100,000,000 besides. Hence, considering the fact that the city revenue will only be chargeable with a small part of the increased interest, and that the available city income is to be augmented by a sum ten times as great as these interest charges,we confess that we fail to understand what property-owners are afraid of. No doubt the increased money which the city can borrow may be extravagantly spent; but so may the $100,000,000 which the Board of Estimates must in any event appropriate every year for current expenses. There is always grave danger of extravagance, against which the best protection is the election of trustworthy men to office. The denial of the power to city officials to spend money because tax-payers are afraid the money will be wasted would result in simple administrative nihilism.

Property-owners have only to reflect a moment to realize that this assessment revision can be the result of nothing but a sincere and intelligent attempt to prepare New York for its manifest future growth. The administration could not have had any interest in stirring up all this criticism, if it did not believe that its policy was justified by the needs of the city. Had its turn been four years instead of two, it might have expected, not merely to incur the odium of an unpopular change, but also to reap some credit from the benefits which the city will eventually obtain from the realization of its policy. But since, unless they are re-elected, our present officials will retain office for only one more year, and since they must necessarily incur the criticism and only chance the justification, it is all the more necessary that their friends should rally to their support. Their policy has shown courage as well as good sense, and whatever the events of the next few years, its wisdom will be duly appreciated at the time when the people of New York are benefiting by the results of the great and necessary scheme of public works, for which the administration is providing.

Views of Owners and Brokers Upon the Assessment Revision.

To concentrate the feelings of property-owners regarding the new assessment rolls into a single brief statement of opinion would be quite impossible at this time; but after the first flutter of excitement a disposition to suspend judgment seemed to enter, accompanied, it may be, by some reluctance to antagonize needlessly the tax department. A number of important holders and representatives begged to be excused from any expression of opinion, because of not having had opportunity to consider the matter. Apparently, it is the owner of small properties who is best able to testify to the accuracy and judgment of the assessor; and if the depth of feeling is to be measured by the percentage of increased valuation, then it is in the Bronx that the most intense emotions are to be found.

"It is proposed to have a meeting of the Taxpayers' Alliance," said a prominent resident of the borough. "It has been noted that while the increase on Bronx property is fully 60.7 per cent., the assessments of Manhattan property have been increased but 48 per cent.; on Brooklyn property only 27 per cent., and Queens has been increased but 11.5 per cent. Then as the average increase throughout the city is 42.5 per cent., we think that under Section 899 of the Charter, we can have the Tax Commissioners equalize the levy throughout the boroughs, without regard to the objection of particular individuals.

"We understand, of course, that it is said the Bronx has been undervalued heretofore, in proportion to other boroughs, because of much of it being alleged latent property. But this we deny, and we claim that the assessors have not taken into consideration the cost of local improvements already planned, including 940 miles of streets, all of which are yet to be paid for. The total cost of these will be $232,000,000, as I figure it. I find, after taking the average for a period of years, that the total cost per lot for local improvements is $600. The State Board of Equalization, based upon the investigations of the State tax laws, in 1891, fixed the rate of valuation in Manhattan and the Bronx at 67 per cent.; in Brooklyn, 68; in Queens, 80; and in Richmond 67. This compared with the percentage of present increase shows that Manhattan and the Bronx have been placed above the actual value in the aggregate, whatever may have been done in individual cases."

FEARS FOR THE FUTURE.

Clarence Kelsey, president of the Title Guarantee and Trust Company, said: "While it may be true that the average property-owner's tax bill this year will not be any larger than last year, the probabilities are that it will increase steadily in the future. The temptation to spend more money with the debt-limit so much enlarged will be too strong for future administrations to resist.

"It is probably true that the present city government had no recourse, in view of the necessity of providing for certain public improvements absolutely required for the welfare of the Greater City, except to increase the assessments as it has. The task was a very difficult one when once the course was determined upon, and very many property-owners will complain grievously. That the assessors have been intentionally unfair is not apparent, and they should be given the credit of having performed a disagreeable task to the best of their ability. If real estate owners will stand together and watch public expenditures for the next few years, and try to see that the city gets its money's worth, it is fair to expect that, with the greater growth of the city sure to follow if the needed public works are quickly completed, they will get their share of the benefits, and feel that their increased tax-payments, which are pretty plainly ahead of them, are not without return.

"The most effective thing for real estate owners to do for their own relief is to make sure that the Legislature authorizes the carrying out of Comptroller Grout's measure, to authorize the investment of the surplus payments to the Sinking Fund, in city bonds, to be issued to pay current expenses. This will be much more effective than protests against increased assessments, and, if accomplished, will at once lower the tax rate ten points or more permanently."

MR. CHESEBROUGH'S OBJECTIONS.

President W. H. Chesebrough of the Century Realty Company said:

"Theoretically the proposition now put in effect by the reform administration to increase the assessments upon real estate to full value is all right, but from a practical standpoint I consider it a great error. The arguments used in favor of it are as follows:

"First: That it increases the borrowing capacity of the city.

"Second: That it may operate towards more uniform assessments and do away with some injustice in determining them. Heretofore, if an individual owning a piece of real estate worth $40,000 was assessed for $30,000, and a piece in the same block, worth the same amount, assessed for $22,000, he was afraid to apply for a reduction, as he might be met with the answer, 'We have a right under the law to assess you at full value and increase your assessment to $40,000," whereas, under the present system, if it were assessed for more than full value, the owner would have no fear of applying for a reduction.

"The reasons against it are as follows:

"First—Any change in the system of assessing real estate makes intending investors timid and disturbs the market. This has in itself been a great detriment.

"Second—The change operates greatly to the disadvantage of real estate in Manhattan Borough. The table of increases given out by the Tax Department shows an average increase of assessed valuations in this Borough of about 48 per cent., in Brooklyn, only 27 per cent., and in Richmond, a comparatively small percentage.

"Third—The plan to assess vacant property at full value is especially pernicious and detrimental to the future improvement of the city. If such a plan had been adopted twenty or thirty years ago, New York would have in many sections, now developed with handsome improvements, an array of worthless buildings which the owners would have been obliged to erect in order to get some income from the land thus heavily assessed. It is evident that this would have in a great measure prevented the magnificent development of the city, and undoubtedly if the full value assessment on vacant land is continued, it will so operate to the great disadvantage of the city in the future. Hitherto the practice has been especially lenient to vacant properties, so that owners could afford to carry them unimproved instead of building structures which retard their proper development.

"Fourth—Real estate owners, as a class, are almost universally against the plan, as it is generally believed that even if the actual taxes to be paid at present are not more, because of the proportionate decrease in the tax rate, that in the nature of things the rate will gradually advance and the taxes therefore be increased later on. I fear that the continuance of the plan adopted will lead to great extravagance under future administrations, which will put an added burden upon real estate, which is already burdened much too heavily. If the tax rate to be adopted next Fall is not proportionately reduced, the party in power will find it has committed political suicide. Many thousands of real estate owners who have always voted the Republican or Reform tickets, are disheartened, and it is up to the city administration to make good on the next tax rate or it will be overwhelmed. If the actual taxes paid are increased at the next tax levy, or later on, it means that the owners must increase their rents, thus putting a great hardship upon the majority class which pays rent, and more especially upon the poorer classes."

AS TO TENEMENT HOUSES.

Mr. William Prager, of the firm of Lowenfeld & Prager, who are among the city's largest tenement house operators, said that so far as their properties were concerned the new assessments as a general rule represented full value. A printed list of the firm's holdings with the asking prices for the various parcels, issued long before the assessments were made public, bears out his statement in a majority of instances.

"In some cases," Mr. Prager added, "we are willing to sell properties for less than the new valuations. At the conditional rate of $1.60 I find that our tax bills will be increased upon most of our holdings. These increases vary with different parcels, being inconsiderable in some cases and quite large in others, but if this condition is found to prevail generally throughout the tenement sections, it may mean some advance in rents, for the tenement houses under the present charges is operated on a pretty close margin."

Mr. Jacobs, of the Hudson Realty Company, said that he had looked up the assessments of forty or fifty pieces of property in which they were interested, and had found in every case that the tax is higher. "The old Union Club site is down for $695,000. The authorities have gone about this matter in an amateurish way. I believe they have merely taken their book and soaked on a percentage without going around. A certain piece of property that I looked up is taxed for only one million, where it ought to be taxed two million. It will take them ten years to equalize the assessments, and in the meantime the taxpayers must pay the difference. In our case the average increase against our properties is between 50 and 70 per cent."

EXTRAVAGANCE PREDICTED.

William A. Brewer, Jr., president of the Washington Life Insurance Company, said: "I do not care to be quoted on this subject at length, because I have not yet been able to thoroughly examine the figures. But I have no hesitation in saying that on general principles almost any system of assessing the valuations would be approved by me, provided it was honestly and equitably carried out. I do not think, however, that the present attempt to increase the assessed valuation of all real estate in this city to its full actual value is wise, because, aside from the question whether the attempt has been successful or not, it will enable the city to borrow more money and thus tend to greater extravagance in municipal expenditures and so offset the benefit that would accrue to the property owners by the lower rate of taxation."

INEQUALITIES STILL PRESENT.

Robert E. Dowling, vice-president of the United States Realty and Construction Company, said: "My opinion is that this change in the method of assessment has not equalized things much better than the old system did. The old inequalities of assessments are present still."

"We shall never have the right sort of assessments until we get men who have intimate knowledge of real estate to do the work," said Albert Flake, also a vice-president of the United States Realty. "Assessors acquainted thoroughly with each locality they must cover are the real need."

NOT A BAD CONDITION.

"I do not regard the situation as a bad one," said Henry Morgenthau, president of the Central Realty Bond and Trust Company. "These changes, according to my idea, adjust themselves. The raising of tax bills, if it takes place, will redound to the benefit of the professional operators. It will tend to force holders of valuable unimproved or partially improved properties to let them go to those who can put them to good use."

AS THE AUTHORITIES VIEW IT.

President James L. Wells, of the Board of Tax Commissioners, said: "All we can do is to trust to the judgment of the deputies. If we find they have been improperly influenced, we can prefer charges against them. But, at salaries ranging from $1,500 to $2,500 a year, it is impossible to employ experts of the highest order. If people come to us and complain that such and such a piece of real estate has been assessed too high or too low, we shall, as the law provides, review the judgment of the deputies and give a decision upon it. We are simply a court of review."

Said Comptroller Grout: "The increase in real estate assessments in the whole city is about 42¾ per cent. Any individual taxpayer ought to be able to see at once that unless his particular assessment exceeds this general average of the increase his tax bill cannot be any bigger. In other words, the taxpayer in Manhattan or in the Bronx, whose assessment is increased less than 42 per cent. will in any event have a smaller tax bill, and if his assessment is increased less than 57 per cent. he will in all human probability have a still smaller tax bill."

A Test of the Assessment Revision.

In the followirg table an attempt has been made to test the revision of the assessment list, which the Tax Department has been undertaking, for the purpose of ascertaining both how far former inequalities have been removed and how far the present values can properly be termed full values. For this purpose we have selected from the records cases in which a parcel has been transferred at an expressed consideration during the year 1902, and have compared with the price actually paid the old and the new assessments. These cases, moreover, have been also selected, so that in the mass they cover every important class of property, and all the main sections of the city. They include, for instance, business property both in the financial and mercantile districts, private residences on the East and West Sides, tenements scattered all over the city, a considerable list of properties situated in the centers of most active speculation, and a number of unimproved parcels. Probably the list is not large enough absolutely to exclude all misrepresentation, but the attempt has been made to select cases which are typical. Wherever possible executors' deeds and auction sales have been used, provided the property was not sold under foreclosure, or if under foreclosure, to a party not in interest.

The results of this test are instructive. In the cases considered the assessments of last year averaged 69 per cent. of the value for tenements, 63 per cent. for residences, 63 per cent. for the business property, 45 per cent. for the property roundabout the centers of speculation, and 73 per cent. for the vacant parcels. The corresponding percentages for the new provisional assessment is 95 per cent. for tenements, 92 per cent. for residences, about 94 per cent. for business property, 91 per cent. for the parcels in the speculative districts, and 107 per cent, for the vacant lots. In both years the highest percentages occur in the vacant lots; and the discrepancy is so considerable that it looks as if the cases which have been selected are for some accidental reason not entirely representative, for it is obvious that in several important instances the value of the property has advanced since the sale from which the value is taken was consummated. The vacant property apart, it will be seen that the percentages of the new assessed valuation to the selling valuation in the different classes of property vary only between 91 and 95 per cent., whereas the corresponding percentages for 1902 varied between 45 and 69 per cent., from which facts two inferences may fairly be drawn. One is that individual cases apart, the new assessment averages about ten-elevenths of the selling value of the property, and the other is that, speaking generally, the most glaring inequality of the former list has been removed. The new level of assessed valuations takes full account, that is, of the increased values which the speculation of the past few years has added to real estate prices in certain central parts of the city. The consequence is that it is the large owner of expensive real estate who for the most part will find the assessed value of his property most increased. It looks, other things being equal, as if the great majority of small property-owners would find their tax bills slightly decreased provided, that is, the tax rate figures out as low as 1.60.

On the other hand, it is evident also that many individual inequalities still exist which should receive the most careful consideration. Thus, among the instances of tenement houses printed below there is one which is assessed at only 67 per cent. of the value for which it has sold within the year, while there is another which is assessed at 130 per cent. of the same value. In the case of the dwellings, there is one, No. 302 East 82d st, which has sold recently for $12,000, but which is assessed for only $6,500, about 64 per cent. of its apparent value, while there is another, viz., No. 20 West 119th st, which has been lately sold for only $8,000, but which is assessed for $9,000, which is 112 per cent. of its apparent value. In the case of the mercantile parcels, the new assessments vary between 79 and 132 per cent. of the recent selling prices. Among the more speculative properties the discrepancy is even greater. A plot at Nos. 229-237 West 32d st, for which $140,000 has been paid within the year, is assessed at only $50,000, which is only 35 per cent. of the price which it brought, while a 6th av parcel which sold recently for $50,000 is down on the books for $68,000, apparently 138 per cent. of its value. Instances of such apparent discrepancies might be indefinitely multiplied; and many of them, doubtless, can be explained or excused in one way or another. Some of the sales, for instance, may be "faked." But it is obvious that they all cannot be explained away, and that the list will require the most careful revision as to details before it can claim to be anything like satisfactory. In some instances the assessors have to all appearances merely eased the rigors of their task by adding a certain percentage to the old assessment, without considering very closely differences of condition among neighboring parcels of property. Thus last spring there were sold at auction at the same time one parcel of four vacant lots on the north side of 111th st, 275 feet east of 8th av; another parcel of three vacant lots on the south side of 111th st, 175 east of 8th av; and a third parcel of four vacant lots on the south side of 112th st, 100 feet east of 8th av. The purchasers on these parcels considered the three lots on the south side of 111th st to be worth $30,300, whereas they considered the other two parcels of four lots each to be worth some thousands of dollars less. But the assessor ignored these differences. Last year each of these eleven lots was assessed at $5,000 each, and this year they were each raised to $8,000 each, so that the lots on the south side of 111th st are assessed at only 79 per cent. of the price they recently brought at auction, while the other parcels are assessed at 115 per cent. or more of the price they recently brought at auction. While the Record and Guide fully appreciates the enormous difficulty of the task by which the assessors are confronted, it remains true that there is no excuse for some of the individual discrepancies, which a most cursory inspection of the assessment books brings to light; and it follows that, considering the present administration has set out to equalize the assesment lists, they should establish some system which would check more effectually the work of the individual assessors.

East River Bridge Awards.

COMMISSION'S ESTIMATE OF DAMAGES FOR PROPERTY TAKEN FOR THE BROOKLYN APPROACH.

The commissioners appointed by the Supreme Court to appraise the value of the property that was seized by the City of New York, March 10, 1901, for the right of way for the Brooklyn approach to the East River Bridge have submitted their report. The commissioners are David F. Manning, Otto F. Struse and Ezra D. Bushnell, and during the long course of their proceedings they took over eight thousand typewritten pages of testimony. The awards aggregate $1,302,750, and number 102. The lands are situated on South 5th and South 6th sts, Broadway, Wythe av, Berry st, Bedford av and Driggs av; and maps thereof are filed with and form part of the report. In 48 cases the loss was complete; as for the rest, sometimes the front and sometimes the rear was taken, or left. The remnants are so small in some instances as to be useless. The names are given here in the same order as in the report. The awards now await confirmation by the court. Some important buildings were swept away, including three churches and one school. The awards follow:

Contractors Make Merry.

The third anniversary dinner of the Contractors' Protective Association was held at Shanley's last Saturday evening, and it may be said to their credit that the contractors of this city know just as well how to have a good time at a dinner as they do to excavate for foundations or build sky-scrapers, as the case may be.

The large dining hall was decorated tastefully with flags, foliage, plants, ferns, etc, the dais at which sat James J. Larkin, president of the association, and the guests of honor, being especially well trimmed. Covers were laid for two hundred and fifty, and at 8 o'clock members and guests sat down to the following:

MENU.

Cocktails.
Cape Cod Oysters.
Celery. Olives. Radishes.
Creme of Chicken au Crouton.
Chablis.
Filet of Striped Bass.
Bermudas. Cucumbers.
Bordeaux (J. Calvet & Co.)
Irish Bacon and Greens.
Filet of Beef, Mushrooms.
Potato Croquettes.
G. H. Mumm's Extra Dry.
Roman Punch.
Roast Breast of French Partridge.
Grilled Sweet Potato.
Cognac Otard.
Lettuce Salad.
Fancy Ice Cream.
Cigars.
Coffee.

At the dais were: Pres. James J. Larkin, Hon. Jacob A. Cantor, Hon. Perez M. Stewart, Hon. John D. Crimmins, Charles A. Cowen, John J. Jordan, Michael J. Degnon, John McCarthy, Samuel Bouker, Harry Goodwin, John Cloughen, Francis M. Weeks, Francis N. Howland, John Fieming, Thos. M. McIntagart, Thos. O'Brien, William Hastorf and Frank Jacobus.

Mr. Thos. Mulry presided over a long table in the centre of the dining hall, at which were seated a number of invited guests. Mr. B. S. Coler occupied the seat at Mr. Mulry's right, and well-known architects, builders and contractors made up the number of Mr. Mulry's guests.

After the dinner President Larkin in a few admirable words extended a cordial greeting to those present, and introduced as the guest of honor, Mr. Jacob A. Cantor. To the toast, "The City of New York," Mr. Cantor made a graceful response, in which he said that he was proud to belong to an administration which had done so much for the city, and which had so completely won the respect and admiration of its citizens. Mr. Cantor was followed by Hon. John D. Crimmins, who spoke of "The Excavator and His Achievements." Mr. Crimmins' address was a very interesting review of building in this city for the past fifty years. "In 1850," says Mr. Crimmins, "ten feet was about the limit of depth for cellars, and buildings of over five stories were not to be found. And now cellars are being excavated to a depth of sixty feet and more, and the number of stories in a modern office building sometimes reach thirty." Mr. Frank M.

HOTEL SOMERSET, 47TH ST., S. S., E. OF 7TH AVENUE.

Frederick C. Browne, Architect.

This is a late addition to the list of apartment hotels. It stands on the south side of 47th st, 216 ft. east of Seventh av. The owner is Henry L. Pelt, a builder, of 122d st and Morningside av. It has exterior walls of brick and stone, skeleton construction, and rises 12 stories. Cost, $600,000. Street, Sykes & Co., 44 Wall st, have purchased property and will take possession upon completion. The principal contractors were: Heating, Mulhern Steam Heating Co.; plumbing, Chas. Hensle; plastering, John Feehan; fireproofing, John W. Rapp; mason material, let to John Bell Co.; terra cotta, N. J. Terra Cotta Co.; iron, John J. Radley & Co.

Weeks spoke earnestly of the modern sky-scraper. When listening to this address one could not help feeling the magnitude of the task which confronts the builder of such a structure, and a feeling of admiration is compelled for the men who can carry successfully to completion the erection of these immense complicated buildings.

John Cloughen responded to the toast "The Day We Celebrate," and remarks were made by Hon. Perez Stewart and ex-Commissioner Brady.

The dinner was a most successful and enjoyable affair, and the committee having the arrangements in charge is to be congratulated for its efficiency.

On the Art Society's Report.

The recommendations of the Municipal Art Society for a fundamental plan of public improvements have naturally been received with great appreciation of its value and of the great and lasting service that has been rendered to the metropolis. Hon. John De Witt Warner, of the Municipal Art Commission, to which the report has been referred, agrees heartily in the policy suggested therein, and especially that feature of it which involves, first, the settling of its plan from the standpoint of business and commerce; then from that of the health and comfort of its residents; then from that of culture and pleasure; and, finally, to crown the work, from that of æsthetics; so that our world metropolis shall be not merely great, convenient and comfortable, and cultured; but dignified and beautiful as well.

"Not that all embellishments should wait until the larger factors are settled," continues Mr. Warner, when interrogated for the Record and Guide, "it should, indeed, characterize every public work as fast as it is done. But it is only after the prosy essentials of life and commerce here are met that expenditure can economically be had for beauty on anything like the scale that our taxpayers will gladly favor when they can feel that each item is a permanent feature of a noble plan.

"We can get little aid from Paris precedents, still less from Washington. Not merely are the natural features of our site so great as to dwarf any with which those cities have to deal, but, as the adjuncts of our port, they emphasize the contrast between their conditions and ours.

"In Paris the problem was to so develop a royal capital and social centre as to attract residents and travelers, and accommodate incidental business. In Washington it was to develop the beautiful park plan of our national capital, a social and political centre, so little populous that the housing and transport problem scarcely existed, and with so few possibilities of business or commerce that provision therefor might well be left until spectacular demands had been met.

"New York, on the other hand, is first of all a port; a centre for manufacture, because it is a port; for general business, because commerce and manufactures centre here; for residence, first and mainly, for those who are engaged in these; and only afterwards and as a result of the centripetal trend of civilization, a great and growing centre of social, literary, or art culture.

"Municipal art is the art of making a city most beautiful—that is; first of all, most fit for the purpose of its existence; of doing in the most fitting, most dignified, most pleasing (almost always the most economic) way, whatever it has to do.

"The problem before us is the greatest of its kind that has ever been posed, the greatest that ever will be posed; I believe the Municipal Art Society has done well to call into counsel, before it reported to the Mayor, the great, practical business interests that have established our city, and most control its development, unless its character is to be radically changed and some other port to become the business centre of the world—an alternative which I as little wish to anticipate."

A Mythical Estate.

During the past week a deed was recorded in the Register's office transferring from Henry F. Williford as heir to Chas. C. Clausten, of French Village, Ill., one-four part or interest in all real and personal property in the city of New York, known as the Edwards estate. The paper named $40 as the amount which Mr. Clausten was willing to pay for this interest. This Edwards estate, it is interesting to note, is one of those mythical claims, which like the Anneke Jans estate, have been passed off by travelling swindlers upon gullible farmers. Hundreds of searches have been made for it, and yet no one has yet succeeded in locating it. A lease has been discovered among the Albany records, whereby King George devised certain properties lying between Battery and Canal st, Broadway and the North River to —— Edwards. Moreover, no record has been found whereby Trinity Church Corporation, who now hold a large portion of the premises, ever obtained possession. What the truth of the matter is will never be known, owing to the imperfect condition of the early records. But in the meantime it is evident that somebody in French Village, Ill., has $40 worth of belief in the Edwards estate.

The New York Terminal of the Pennsylvania Railroad.

During the past week some interesting news has been given out of the method of organization adopted by the Pennsylvania Railroad in order to plan and carry out the vast work of completing its New York terminal. They have conceived of this work as composed of four main functions: The tunnels, the architecture, the mechanical and electrical engineering, and the bringing of the railroad into and through them.

They therefore created a commission of engineers to design and supervise the construction of the tunnels; appointed architects for the structures and engineers for the mechanical and electrical equipment; while the chief engineer's department is to plan the road into the property thus created.

The work is thus departmented into sections so large and diverse as to inspire co-operation under the general direction of the Pennsylvania Railroad management, and in a manner to be conveniently handled. The conduct of the entire enterprise is thus established on the most harmonious and effective lines, the same time relieving the already burdened operative departments of the road of that conplexity and multiplicity of detail which might easily swamp and slow down to ineffectiveness the best organization based on any less comprehensive plan.

The commission whose mission is to design and produce the tunnels consists of Col. Chas. W. Raymond, U. S. A., Engineer New York Harbor, chairman; Chas. M. Jacobs, C. E., Chief Engineer North River Section; Alfred Noble, C. E., Chief Engineer East River Section; William H. Brown, Chief Engineer Pennsylvania Railroad, in charge of tracks and terminal yards; Gustav Lindenthal, C. E., Bridge Commissioner of New York City; Geo. Gibbs, M. E., first vice-president of Westinghouse, Church, Kerr & Co., in charge of mechanical engineering, electric locomotives and traction. It will thus be noted that the work is again departmented within the members of this commission.

The architectural work has been delegated to Messrs. McKim, Mead and White, whose large previous undertakings have perfected the necessary organization for this extensive work, and insure an artistic conception which will be in keeping with the city structures of which this terminal will be the conspicuous central feature.

Westinghouse, Church, Kerr & Co. have been appointed the mechanical and electrical engineers and constructors of the extensive and varied work which follows through many departments of the undertaking, their organization, already developed on other large work, automatically, so to speak, departments this work along the regular lines in which their engineering and construction operations are regularly conducted.

Following upon this appointment, the architects then made Westinghouse, Church, Kerr & Co. their engineers for this work, giving a peculiar roundness and self-contained relationship between these divisions analogous to the relationship between the engineers and the commission through the membership of the engineer's first vice-president on the commission. A more effective weaving together of co-operative efforts could scarcely have been conceived.

Thus far, the active engineering work has consisted chiefly of investigations and determinations concerning methods, quantities and feasibility of numerous plans; the commission, the architects, and the engineers working independently upon their segregated duties and together matching and adjusting the various proposed features to the possibilities and limitations of the others. Thus there is being perfected by a process of study, design and approximation a final set of plans which will come before the management of the Pennsylvania Railroad for final approval, and upon which the work of construction will then actively proceed.

Public interest will center largely upon the terminal structures in New York and their contents, for they will form the visible terminal, even though the engineering, the operative and general railroad functions, more important from the standpoint of cost and complexity, will be really known and appreciated only by the few who are technically interested. While this New York terminal will to the general public undoubtedly be chiefly marked by the architectural features which in the hands of Messrs. McKim, Mead and White, will possess a superiority in keeping with the character of the entire undertaking, it will nevertheless contain much of interest to engineers through the mechanical and electrical equipment with which it will be supplied, comprising heating, ventilation, lighting; passenger, freight and baggage elevator service; telegraph, telephone and pneumatic tube service; refrigeration, hot water, cooled water for drinking supply; fire protection and many other features serving a structure which will be almost a city within itself.

Almost as part of, yet quite distinct from the building, will be the terminal proper, of which a general idea may be gained from the fact that the area of some 1,800 by 500 feet, between 9th and 7th avs, will need be excavated to a depth of some 40 or 50 feet, and no foundations therein will rise to what corresponds to a train shed in other terminals, with its multiplicity of terminal tracks, cross-overs, platforms, wating rooms, ticket offices, and other paraphernalia of a great railway station, together with the intricate switch and signal systems, by which the train movements are regulated, and the whole purpose for which the terminal is built is controlled.

Charges Against the Aqueduct Commission.

Last July the Merchants' Association of New York City addressed to Mayor Low a statement of facts and circumstances which made it appear that, through the neglect of the Aqueduct Commission, this community was threatened with the possibility of a water famine, against which the existence of that commission is designed to provide. The Mayor replied on the 18th idem, that he had transmitted the communication to the commisioners for their reply, and on July 28th he sent their acknowledgment of the letter, saying that their reply could not be made until the Mayor returned from his vacation, about September 1st, but in point of fact it was not forthcoming until October 25th, after an interval of over three months.

In their communication the commissioners recognized the great necessity of adequate provision for sufficient water supply, but denied that "there had been any wasteful or useless expenditure of money," and implied that all the information necessary to meet the Merchants' representations could have been obtained from them upon application. The Committee on Revision of City Records and Accounts, and Water Supply, of the Merchants' Association of New York, George C. Duval being the chairman of the committee, have returned to the attack, and in a letter just received by the Mayor state as follows:

"We reiterate more particularly our charge that the work at Jerome Park Reservoir has not been prosecuted with even ordinary vigor. It is no answer to this to say that laborers were contending for a shorter day, for in other enterprises sufficient labor has been found, and this was, or should have been, the care of the contractor if ordinary diligence had been ex ercised by the Aqueduct Commission in maintaining a time limit in the contract. The records show that the number of men employed on this work has decreased, so that in April of this year the payrolls evidence a decrease of 25 per cent. from the preceding May.

"At the time of the succession of the present engineer a considerable section of embankment, according to the original plans, was in condition to permit of grading and concrete lining. Within three months after his appointment, however, authority was asked by and accorded to him to make extensive changes in the plans theretofore adopted. By reason of this authority, work has been suspended over a large section of the reservoir, notwithstanding the urgent need of expedition. We assert that the authority of the commission under which such suspension of work has resulted was given without sufficient warrant and upon indefinite statement made by the chief engineer which has proven to be wholly inexact.

"We charge the Aqueduct Commission as constituted on July 15th last, with neglect and misfeasance, both in respect of the New Croton Dam and the Jerome Park Reservoir. Concerning the former (New Croton Dam) we make specifications of their failure to fix a time limit for the radical changes in the plans which they ordered; the advocacy of, if not connivance at, improper letting of highway construction to the contractor for the dam; their failure to present the city's side of the case to the corporation counsel; the manifest impropriety of allowing the work of road-making, even within the contract, to be charged for at prices fixed for earth and rock excavation of a distinct and very much more difficult character; and their neglect to have contemporaneous work performed that is necessary to be done before the dam can be effective. Concerning the latter (Jerome Park Reservoir) we make each and every representation in our communication of July 15th, and in this communication a distinct and separate specification. We call upon you accordingly to cite the said Aqueduct Commission to show cause why they should not be removed."

New York Legislation at Albany.

Senator Marshall (Rep., Kings) introduced, Thursday, a bill to modify the Tenement House Law, so far as it relates to Brooklyn. This is in line with the Governor's Message on that point. It is rumored that the Governor went into a deep meditation when he heard from Brooklyn one night last November, and that this is one of the results of it. More building is expected in Brooklyn next season. The bill makes the law applicable to buildings containing four families, instead of three, as at present; mitigates the provisions requiring fireproof bulkheads; raises from 70 to 75 per cent. the space on a lot to be occupied by the main building; cuts down the required size of inner courts; strikes out the required dimensions of yards or shafts upon which windows are to open; amends the provision requiring light in public hallways all night, so as to compel them only until 10 P. M.; lowers the required height of basement dwelling-rooms from seven feet to six, and omits the requirements of a board of health permit for residence use of basements.

One of the measures proposed by Comptroller Grout for improving the municipal financial system was introduced yesterday by Senator Elsberg. It revises the sinking fund law so as to prevent the unnecessary accumulation of funds.

A bill drafted by the Bronx Tenement House Bureau as the outcome of a mass meeting of taxpayers, was introduced Friday by Assemblyman Ellis. As it stands it will permit the erection of three and four story one-family-on-a-floor houses by narrowing the courts so as to get sufficiently large rooms to make such apartments readily rentable. It is asserted that in the borough of the Bronx the present tenement house restrictions have lowered the investments in buildings from $12,000,000 in 1901 to $3,000,000 in 1902.

Bronx Does Not Like It.

The prevailing sentiment in the Bronx upon the new assessment borders on the furious, if the following is a fair sample: "Insane as is the assessment roll of 1903, viewed from the standpoint of percentages of increase, the per capita comparison rises to an even higher pitch of craziness." We quote from a local paper of the borough: "Manhattan, Brooklyn, Bronx; per capita assessment, 612, 156, 485. Did anything wilder ever emanate from a madman's brain? Manhattan, with its aggregated wealth exceeding anything known elsewhere in America or perhaps in Europe; Brooklyn, with its scores of millionaires, its banks, trust companies, and other wealthy corporations, and miles of dwellings, flats, hotels and valuable office buildings; the Bronx, the home-seekers' borough, with no hotels, few or no office buildings, no palatial apartment houses, and containing only the residences of the plain people; the comparison might be extended into columns without making it more complete."

Mr. Stewart's Methods at the Midland Hotel, Manchester.

Mr. J. C. Stewart, the American contractor who, with British labor only, caused considerable talk by the rapidity with which the work in connection with the building of the huge Westinghouse Works at Manchester, Eng., was carried out, has been doing similar quick work on the new Midland Hotel at Manchester. The work has been carried out entirely by British contractors and British labor. Mr. Stewart undertook to have the hotel, which is to be the largest in the kingdom outside of London, roofed in by May, 1903, but already the roof is in position, and the whole of the vast building entirely closed in and the scaffolding removed. Before Mr. Stewart assumed direction of the works it was thought that this new Midland Hotel could not be got ready for occupancy under two years (possibly three), but next summer is the date now fixed. It is said that Stewart has been asked to pull down St. James's Hall, London, and erect on its site the much talked-of new hotel.

Floyd S. Corbin was the broker in the resale for Sol. L. Kaye of No. 104 West 45th st, a 3-sty and basement private residence, 21.6x75.5, recently acquired at auction.

Henry Merritt, Jr., was the broker in the sale of Nos. 425 and 427 West 17th st, reported last week.

Nicholas F. Walsh was the broker in the sale of No. 49 Madison st to the Rev. Jas. B. Curry, pastor of St. James' Roman Catholic Church.

The Harmonie Club has obtained an option of purchase of $350,000 on the plot, 75x100, on the south side of 60th st, 125 feet east of 5th av, from the Van Norden Trust Company. The organization will erect a new clubhouse if it decides to exercise its option, which expires on Monday next.

Louis Sherry has for some time been in negotiation for the purchase of the new hotel which was to have been erected on the famous Paran Stevens estate property, at the southeast corner of 5th av and 44th st, by the syndicate which bought it. Nothing as to the deal has been made public hitherto. It has now completely fallen through, and the probability is that a 2-sty taxpayer, with stores, to cost $100,000 or $125,000, will be erected. It is believed that such a structure would rent for $100,000 a year.

The Century Realty Co., Percival W. Clement, of Vermont, and others constitute the syndicate which bought this property. It stands in the name of Richard M. Montgomery & Co. It has a frontage of half the block on 5th av, and 150 feet on the street.

The great growth and wonderful success of the Trust Co. of America is shown by the following figures from a recent statement: Undivided profits at end of first year, June 30, 1900, reached $216,626; at end of second year, June 30, 1901, they were $342,122; at end of third year they amounted to $534,050, and at the end of 3½ years, on Dec. 31, 1902, they aggregated $650,-028. Besides the above six dividends, amounting together to $525,000, have been paid to stockholders, and $93,554—expenses of organization and equipment—paid and charged off.

The Trust Company of America, of which Ashbel P. Fitch is president, reports that during the three and a-half years which have elapsed since the beginning of the company's business, the total undivided profits were $650,028.52. During these three and one-half years the company has from its profits paid and charged off the books all of its expenses of organization and equipment, including the cost of its vaults, furniture and fixtures, amounting together to $93,554.09. It has paid six dividends to its stockholders, each of $87,500, amounting together to $525,000. An excellent showing.

M. Lindheim & Co. and Ranald H. Macdonald were the brokers in the sale for Elizabeth A. Wilcox to Edward H. Litchfield, of the Arlington apartment hotel, a new 11-sty fireproof structure, on plot 50x98.9, on the south side of 25th st, just west of Broadway, and adjoining the Hoffman House. In part payment Mr. Litchfield gave the entire block front (700 feet) on the south side of 2d st, Brooklyn, between 8th and 9th avs, together with the southwest corner of 2d st and 8th av, Brooklyn, a plot 100x100. The Brooklyn properties have been sold through Howard C. Pyle, of Leonard, Moody & Co., to a recently organized corporation, of which ex-Senator William H. Reynolds is president.

The Committee on Sites reported that it had secured the following: Jennings st and Ritter pl, the Bronx, for a playground of public school No. 84, Brooklyn, on Stone av and Watkins st; for an addition to public school No. 83, Manhattan, on East 109th st; for a new school on 18th and 19th sts, near Sixth ave, Brooklyn, to relieve public schools No. 10 and 107; for a new school on Middagh st and Cranberry st, Brooklyn, to relieve public schools Nos. 1 and 8; for an addition to public school No. 26, Brooklyn, on Quincy st; for an addition to public school No. 57, Brooklyn, on the west side of Reid av; for an addition to public school No. 131, Manhattan, on 2d st, between Avenues C and D. A resolution to acquire a site on Hicks, Orange and Cranberry sts, Brooklyn, was rescinded.

A resolution to acquire a site on the corner of Sixth av and 18th st, Brooklyn, was also rescinded. The site selected would have cost $76,000. Mr. Greenia, chairman of the local board, obtained options on property 150 by 200 feet, a short distance away, and running through from street to street, the cost of which is $32,750.

In the Courts.

It has sometimes been at least doubtful if the fees claimed by commissioners in the matter of assessing damages were fairly due. The Appellate Division now decides that it is not sufficient in every instance to merely state in the records that an "executive session" has been held; the minutes must furnish proof that the compensation claimed has been honestly earned. The case in question was that of the commissioners in the matter of acquiring title to East 238th street. The minutes of the commissioners, the court held, by Justice O'Brien, were entirely too meagre to show either that the work alleged to have been performed was necessarily called for, or that the commissioners were actually engaged at such times in the work for which they were appointed. "It should not be difficult," said Justice O'Brien, "where proper business of the commission is duly performed, to show that fact; and the bare statement that a meeting was held and commissioners were present is insufficient to show that the meeting was one for which compensation is due. In such case, therefore, no allowance should be made." It is proper, however, for the commissioners to fix dates for meetings, and where they attend, and through no fault of their own they are prevented from performing their duties, they will be entitled to compensation. For instance, when adjournments are granted for good cause, either on the motion of the Corporation Counsel or the property owners. The holding of executive sessions, Justice O'Brien said, was a course resorted to in a number of proceedings for no other purpose except to unduly increase the costs. "That executive sessions may be necessary," continued the justice, "and that the commissioners have a right to attend them and charge therefor, we grant; but where the number is out of all proportion to the questions of area of land involved, they cannot be sanctioned, nor can charges therefor be sustained. And we think that the mere statement that an executive session was hld is an insufficient showing of its nature and necessity."

The execution, after the issuance of a policy of fire insurance on premises owned by certain infants, of a contract for the sale of such premises, which contract is expressly made subject to the approval of the court, is not such a change in the "interest, title or possession" of the premises as will, in the event of the destruction of the premises by fire before the contract has been approved by the court or has been actually carried out, prevent a recovery upon the policy under a clause thereof providing that it shall be void "if any change, other than hy the death of an insured, take place in the interest, title or possession of the subject of insurance."

Semble, that there is no distinction between the terms "change of interest" and "change of title," used in the clause in question. The fact that after the fire, the insured succeed in selling the premises for the price at which they had contracted to sell them will not prevent them from recovering from the insurance company, under the policy, the damage caused by the fire to the buildings insured by that policy. (Tiemann v. Citizens' Insurance Co., 76 App. Div., 5.)

Material Market.

CEMENT AND BRICK.

It is midwinter; snow has long covered the countryside, the rivers are locked with ice; the weather is strangly severe, and the building business is inactive as a general condition.

Although but little cement is required for immediate use, the demand for future delivery—and here is the important fact under this head—is phenomenal; greater than we have ever before known it to be at this season. Dealers are not the heavy buyers as they have fair stocks; the orders rather represent the provision that is being made for innumerable contracts to be started in the spring.

If the point of view were only the cement market, one would have no doubt at all of the sufficiency of building operations during the coming season. The Portland mills are working furiously, confident now of selling all they can possibly produce for a year, and quotations have no disposition to shrink.

Brick is in a state of repose. The river from whose long shores comes the supply is absolutely closed to navigation. As no cargoes at all are coming to town, the price list should soon show a quickening spirit; in ten days the surplus at the docks should be conquered, even under the present light pressure.

On account of there being no quorum, the annual meeting of the Association of Brick Manufacturers and Agents called to be held at Newburgh, on Wednesday, was postponed, and the assemblage resolved itself into an unofficial conference. Thirty-eight members appeared during the afternoon, and among these it was agreed that the best interests of the Hudson River brick industry required the continuance of at least the form of an organization. The following officers hold over: William K. Hammond, of New York City, president; Robert Main, of Saugerties, vice-president; John B. Rose, of Newburgh, treasurer; Robert C. Boyd, of New York, secretary. Directors: Everett Fowler, Horatio N. Wood and Lucien H. Washburn, of Haverstraw; Homer S. Ramsdell and William Lahey, of Newburgh; Chas. A. Schultz and Albert Terry, of Rondout; Jerome Walsh, of Stockport; Geo. W. Washburn, of Saugerties, and Fred. W. Bartlett, of Hudson.

The brick men occupied the private dining room and discussed matters pertaining to their buisness until 5 o'clock. Labor prices, the increasing demand for concrete and the lessening demand for bricks were some of the topics.

A SUGGESTION.

There is one subject to which we think attention might be given with large resulting profit. In stating the proposition briefly, we can begin with the following premises:

The business of manufacturing brick for this market is carried on almost exclusively within the bounds of this State. It is an enterprise upon which many of the citizens of New York State depend for a livelihood in a greater or less degree, and it is important, not alone to the people of the Hudson Valley, where the manufacturing is carried on, but also to thousands of mechanics engaged in certain building trades in New York City, that the brick business at both ends should prosper.

We have at the present time a Governor whose sympathies are especially sensitive to the interests of the Hudosn River Valley, he being a son of Orange County. Together with the other officers of the State, including the Legislature, he could do a great deal for brick if the importance of it to the State, and especially to the Hudson River folk, and to the building trades of Greater New York, were presented to him in a proper light. So, too, could the city administration. In State enactments and city ordinances, in municipal plans and specifications, a great deal more could be done for brick than is. Is the point apparent?

Here then is something for the Association of Brickmakers to aim at. Let them train their gun on that. Demand that brick as a New York State product shall be preferred. This is the best work that the association can do: exerting an influence.

The only other report of new interest from up the valley this week relates to a new company organized for the purpose of exploiting a patent brickmaking machine. A young woman is said to have had no little success in finding purchasers of the stock at $1 a share.

STONE.

The Sweeney Bluestone Co. of Saugerties, have recently secured contracts in New York that will keep their yard and mill busy until January, 1904. The new contracts amount to $200,000. The company expect to ship as soon as the river opens 2,500 tons of stone each week; or a boat load each day. The mill will resume work in a few days.

Stone cutters to the number of twenty-nine, representing unions in Newark, N. J., Oxford, N. Y., Norwich, N. Y., Nicholson, Pa., Kingston, N. Y., and Saugertles, N. Y., held a convention in the Savings Bank Hall in Saugerties last Saturday. A scale of wages for the year was fixed, and officers elected.

GLASS.

Signs of a revolt against the exactness of the dominating influences in this trade appear. With the number of window-glass workers in the country far short of what is required to man the factories, yet able to produce more glass than there is need for, an extraordinary condition exists. The manufacturers are virtually subordinate to one of the strongest unions alive, but in turn they dictate terms to the jobbing association that cannot well be appealed from. Around all is a high tariff wall, and it is against this that the assault is directed. A petition which is in charge of Congressman Henry C. Smith, of Michigan, is being circulated through the West among florists, and will doubtless soon make its appearance in the East, pledging unanimity of action on their part to bring about the abolishing of the tariff on window glass. The florists are among the largest consumers, but in the economy of the average man glass has not been a very important subject. It becomes important to the building contractor when he considers it as one of those things which costs a great deal more than it ought, and makes owners hesitate and put off the day of building.

IRON AND STEEL.

The consumption of structural steel is expected to be exceedingly large this year, but the inconvenient shortage of last spring and summer is not expected to recur. For the present a fairly good demand prevails, but not such as to countenance the prices and terms which have hitherto ruled; therefore buyers find the market better suited to their necessities. Small trouble is experienced in getting good deliveries on all except a few sizes.

All steel sheets and all galvanized sheets, while there is no appreciable difference in the list, are yet stiffer at those prices, and business taken for more than thirty or perhaps sixty days is scarcely desirable.

The turn of the year has made a better demand for tin plate, and with this start a steadily increasing business is expected. Copper continues its upward movement, and spelter has retraced its steps somewhat and is now selling for 30 or 40 cents per hundred weight or about $6 a ton.

The plate pool met on Thursday at the Holland House here, and reaffirmed existing prices. Plates are in great demand.

OF INTEREST TO IMPORTERS.

No complaint has been heard of late against the ruling of the Board of General Appraisers in the case affecting all imports of iron and steel. It will be remembered that in the case upon which the decision was rendered, a Philadelphia firm had occasion to import a thousand tons of steel billets from that country. Under the Dingley tariff, the duty on steel billets, of the value of one cent a pound or less, is three-tenths of a cent per pound; but, if the value of the billets is between one cent and one and one-quarter cents, the duty is four-tenths of a cent per pound. The Dingley tariff further provides that the duty shall be calculated upon "the actual market value or wholesale price of such merchandise at the time of exportation to the United States in the principal markets of the country from which the same has been imported." The importers in this case, who had paid eight-tenths of a cent per pound for the whole consignment of 1,000 tons, thought that this fact afforded evidence as to what was the wholesale price of billets at the time when they were bought, and in the market in which they purchased them, and prepared themselves to pay the duty of 37 per cent. But when the cargo arrived at Philadelphia the custom house officers had evidence before them that, though the billets had actually been sold to the Philadelphia importers at eight-tenths of a cent a pound, were really worth one and one-thirtieth cents per pound. This discovery brought with it the conclusion that the billets came under the second category of the Dingley law and were liable to a duty of four-tents of a cent per pound, or 50 per cent. of the actual cost. In order to impress the circumstances on the minds of the people interested, a penal duty was imposed, in addition to the enhancement of the original duty, so that the importers, instead of $2,000 which they had expected to contribute to the treasury of their country, were compelled to pay $4,550. The importers contended in vain that the price of one and on-thirtieth cents per pound, which the officials took to be the wholesale price of such steel in Germany, was simply the quotation for small lots, large transactions in steel billets being unusual in Germany, where all the rolling-mills and other large consumers make their own steel. Under this view, the price which the custom house officials had heard of was really the retail price, and the wholesale price mentioned in the Dingley Act might fairly be considered to be somewhere near that at which the wholesale transaction was made.

A request at the New York Custom House by the Record and Guide for a further elucidation of the matter elicited merely formal statements to the effect that the basis of value always has been not what any individual may say, but what the quotations on that day show.

"If you will read Section 2," continued the officer, "you will see that it is required to give the actual cost of the goods in the place of purchase, and in case they are consigned and not purchased, then it is required to give the actual market value or wholesale price, at the place of export." Further than to indicate other sections of the law touching on the same point, he had no new information to offer. But it is significant that the department has not been compelled to revise its decision in the original case, and all imports of iron and steel, including structural material, have since been made on that basis.

Labor Problems.

President John Noll, of the Master House Painters' and Decorators' Association, says that scarcely one-quarter of the master painters yielded to the demands of the Amalgamated Union when they made the strike for the present scale last spring. It would appear then that the wages of painters are to a considerable extent a matter of personal negotiation. Affairs between the Brotherhood and the Amalgamated unions are quiet, but the president of the Amalgamated has intimated that his union will continue to insist on the recognition of its wage scale at every opportunity.

A conflict that threatened for a day to bring on a general strike of housesmiths was settled on Monday night. About five hundred machine and iron riggers who are affiliated with the Housesmiths' and Bridgemen's Union went on strike early last week against the Elevator Constructors, whose delegate had been discharged from the central body last spring. Irregularities on the part of the elevator men, involving wages among other things, provoked the riggers to action, and they appealed to the Housesmiths' and Bridgemen's Union to support them. A general strike of housesmiths would have been a serious matter, affecting, as it would, every structure, building or bridge in course of erection with iron or steel. Pending a decision by the smiths, work came to a standstill on a number of buildings on Saturday, including the large office building in Battery place, the Baird Building, at Spring st and Broadway; two office buildings at 14th st and 5th av, and at No. 476 Broadway. On Monday night a general settlement was effected by reinstating the Elevator Constructors' Union in the central body, after receiving certain assurances.

The State Workingmen's Federation is not to be criticised for putting a representative on guard in the lobby of the Legislature. The builders of New York were recently advised by a prominent member of the Legislature from up the State that they would find it to their advantage to give closer attention to matters at Albany. The Executive Board of the State Workingmen's Federation met at Albany this week and commissioned James A. Lavery, a resident of Poughkeepsie, as their representative at Albany, with instructions to watch certain bills, among which are the following of interest to metropolitan real estate and building interests:

For a constitutional amendment giving the Legislature the right to enact laws regulating the hours, wages and conditions of State and municipal employes and employes of contractors doing work for the State and municipalities.

Amendments to the factory inspection law, providing that four deputy factory inspectors shall be metal polishers, and extending the provisions of the present law to cover the metal polishing industry.

Making it illegal to procure an injunction against picketing in case of strike until after the union has had an opportunity to be heard in court.

Prohibiting the employment of women or minors for more than 10 hours per day or more than six hours on the sixth day of the week.

Granting extra pay for overtime and Sunday work by employes of the street cleaning department in New York city.

Providing for the licensing and registration of all master steam and hot-water fitters.

The work on the City Hall improvements are now proceeding with a full force of union mechanics in all departments. Mr. Thos. Wood, president of the surety company, now stands in the relation of general contractor, and the city looks to him for the faithful performance of the work.

Coal is to be free of duty for only a year, but Congress may like the plan so well as to continue it indefinitely.

Simon I. Schwartz and A. Gross, architects, have opened an office at No. 160 5th av, under the firm name of Schwartz & Gross.

Postmaster-General Payne and Attorney-General Knox are expected here the first of the week to select a site for the new postoffice. The Government realizes that the matter can no longer be delayed, if anything at all is to be done by the present Congress.

The American Grass Twine Company, having filed a mortgage of $600,000 in the Queens County Clerk's office, to the Continental Trust Company, of New York City, as trustee, to secure an issue of 600 ten-year 6 per cent. gold bonds, the company will commence the construction of a large factory at Glendale, L. I.

The Barclay estate has begun tearing down the old building at the southwest corner of Broadway and Duane st. When the remaining leases expire, on Feb. 1, the entire building will be demolished and work will be begun on the 18-sty building which, as previously reported, the estate will erect on the plot.

The plans for the new building to be erected by the Hudson Realty Company on the site of the old Union Clubhouse show an 11-sty loft building, having a facing of Indiana limestone, with granite columns, for the first three stories, and light-colored brick above. The building will be equipped with three passenger and three freight elevators, and automatic sprinklers.

Edward Margolies, of No. 1 West 115th st, formerly a builder, has filed a petition in bankruptcy, with liabilities $220,362 and no assets. Of the liabilities $190,000 are secured by bond and mortgages, made in 1898 to the Germania Life Insurance Company, $120,000; Francis and James Crawford, $40,000; and Edward H. Watson & Brother, $30,000. The unsecured liabilities are $30,362 for building materials, $3,000 for legal services, and $500 on an excise bond.

For the cure of smoky chimneys, owners, agents and builders say, they find the Excelsior Fire Clay Chimney Top just the thing. John D. Karst, Jr., of No. 2051 8th av; C. H. Darmstadt, No. 229 West 116th st; J. J. Devoe, No. 310 East 18th st, and Chas. R. Bulwinkle, 124th st and Columbus av, are a few of very many who have used the device. Mr. Herman Joveshof, manager, No. 326 West 40th st, will send circulars and prices, and make free examination of faulty chimneys.

The Equitable Building, Boston, which was partially destroyed by fire on January 9th, will be entirely rewired by Sargent, Conant & Co. of that city, who had a crew of men at work making temporary connections within 20 minutes after the fire was under control. As an example of modern commercial methods it may be noted that this company, whose old offices were entirely gutted, was transacting business in new quarters with a complete office equipment, telephone service, etc., in less than 24 hours after the fire was extinguished.

Joseph H. Rose, president of the Rose Brick Company, of Roseton, has left with his wife for a year's tour. They will first see the West Indies and then journey through Europe. The day before their departure from home Mr. Rose was presented with a loving cup appropriately inscribed, the presentation taking place in the assembly room at the works, in the presence of a large number of the village people. During the absence of the president of the company John B. Rose, who is the president of the John B. Rose Company, of New York, will also attend to the management of the yards at Roseton.

Mr. Peter C. Spence, C. E., formerly examining engineer of the Department of Buildings, and lately consulting engineer for John J. Radley & Co., has associated himself with Hugh J. Lawler, manufacturer of structural and ornamental iron work, with offices and plant at Park av and 132d st. The new firm will be known as Lawler & Spence, and will continue business at the above address. The firm which has recently enlarged their plant have better facilities for turning out work promptly, and will endeavor to maintain their reputation in that respect. Estimates will be cheerfully furnished; telephone 983 Harlem.

The largest contract yet awarded for kalameined iron-clad woodwork has been given to the Manhattan Fireproof Door Co., who will supply the doors, sash, window frames and wainscoting for the mammoth Barclay building, to be erected on the southwest corner of Broadway and Duane st, by Marc Eidlitz & Son, contractors, after plans by S. B. Colt. Other recent contracts by the Manhattan Fireproof Door Co. include work at No. 620 5th av for J. C. Lyons, No. 414 5th av for John Downey, Broome and Greene sts for R. Berger, architect; Duryea country house at Westbury, L. I., for Harvey Murdock, contractor, and at 53d st & East River for Blomo Mfg. Co. The well equipped and commodious factory and office of the Manhattan Fireproof Door Co., are located at Nos. 412 and 414 East 125th st.

Narrow or Wide Flooring.

A lumber concern in the Northwest has recently made a number of tests to demonstrate the relative advantages and cost of narrow and wide flooring, especially in the matter of shrinkage. They claim to have demonstrated that the wider the board the greater the shrinkage and the wider the opening, and as a consequence the narrower the board the less the shrinkage and the smaller the opening. The narrower the board the more the tongue or lap divides the shrinkage. The narrower the board and the more the spring the quicker it is possible to make a matching, and the narrower boards are laid faster. In the narrow boards the grade defects are smaller. The narrower the boards the less the waste in cutting and trimming. In covering a certain amount of space it requires a little more of the narrower stock, but the differences are easily made up in saving of waste in cutting and trimming.

The company have made a number of experiments to determine the cost of putting on the narrower widths as compared with the wider. Two carpenters were employed to cover the same amount of space with the different widths of dressed and matched stock, on studding 16 inches apart. The results enabled the company to accurately figure the comparative cost. The first test was on blind nailing flooring and showed that the total cost per 1,000 feet for laying the 4-inch was 31 cents more than the 6-inch. As 8-inch stock would have to be double nailed, they estimated that it would cost $1.29 less to lay 4-inch than 8-inch. In a test of single nailing 4-inch, double nailing 6-inch and 8-inch flooring, drop siding and ship-lap, the cost per 1,000 feet was 58 cents less on the narrower width than on the 6-inch and 96 cents less than on the cost of double nailing 8-inch stock with tenpenny nails. In a test for single nailing and double nailing alternate pieces of 4-inch, and double nailing 6-inch and 8-inch drop siding and sheathing the cost per 1,000 feet was only 17 cents more on 4-inch than on 6-inch, and 20 cents less than in double nailing 8-inch stock.

Fireproof Bricks.

DIFFICULT TO LAY DOWN A LAW AS TO WHAT SHOULD CONSTITUTE AN IDEAL FIREPROOF BRICK.

Theoretically, the ordinary types of bricks made by the clayworker are fireproof; but, practically, very few of them are We, of course, exclude perforated bricks in making this statement, says a writer in the British Clayworker. During a conflagration of any magnitude, the inside bricks, especially in partition walls, usually become red-hot. This leads to the expension of each brick concerned, and buckling of the walls commonly results. This effect is minimized where the mortar has been laid on thickly between each brick-course, as the coefficient of expansion of ordinary builders' mortar is not the same as that of the bricks. In the last-mentioned case the mortar is, in the vast majority of instances, ruined by the great heat at an early stage of the conflagration, though if the wall is a thick on the mortar in the interior of the wall may to some extent be preserved. Cement mortar does not seem to be so much affected as ordinary lime mortar. Wher the life of the mortar is sapped, so to speak, the bricks suffer more from the heat, but the greatest amount of damage is done to them by the water from the firemen's hose. The sudden application of cold water to a hot brick frequently has the effect of cracking it, particularly if the operation be of an intermittent character, which is generally the case. In order to test the quality of a brick for fireproofing purposes, therefore, it is desirable, amongst other things, to heat it to as high a temperature as possible, and then plunge it suddenly into a bucket of cold water. It should not be allowed to remain there more than say 10 to 12 seconds, and should then be returned to the retort, or whatever the form of furnace in which it was heated for the experiment. This procedure is rather drastic, and many types of bricks cannot withstand it; but it certainly brings out their relative capacity for endurance under extreme changes in temperature. In watching such experiments it will be noticed that whilst many different kinds of bricks crack and split right across, others will simply have a corner or two removed, and a third may merely exfoliate. In the last-mentioned instance the bricks are usually of very fair quality for the purpose. The sudden application of the water to the red-hot surface produces steam, which in its turn exercises a semi-explosive result at innumerable points on the surface. The accumulation of these points locally leads to "starring" and frequently to serious exfoliation.

It is difficult to lay down a law as to what should constitute an ideal brick for fireproofiing purposes, but it is clear that one that does not become red-hot quickly, and which does not expand much, should fall into the first rank. At the same time the brick must be strong, especially for the construction of buildings in which much iron work is employed. For, whilst it is in itself being severely tested during a conflagration, the brick has frequently to bear the brunt of an attack from the iron girders. These latter expand very much during conflagration, and though when properly built up an allowance is made for this, they are apt to buckle and exert enormous strain on parts of the wall not designed for such contingencies.

Bricks that are not protected in any way by fireproofing materials, and upon which reliance is solely placed, ought not to be of a soft character except for small buildings where there is no likelihood of a very high temperature arising during a fire. The reason we make this exception is that they are less liable to great expansion during the fire, though they must first have been thoroughly well burnt in the kiln. We exclude nearly all fire bricks from these observations.

Painting a Floor.

Very frequently a painter may be asked to paint a floor, and in many cases is instructed as to the color, and other little matters. In the case of the floor being one that is to be done with oil point, and to have much wear, the painter should select such coloring substances of certain earthy matters only, because the use of white lead for such a purpose is an error that should be avoided.

Many will advocate the use of lead in painting floors because of its supreme density and body, under the mistaken idea that density adds to its wearing quality. As a matter of fact no oil paint will stand less wear than white lead or colors composed largely of white lead. It simply covers the surface, and is one of the best paints employed to protect woodwork where there is no great wear.

Ochres make the best wearing paints, and they may be applied in several ways. They may be mixed with the oil, and applied with a brush in the usual manner, or they may be applied when mixed with hot stale beer and glue water, and when dry two coats of oil may be laid on thinly with a good strong brush, and, if properly done, the work will be lasting and satisfactory.

Care must be taken that the floor is perfectly clean and dry before the color is applied, and if the latter is mixed with oil, the floor should receive two coats, both of which should be well brushed in.

With new floors certain stains may be applied, and give satisfactory results without any sizing. When water stains are used they can be allowed to thoroughly sink in, and should then be varnished.

Suicide of a Builder.

The building trades heard with regret on Thursday of the death of William H. Port, of Williamsburgh, by his own hand. Worriments over a series of setbacks in business were more than he could bear, and undoubtedly affected his mind. Other than this there was no cause. Friends recently went over his accounts and found him solvent, but he had in course of erection two public schools in Brooklyn and one in Blissville, and he several times told his wife he feared he would not be able to finish the Blissville school within contract time. Some time ago his shop at Norman av and Russell st was destroyed by fire.

Mr. Port, besides being prominent in the Williamsburgh building circles, was a director in the Seventeenth Ward Bank and a member of the Hanover Club, and the Board of Trade. He was 47 years old, and had lived in the Williamsburgh section nearly all his life. His wife and an adopted daughter survive him. On Thursday morning after breakfast, while alone in the dining rooom of his home, at No. 643 Lorimer st, he cut his throat with a razor. The business of a builder has become a formidable and trying one in this great city; the risks are large and the rewards scarcely adequate.

Mechanical Featu_ of the Ansonia.

The structural work of the Ansonia apartment house, just completed, is an interesting study in mechanics. The building extends from 73d st to 74th st, on Broadway, and has seventeen stories above the street. Above the third floor the street fronts are faced with cream-colored brick, trimmed with light terra cotta to match the Indiana limestone that composes the exterior walls of the first three stories. The cream-colored brick is backed up with red brick laid in cement mortar.

The columns are cast iron and the I-beams are steel. At the thirteenth floor a steel framework projects to support the cornice. The mansard roof, which begins at the fifteenth floor, curves from the top of the outer walls to the flat upper deck, requiring an intricate system of curved rafters. The bay windows, stone balconies, projecting courses and massive cornices are other striking features. The ground area, 37,000 square feet, when multiplied by the height of the building, gives over 8,000,000 cubic feet as the contents. The house contains over 350 suites of rentable apartments, and about 1,300 people is the possible regular tenancy.

The floors, which are of Roebling cinder-concrete arch construction, will bear a load of 125 lbs. per square foot, are covered with white pine, except some public rooms, which are paved. The plastering of the ceilings is on wire netting attached to suspended steel jurying of the Roebling system. The main stairway from cellar to roof occupies a separate steel tower. There are four large light courts roofed over at the second floor level. Terra cotta is generously employed; the window heads and sills and a number of balconies are composed of terra cotta, as well as the main cornice.

Builders Going to Washington.

On Tuesday, the 27th inst., a party composed of members of the Builders' League and their wives are going on a visit to Washington, headed by President John P. Leo. The return will be on Saturday the 31st. Doubtless it will be a very pleasant occasion.

A Fairly Healthy Corporation.

The annual report of the F. A. Hyde Tiling Company, just filed in the office of the Secretary of State, shows liabilities not exceeding seven dollars.

A Question and Its Answer.

(1) Will you kindly inform us what architects usually charge for drawing plans and specifications, and supervising the construction of a new building? (2) What part of this charge is for drawing plans and specifications, and what part for supervising? (3) Also kindly inform us what reduction would be made, if the building was never commenced, but the plans and specifications were drawn? (4) What would be the charge for drawing plans and specifications for alterations to an old building, and what would be the reduction if the alterations were never commenced?

Answer.—(1) A usual charge is 5 per cent. of the cost of the building. Some architects charge more. (2) For plans and specifications, 2½ per cent. For supervising, 2½ per cent. (3) The answer to the second question contains the answer to this. (4) Ten per cent. is the usual charge for alterations.

CONVEYANCES.

Whenever the letters Q. C., C. a. G. and B. & S. occur, preceded by the name of the grantee, they mean as follows:

1st.—Q. C. is an abbreviation for Quit Claim deed, i. e., a deed wherein all the right, title and interest of the grantor is conveyed, omitting all covenants or warranty.

2d.—C. a. G. means a deed containing Covenant against Grantor only, in which he covenants that he hath not done any act whereby the estate conveyed can be impeached, charged or encumbered.

3d.—B. & S. is an abbreviation for Bargain and Sale deed, wherein, although the seller makes no express covenants, he really grants or conveys the property for a valuable consideration, and thus impliedly claims to be the owner of it. The street and avenue numbers given in these lists are, in all cases, taken from the Insurance maps when they are not mentioned in the deeds. The numbers, it will occasionally be found, do not correspond with the existing ones, owing to there having been no official designation made of them by the Department of Public Works.

4th.—The first date is the date the deed was drawn. The second date is the date of filing. When both dates are the same, only one is given.

5th.—The figures in each conveyance, thus, 2:482, denote that the property is in section 2 block 482.

6th.—It should also be noted in section and block numbers, the instrument as filed is strictly followed.

MORTGAGES.

NOTE.—The arrangement of this list is as follows: The first name is that of the mortgagor, the next that of the mortgagee. The description of the property then follows, then the date of the mortgage, the time for which it was given, and the amount. The general dates used as bead lines are the dates when the mortgage was handed into the Register's office to be recorded.

Whenever the letters "P. M." occur, preceded by the name of a street, in these lists of mortgages, they mean that it is a Purchase Money Mortgage, and for fuller particulars see the list of transfers under the corresponding date.

The first date is the date the mortgage is drawn, the second the date of filing; when both dates are the same only one is given.

Subscribers will find mortgages in this list with the wrong block number attached. The block number we give is taken from the instrument as filed.

Mortgages against Bronx property will be found altogether at the foot of this list.

January 9, 10, 12, 13, 14 and 15.

MORTGAGES.

NOTE.—The arrangement of this list is as follows: The first name is that of the mortgagor, the next that of the mortgagee. The description of the property then follows, then the date of the mortgage, the time for which it was given and the amount. The general dates used as head lines are the dates when the mortgage was handed into the Register's office to be recorded.

Whenever the letters "P. M." occur, preceded by the name of a street, in these lists of mortgages, they mean that it is a Purchase Money Mortgage, and for fuller particulars see the list of transfers under the corresponding date.

OUR stock and bond market drags in a very unsatisfactory way. Whether they fear that the Venezuelan incident will develop mischievous tendencies, or that the interval between the year-end and the spring demand for money will be too short to give sufficient permanence to easy rates for their purpose, the buying public holds aloof. Under such circumstances values are likely to suffer, because, while the market is left so entirely to professionals, action is likely to be more on the short than the long side, and any unpleasant news is sure to be used as an excuse for attacking prices. So far this week there has been just enough support to prevent a break, and the absence of anything in the shape of forced liquidation has deprived the bears of material on which to work. A clearing of the Venezuelan situation should help the market. There is a moderate amount of investment buying which would be greater but for the scarcity of the goods. A considerable proportion of this buying does not appear in the published returns, because it is largely counter business. When a house has a block of investments for sale it generally has a place for them, and does not have to go on to the Exchange to dispose of them in ones, fives, tens, and so on as was at one time necessary. Consequently sales made in this way do not get reported in the newspapers. This manner of doing business in investments is growing, as the investment houses have got into the practice of keeping up active intercommunications through men specially engaged for the purpose of looking after bond business. It follows that a good deal may be doing of which the surface presents no sign. Still, comparatively speaking, business in Wall Street, taken altogether, is dull, revealing a lack of interest in securities that is not of good augury. There is, however, nothing the matter with the general business situation, a fact by no means inconsistent with dulness in the stock market. The easier condition of money in Europe and the continued foreign demand for cereals are reassuring as to the movements of gold, and if the public could be assured that they have nothing to fear from politics, home or foreign, and that money would remain available even if rates should continue relatively high, they would be buyers of listed securities.

IT is within the probabilities that the Bank of England discount rate will be reduced before long. Money in London and elsewhere in Europe is distinctly easy, and should this continue the bank will not be able to maintain its present relatively high rate in the face of competition from other centres. What delays the reduction of the rate is the necessity the bank is under of making itself strong prior to the announcement of the coming loan. Similar reasons account for steady official rates at other points. While New York is speculating upon the likelihood of American participation in both the British and the German loans, London and Berlin are figuring upon their own likelihood of sharing in the new issues of capital that some of our great railroads will make in the coming spring, notably Pennsylvania. These expectations and the increasing ease in money are having some influence upon the security markets; the effect is moderate so far, but it is in the direction of better values. Opinion in Europe does not incline to the belief that New York will have to ship gold, but rather holds that owing to the larger shipments of grain and a foreign buying of American securities that will ensue with renewed confidence in the general situation, there will be no movement of gold one way or the other. Among matters of interest reported from across the Atlantic is the influence the Marconi experiments are having upon cable investments. One of the financial papers publishes a table containing the prices of fourteen cable securities, all of which have declined in the past year, the losses varying from a fraction to twenty-one and a half points. In the extreme case, doubtless, there were other causes at work, but as the downward movement of prices is so unexceptional, the sentimental effect of the remarkable progress in Marconigraphy is a factor in determining the values of these issues. If certain enthusiastic individuals are correct in their statements, the Transvaal will become eminent as a diamond as well as a gold producer. A field east of Pretoria is now being exploited by a number of companies, whose combined capital amounts to about $4,000,000, and among whose stocks one has advanced from £1 to £23. From this and other circumstances most glowing results are prophesied. The question of the advisability of discontinuing grants in aid of railroads and other carriers is coming to the front in Canada. Since railroad building began in the territory of our northern neighbor, $250,000,000 of money and 60,000,000 acres of land have been voted as "grants-in-aid." Besides this $100,000,000 have been spent on canals to improve navigation on the St. Lawrence and on the great lakes. There are several pretentious schemes awaiting governmental encouragement, but, while the country has been enterprising in this respect, and has benefited greatly from it, neither of the two great political parties is now inclined to carry the grants-in-aid policy further. The view that the Canadian railroad industry need no longer remain in the nursery, and that it can now maintain itself is held by the many thinking Canadians.
